Satellite 'Tumbling Like an Angry Alligator'

Luckless '9' Finds Target Shrouded

SPACE WALKER CERNAN READY TO GO

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The hard luck Gemini 9 astronauts rocketed into orbit today, caught up with a target satellite after a 75,000-mile chase in space and accomplished history's quickest rendezvous of high-flying space vehicles.

Their target, a tiny, barrel-shaped craft launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, still was locked as feared in a protective shroud which should have dropped away when it separated from its Atlas booster rocket.

This meant that Gemini might not be able to hook up with the satellite, because the fibreglass shroud covers part of its docking collar.

"We have a weird-looking machine," command pilot Thomas P. Stafford, veteran of six postponed flights, reported to a ground station in Hawaii as Gemini flew in close formation with the satellite.

Stafford drove Gemini 9 to within 10 feet of the target, but did not want to approach closer because of the potential danger that the shroud might suddenly fly loose.

The shroud, he said, "looks like it's held on by some inconceivable force." It appeared, he added, that explosive bolts which were to have blown the shroud loose from the spacecraft had exploded.

After two heart-breaking scrubs of the mission, a mighty Titan II rocket launched Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan today on a vital flight that could bring the U.S. its second space triumph of the week.

The big highlight was to come Saturday, when Cernan climbs out of the Gemini cabin and drifts for 2½ hours as a human satellite—the longest of man's "space walks."

"The clamshells are on but they are open wide," Stafford said as Gemini 9 moved close to the satellite. "It looks like an angry alligator."

If it had separated correctly, the bolts would have split the shroud in two halves shaped like clamshells. Then springs were to have kicked the two pieces loose.

As Mission Control pondered a way to jar the shroud loose, Stafford suggested that he manoeuvre Gemini close and try to nudge it off with a docking bar on the Gemini nose.

"It's hard to see what's holding it together," Stafford reported later. "The only thing holding it together are those small wires that go to the explosive bolts.

Whole Thing Might Fall Apart

"Possibly if we go in and tap it, the whole thing may fall apart," Stafford said.

Command pilot Stafford, skilfully guiding the little spacecraft through a series of intricate manoeuvres, gained swiftly on the target after the Gemini launch in the morning.

In 2½ hours, he had closed the gap to 30 miles from 640 and had adjusted his once-elliptical orbit into a nearly-perfect circle cose to the path followed by the satellite.

After executing four major orbital changes with bursts of of his jet thrusters, Stafford in the first 2½ hours of the flight closed the distance to the target from 640 to about 125 miles.

He also had shifted the Gemini 9 path into almost a perfect circle 170 miles from the earth. At lunch, the ship had gone into an orbit ranging from 99 to 172 miles.

"For the third time, go!" Stafford said as he sat in the spacecraft poised for the launch.

POWER STRUGGLE?

China Purges Top Official

TOKYO (Reuters)—China today dismissed Peng Chen, mayor of Peking and a leading figure in the Communist hierarchy, from his post as first secretary of the party's Peking committee, Radio Peking reported today.

PENG
. . . dropped from sight

For weeks Peng Chen's subordinates have been criticized in the current campaign against "bourgeois and revisionist" intellectuals. There have been reports that the attacks were really aimed at Peng Chen.

He ranks ninth in the Communist party's ruling politburo.

The radio did not say whether Peng Chen would retain his post as Peking mayor, or his membership in the party's political bureau.

Hsueh-foung Li was named to replace him as the Peking Communist chief.

Peng has not been seen in public since March, before the attacks began on his subordinates and on local Peking newspapers for being "anti-party."

None of these attacks directly mentioned Peng but Chinese newspapers hinted at a powerful figure in the background of the "anti-party" activities.

PART OF STRUGGLE

There has been speculation among China experts that the current campaign is part of a struggle for power now that China's head of state, Mao Tse-tung, is 72 and widely reported to be ailing.

Though Peng Chen officially ranks ninth in the hierarchy he is in practical terms about sixth, since the list includes two octogenarians and a politburo member who has long since disappeared from the public eye.

Above him are Mao, Chief of State Liu Shao-chi, Premier Chou En-lai, Defence Minister Lin Piao, and party General Secretary Ten Hsiao-ping.

Before his dismissal he was the immediate superior of two writers most heavily criticized in the current campaign against some intellectuals — Committee Secretary Teng To and Peking Vice-Mayor Wu Han.

Burly and jovial-looking, Peng Chen is one of China's most able and forceful officials.

He was sent to represent China at an international Communist conference in Bucharest in 1960 called by former Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev to rally support for his policy of co-existence.

WIRE BRIEFS

City Golf Champion

Ruth McNiven, Nanaimo, won the Victoria women's golf championship today defeating Eileen Anderson of Colwood 2 and 1 in the 18-hole final at Uplands Golf Club.

'Freeloaders' Hit

VANCOUVER (CP)—About 30 motorists who attempted to take advantage of Vancouver's parking ticket holiday paid $5 each to get their cars back after they were impounded Thursday. John Fisk, deputy police chief, said he launched the attack on curbside free-loaders after a check of the downtown area showed about 75 per cent of drivers were not feeding the parking meters.

Truck Driver Killed

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The body of a 64-year-old Kamloops man, Larry Patton, was found today in his wrecked laundry truck at the bottom of a 150-foot embankment on the North Thompson Highway about 35 miles north of here.

Pictures Lacking Surprises

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Surveyor I radioed its second long stream of pictures from the moon early today—photos of itself and lunar terrain. They contained no surprises.

Some of the second series were out of focus, hurriedly taken to speed the camera on a full-circle sweep of the landing site — the Sea of Storms near the moon's equator.

Others of the series were remarkably detailed, some showing items as small as one-eighth of an inch. Scientists, after studying results of the full-circle sweep, plan later to turn the camera back to snap interesting areas.

The 620-pound spacecraft settled gently on its three shock-absorbing legs early Wednesda after a successful 63-hour voyage of more than 250,000 miles.

CALLED SIGNIFICANT

The feat was hailed as a significant advance in the race to land men on the lunar surface by 1970.

It also brought from President Johnson, along with praise, a renewed call for preserving the reaches of space for peaceful scientific activities.

Like Wednesday's series of 144 pictures, those from Surveyor today showed the undamaged spacecraft, the terrain around it and the distant horizon.

One shot of the horizon 1½ miles away showed small craters in the distance.

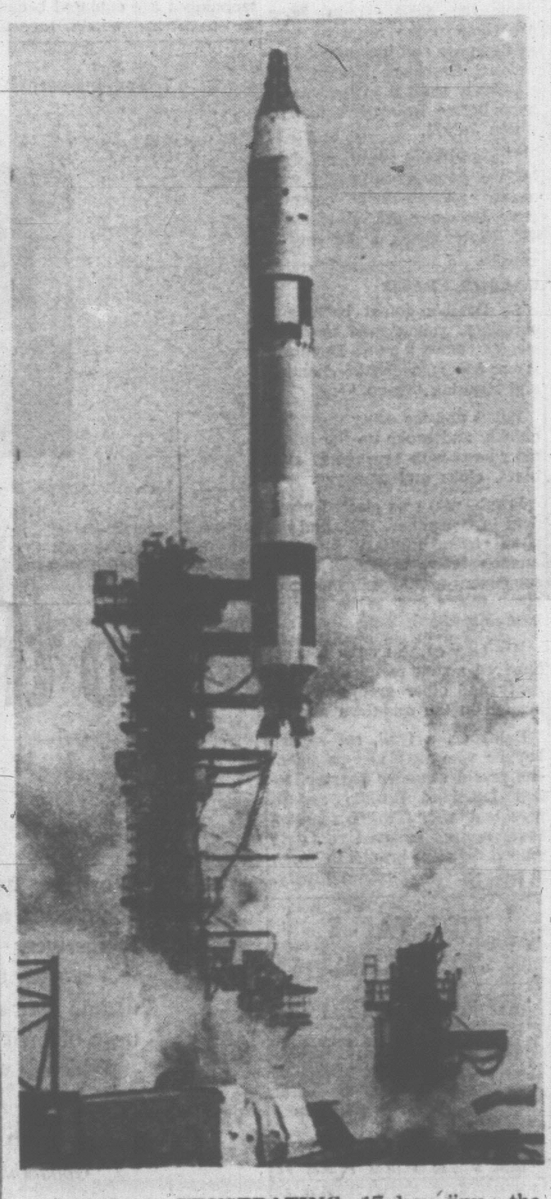
Another, aimed almost straight down at the ground, five feet away, depicted gravel-like objects on the apparently hard-packed surface. Some were one-eighth to one-half inch in diameter.

Siamese Twins Born

TORONTO (CP)—Officials at the Hospital for Sick Children reported today that Siamese twins, born in Guelph, Ont., Thursday night, are in satisfactory condition.

The twins, both girls, were born to Mrs. Leonard McGhee, 25, and were brought here by ambulance under police escort. They were in critical condition overnight.

Hospital officials said the twins had a breathing problem, but were put in respirators.



ENDING A FRUSTRATING 17-day jinx, the Gemini 9 spacecraft blasted off early this morning aboard a powerful Titan 2 rocket. But the "hard luck" which has plagued the mission continued when astronauts Thomas Stafford and Eugene Cernan discovered a protective covering on a target satellite failed to drop off. This development may cancel the "hookup" part of the three-day mission. (AP Wirephoto.)

Veteran de Valera In Narrow Victory

DUBLIN (Reuters) — Veteran statesman Eamon de Valera—one of the last surviving leaders of the 1916 Easter rising which wrenched Ireland from 300 years of British rule—today scraped to victory in the republic's presidential elections by a mere 10,500 votes.

De Valera, 83, who said it was his final election campaign, won his second seven-year term as head of state after his challenger, Tom O'Higgins, conceded defeat shortly after midnight Thursday night.

O'Higgins, a 49-year-old lawyer, polled strongly in urban areas, ousting his U.S.-born opponent by large majorities in all six of the capital's constituencies. Final figures for the nation gave De Valera 558,808 votes and O'Higgins 548,240.

De Valera's narrow victory was described by political observers as a moral defeat for the Fianna Fail (soldiers of destiny) ruling party of Premier Sean Lemass, which De Valera helped to found nearly 40 years ago.

O Higgins, nominated by the Fine Gael, the main opposition party, said the result "has created a very grave problem for the government."

Opposition Leader Liam Cosgrave said he was entitled to ask for the government's resignation but Premier Lemass declined comment on political implications of the election.

Gemini 10 To Go Up July 18

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) The smoke around the launch pad barely cleared today in the wake of Gemini 9 before crews began clearing debris in preparation for launching Gemini 10, now scheduled to blast off July 18.

The Titan II rocket that will carry Gemini 10 astronauts John W. Young and Michael Collins on a three-day rendezvous and space-walk mission is due to be erected Tuesday or Wednesday.

U.S. Navy Cmdr. Young and Air Force Maj. Collins plan to rendezvous with an Agena target satellite and carry out a lengthy space walk by Collins.

The Gemini 10 launch is scheduled in the mid-afternoon of July 18, when Gemini 10 can also be placed in a position to rendezvous with another target satellite already in orbit—the Agena launched for the Gemini 8 mission March 16.

U.S. Wants Clarification From China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has asked China whether it would stop its nuclear tests if the U.S. agreed with Peking not to strike first in a nuclear attack.

Authoritative sources making this known today said the U.S. is attempting to clarify a proposal originally made by China in December, 1964, and referred to again last month by Premier Chou En-lai.

Thus, it was explained, the U.S. has not made a proposal as such, but has raised the question with the Chinese at the May 25 ambassadorial meeting in Warsaw, Poland.

State Secretary Dean Rusk replied May 17 to a claim by Chou that the U.S. had rejected the Chinese proposal for a no-first-strike agreement.

"We did not accept the Chinese Communist proposal because we believe that these disarmament measures should be carried out under strict and effective international control, so that all parties can be assured of honoring their obligations." Rusk said.

State department officials said this still is the U.S. position.

But Senator Albert Gore (Dem. Tenn.) told reporters Thursday that he had informed a privately convened conference in Geneva last weekend that the U.S. would "be willing to enter into a no-first-use-of-nuclear weapons treaty if China would adhere to the existing nuclear test-ban treaty."

IF ACTION RECIPROCAL

U.S. Willing To Stop North Raids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department today reiterated U.S. willingness to consider stopping the bombing of North Viet Nam if Hanoi indicated it would take some "reciprocal action."

The carefully worded statements were issued in reply to a published report in New York that the United States had sent word to Hanoi it would be willing to stop bombing the north if Hanoi stopped its infiltration, both under a system of international verification.

WITHDRAWAL

The state department's reference to North Vietnamese "activities" and "presence" in the south indicated the U.S. was interested not just in a halt in infiltration but in withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces from the south. North Viet Nam has 12 regiments there.

In another development relating to Viet Nam, high administration officials took the view that Buddhist uprisings in the south were a faltering bid for power and not as any real attempt to oust American forces from the embattled country.

FRENCHMAN OFF TO HANOI

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle will send Jean Sainteny, France's representative to North Viet Nam during the early days of the Viet Minh war, to Hanoi and Peking in a new effort to end the present Viet Nam war, informed sources said today.

New Fire Suicide Threatens Truce

SAIGON (AP)—The fire suicide of a Buddhist nun and pronouncements by two heirarchic leaders darkened prospects for South Viet Nam's precarious political truce today, Buddha's birthday.

The nun, 26, burned herself to death in the courtyard of a small pagoda in Da Nang. She was the sixth Buddhist to die in this fashion since Sunday in a wave of anti-government fanaticism.

Thich Tri Quang, the most outspoken and militant of the Buddhist leaders fighting Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime, announced at a press conference in Hue that he will order Buddhists to boycott any elections held by the government this year. He coupled the threat with bitter attacks on the government and on President Johnson for supporting it. Election of a constituent assembly is due Sept. 11.

SUBMITS RESIGNATION

In Saigon, the moderate head of the Buddhist Institute, Thich (venerable) Tam Chau, submitted his resignation, saying "I have failed." This imperilled the compromise formula agreed upon Wednesday for addition of 10 civilians to the ruling military directorate, for he was the chief Buddhist negotiator.

Monks said the nun, Thichnu Dieu Dinh, 26, left behind a letter for President Johnson charging that "Vietnamese Buddhists were annihilated by your policies in Viet Nam."

The suicide indicated the strong opposition among extremist Buddhists to a truce negotiated by Buddhist moderates with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime.

Tam Chau said in his letter of resignation:

"I have tried to solve the present situation but I have failed."

A special council will be called to decide whether to accept the resignation, but Buddhist sources said this might take two or three days.

No Power to Act

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Nicholson said today he has no power to meet a request by the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC) that the Shipping Federation of Canada be displaced as bargaining agent for employers in the strike which has tied up three Quebec ports.

ROWERS AVERAGING 7 MILES A DAY

Puffin Catches Cutlass' Eye

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Two English journalists apparently are making some headway in their efforts to row across the Atlantic in a 15-foot rowboat.

David Johnstone, 34, and John Hoare, 29, were paid an unexpected visit Thursday and found out they had advanced 98 miles toward England since departing Virginia Beach May 21.

The radar of the submarine Cutlass spotted the rowboat named Puffin at a distance of about nine miles, prompting Lt.-Cmdr. Lewis B. Sykes to order his men to manoeuvre the sub to the rowboat's side.

Asked if they needed assistance, Hoare and Johnstone replied they were doing fine and had every intention of continuing with their venture.

Sykes told the pair they were 98 miles east-southeast of Cape Henry, a progress of 64 miles since they were last seen Saturday night.

The two hope to make the journey to St. Ives, England in 50 days by averaging 60 miles a day. Adverse winds during the early part of the trip has kept their average down to eight miles a day. Over the last 4½ days however, Hoare and Johnstone had upped their average to better than 14 miles a day.

COMPLETE NEWS PAGE SET IN TWO MINUTES

NEW YOK (AP) — Newspaper publishers meeting in Cleveland next week will get a look at a new electronic type-composing system introduced by the Radio Corporation of America.

The new process, called Videocomp, composes up to 600 characters a second, 900 lines a minute, and can set an entire newspaper page in two minutes, RCA said.

Punched tape is fed into a computer which instantly separates, justifies, and hyphenates each line. A second tape, produced by the computer, is read electronically by the Videocomp typesetter and the lines are set on sensitized paper or film.

RCA will display the equipment at the production management conference of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, opening Sunday in Cleveland.

Videocomp, developed by a West German company, uses no metal fonts, matrices or photo masters. Each character is produced from a memory bank on a cathode ray tube—similar to television —and is directed through a lens to sensitized paper.

The reproduced type, on paper or film, can be used in printing by conventional offset lithography letterpress or gravure.

THE 'BOOMER' IS BACK

B.C. Restraint Jettisoned On Way Home from Wall St.

By JOHN MIKA

Premier Bennett, who relishes references to himself as a "boomer," is back in his characteristic role barely a month after his shock tactics to help cool off the current boom.

Following a generally pooh-poohing attitude towards both U.S. and Canadian federal government warnings that the boom was becoming so hot it could evaporate into a run-away inflation, he made his surprise admission that many government projects had been suspended to review their costs and see if they should be stopped or seriously chopped back.

(The first warning of an ulterior motive came in the way the press learned about the matter — a leak from a government official. Things like that rarely happen in this administration and always are suspect.)

"This is not a question of money but one of restraint," explained the premier who has admitted to having more thas $100 million in surplus funds.

'Talk and Act'

"We have asked industry and labor to exercise restraint. It is now not for the government to only talk but act as well."

Grand words indeed, but it certainly looks as though they were intended to pull wool over reporters' eyes for his own purposes.

Both Mayor Rathie and various industry leaders were quick to point out the only one needing restraint was the premier himself who insisted on bulling ahead with the Peace and Columbia River projects at the same time — both of them adding up to an ultimate bill of more than $1.5 billion of which $330 million will have to be financed this year alone.

But forget the premier's critics and just watch the master news manager at work.

The premier had a hard time justifying his new stand with his previous sneers at Finance Minister Mitchel Sharp's prolong-the-boom budget which also announced cutbacks on government spending. So, he cagily found a distinction — he was speaking in terms of priorities, not wholesale cutbacks.

In the B.C. list of priorities, he said, the power projects were at the top, health facilities were second, educational facilities were third and the realy cost-cutting squeeze would be put on other types of buildings such as the centennial museum here.

Works Minister Chant had to scratch his head hard to round up a list of these "other" buildings which finally included the museum and the unstarted Lee Avenue mental hospital — together worth $16 million. He added to the list category two items such as facilities for handicapped children in Saanich and in Burnaby which still are not even off the drawing boards and can't conceivably affect the immediate boom very much.

Then he added the Duncan courthouse — but many weeks before Opposition Leader Robert Strachan revealed in the legislature that that project had been halted and he couldn't get a promise a second call for bids would be made.

Federal Money

Next he threw in a couple more courthouses on the mainland, which also have not been started, and wound up with the multi-million-dollar addition to the Institute of Technology which will be largely financed by federal money in any event.

The best Mr. Chant could do to support his premier was a list totalling about $20 million — utterly laughable as a "restraint" measure when compared with the $2.1 billion of new capital investment predicted for this year by the provincial government's own economic forecast. It was even laughable when viewed against the hundreds of millions the government itself will be spending on construction projects this year and which were not reviewed.

Some restraint call! But the reporters amplified the premier's dire and statesman-like remarks of self-restraint and level-headed co-operation with the financial leaders of this continent to fight back a bust-producing inflation.

Off to Wall St.

And not long after, the premier went to Wall Street to see if he would meet the somewhat stiffer qualifications of the money market this year to cover a $100 million gap in that $330 million hydro construction bill facing him by next March.

Well, there's little doubt that Wall Street heard of the very responsible attitude of our premier — as he intended — because he came back and indicated things look good for that loan. His administration is highly regarded for its fiscal attitude and position, he reported to his friends in the press.

It's known he got a major loan promise but the amount so far hasn't been revealed because of certain protocol formalities involving the blessings of the Securities Exchange Commission in the U.S.

Away We Go!

Anyway, what did our restrained government do after the successful trip to New York?

Why, the premier announced a new sistership will be built for the Queen of Prince Rupert. And it is very likely he knew it probably will be about 50 per cent bigger and 50 per cent more costly than that $6-million-plus vessel.

But there was more to come, he hinted at the time.

And, sure enough, Mr. Chant came through.

Not only was the entire review of costs completed, he revealed, but nothing was cancelled or suspended and all projects would go ahead in due course.

Any savings? "Sub-minor changes" in specification — but not design — were effected. It was not possible to put a dollar value on these because only tenders in the distant future would show whether in fact anything had been changed.

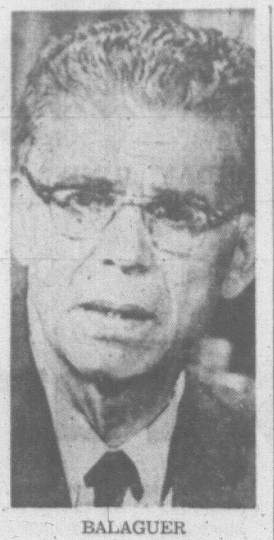
Fountain Go-Ahead

In addition, Mr. Chant announced that such a high-priority item as a $231,000 centennial fountain for Vancouver's courthouse lawn was going ahead, although here he was able to say that a saving of about $23,000 was effected by changing some of the specifications for the setting of the centre-piece.

Next day, Mr. Chant denied that this meant the "restraint" action of the government was over. Yet the very next day, he awarded a $23,000 contract to add an 18 by 21-foot conservatory to Government House — thereby wiping out the one saving he had been able to show for all the soul-searching examination of costs.

Contrast this with the actual cancellations of federal projects in both Canada and the U.S as a restraint measure.

It seems B.C.-style restraint is a one-way street — only when going to Wall Street, not coming from it.



BALAGUER
. . . fat margin

U.S. Applauds D.R. Victory By Balaguer

SANTO DOMNGO (CP) — Joaquin Balaguer swept to victory in the Dominican presidential race Thursday night and indications were that the little island nation could expect a tough crackdown on any extremist attempt to make trouble.

U.S. officials from President Johnson down were delighted that the election had been peaceful. There also was relief in Washington that the victor was Balaguer, a reform-minded conservative, rather than former president Juan Bosch.

Plans are being made to withdraw the 8,000-man inter-American peace force as soon as Balaguer and incumbent Provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy want it to leave, perhaps before Balaguer's inauguration July 1.

The unofficial result, reported by the government radio with nearly all precincts counted, gave Balaguer 645,375 votes to 422,576 for Bosch, a plurality of 222,799.

CHARGE FRAUD

As Bosch's defeat became a certainty, young men took the streets of Santo Domingo, Bosch's stronghold, chanting and shouting "fraud."

Police and the army moved in quickly and broke up the minor disorders with swinging rifle butts, clubs and tear gas.

Bosch, who was elected president in December, 1962, and deposed by a military junta 10 months later, appealed to his supporters to stay calm and not allow themselves to be goaded into violence.

His plea came as the several hundred young members of his party and other groups demonstrated in the mid-town area.

Balaguer, a frail, soft-spoken lawyer who was vice-president and president under dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo and a president after Trujillo's assassination, was believed ready to extend the olive branch to Bosch in the interests of national unity.

COMPARED TO UNLOCKING BRAIN'S SECRETS

Space Jaunts 'Just a Kids Game'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Australian scientist Sir John Eccles, 1963 Nobel prize winner in medicine and one of the world's leading physiologists, had some deprecating words Thursday for the space race.

Among them:

—The secret of the brain's function reduces space travel to kids' games.

—Mankind will never get off this earth to live elsewhere.

—Earth is the most wonderful place in the universe, and the rest is a mass of dead things, hot or cold, spinning around.

—Space travel to see dust and craters is a sterile pastime.

—To do a routine job and then spend the rest of the day watching television's sub human.

Sir John, in Vancouver to receive an honorary doctor of science degree at the University of British Columbia, said man may make hit-and-run raids on other planets and perhaps even land on Mars in the next 20 years.

SO WHAT

"But so what?" he asks. "They may even find a primitive form of life on Mars but it will be nothing approaching life on earth."

Sir John, former president of the Australian Academy of Science, also has no truck with people who like to think computers are superior to the brain.

"The idea that we're expendable and that machines will take us over is sheer science fiction. If I believed this possible I'd say let's destroy all computers before we have to murder them."

He said man's education methods should be overhauled.

"A great deal of our education techniques are outdated because we have the wrong targets—passing exams rather than preparing for a flexible and rich life after school.

"People should be trained to live joyously and productively in this world in addition to training for their jobs. They must be taught to educate themselves to get a feeling for things like music, gardening, nature and behavior in this wonderful world."

When it comes to whisky, the Jones' can afford to please themselves.

Yet they don't let others dictate their taste. They have taste of their own.

Which is why it's not surprising that so many of the Jones' drink Bonded Stock.

This is a smooth, mellow whisky with a flavour you don't have to disguise.

One other thing: you don't have to be one of the Jones' to appreciate Bonded Stock.

All you need is a taste for good whisky.

Gooderham's have been distilling fine whisky since 1832.

AT NATO TALKS

Canada to Act As Peacemaker

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — Revenge-seekers and peace-makers will be fighting it out at Brussels Monday when foreign ministers attempt to repair the French-torpedoed North Atlantic Alliance. Diplomats predict military surgery may be only partially successful.

On one side are Britain and the United States, which privately feel they ought to take a sock at France and President Charles de Gaulle for firing the shot which threatens the alliance.

On the other are allies such as Canada, Belgium and Denmark which figure it is time to push hard for East-West disarmament and disengagement and go easy on de Gaulle.

By virtually ordering the allies out of France by next April and pulling his own troops out of NATO command by mid-1967, de Gaulle has upset the balance of the carefully-nurtured military pact.

But the majority of the 15-country organization is expected by experts to urge caution during the three-day talks.

MUST FIND HOME

Biggest immediate task is to find a new home for the Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Powers in Europe—SHAPE—and while a decision on this move is likely, there seems to be great doubt whether the ministers will be able to agree where and when to move the NATO council out of Paris.

The council is the organization's political arm and de Gaulle appears ready to allow it to remain providing the military machinery is sent elsewhere. Some countries, such as Canada, feel the organization ought to go along with de Gaulle and leave the council alone, feeling this body at least would ensure continuation of a NATO link with the French government.

Britain and the U.S. are reported to feel that the council should be moved as quickly as possible.

Qualified authorities say the upshot of the Brussels talks may be a compromise agreement that the council be moved some time but no date fixed.

There is a strong view that SHAPE, probably squeezed into a smaller size and with reduced power, should be located on Belgian territory and that somewhere nearby should be the various advisory bodies.

REVISE GOALS

With the Communist threat in Europe continuing to recede and United States attention pushed more in the direction of Viet Nam, the whole question of NATO military goals is undergoing radical revision. Even the U.S. is starting to trim its forces amid reports that sharper cuts may take place in a year or two.

Britain also is looking eagerly at the possibility of trimming its own forces on the Rhine, amid rising pressure from British Labor backbenchers demanding fresh initiatives on East-West disarmament.

British diplomats maintain that while the disengagement goal is a good one, strength must be restored before NATO can be used as a springboard for a more permanent European peace.

There also will be the haggling over the cost of moving the vast military apparatus from France. Some commentators maintain the negotiations may go on for years.

Amid all these internal problems, there likely will be little attention to the "big picture" threat on which the Americans would like the allies to concentrate—the spectre of a nuclear-powered China on the march.

First Recognition Ceremony Tonight

The first high school recognition ceremony of the year will be held tonight at 8 at Esquimalt Senior Secondary School. Other senior schools will hold their ceremonies next Friday night.

The recognition ceremony takes the place of what used to be called "graduation" since students will not know until later in the year if, in fact, they have passed final examinations.

NEED PRIDE IN OUR PAST, SAYS DIEF

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians are reluctant to place before the world the country's national purpose, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker told the 18th annual dinner meeting of the Canadian Public Relations Society here Thursday night.

"This purpose is to have an independent nation on this part of the continent," he said.

"I have no sympathy for those who want to divide this country. Canada made possible what we have today. We need something of a pride in our past."

Ex-MLA, Unionist Win NDP Nomination

VANCOUVER (CP)—A former MLA and an official of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) union won nomination Thursday night to contest newly-formed Little Mountain provincial riding for the New Democratic party in the next election.

Joseph H. Corsbie, 51, MLA for Peace River between 1945 and 1949, and Bob Clair, won out over Dr. Ray Parkinson, NDP candidate for Vancouver Burrard in the 1965 federal election, and George Pasov.

TO BACK DEMANDS

U.K. Seamen Want Tighter Controls

LONDON (CP)—Pressure for an even tighter clamp-down on Britain's trade appears to be growing among striking seamen.

The national executive of the 65,000-member seamen's union will meet Monday for the first time since the strike began 19 days ago.

"It will be faced with appeals from strike committees in London, Liverpool and the north-east for stronger measures to break the deadlock.

It will also face a thinly-veiled appeal for a return to work made by Lord Pearson when the judicial inquiry into the strike he is heading began formal sessions Thursday.

He said: "If the strike could be called off and the men went back to work, our discussions and deliberations could take place in a calmer atmosphere, which would be a great advantage."

His remarks that the strike is causing "great damage to the national interest" were underlined Thursday by the news that Britain's gold and dollar reserves dropped £38,000,000 ($114,000,000) during May to £1,219,000,000 ($3,657,000,00).

It was the largest monthly fall since last July. Even that did not show the full extent of the pressure the strike has brought on the country's gold reserves, since it was estimated that, without the strike, there would have been a gain during the month.

The loss was attributed to sales of sterling by foreign investors worried by the strike news.

Union officials have mentioned two possible moves:

—Further "blacking" of foreign-manned ships docking in Britain to deny them dockside labor. Two tankers under Panamanian registry have already been "blacked:"

—Appeal to dockside unions in other countries to "black" British ships which have not returned to home ports and been tied up by the strike.

The union has asked the International Transport Worker's Federation for information about the movement of British ships.

Tankers carrying the country's oil supplies would probably be a prime target. The union says only four British tankers have returned and been tied up by the strike compared with the 20 a week that normally dock.

The country's oil reserves are classified as a military secret but are believed to be enough to last several months or more.

The union said 729 ships were strikebound and more than 20,000 men idle in the strike, which is in support of the union's demand for an immediate reduction of the work-week to 40 from 56 hours.

Ironworker Wins Appeal

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Court of Appeal has allowed the appeal of Cloverdale ironworker Michael Hornak in his damage suit against Local 97 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers (CLC).

The Appeal Court judges voted unanimously Wednesday to reverse the earlier decision of Mr. Justice J. S. Atkins of the B.C. Supreme Court, who had dismissed Hornak's suit.

Hornak sued the union and its business agent-president John D. Paterson for breach of employment contract.

He claimed Paterson deliberately failed to give him clearance to work on the Peace River power project although employers on the job had specifically asked for Hornak.

The Appeal Court judges directed that the case be referred back to Supreme Court for a ruling on the amount of damages to be awarded.

Surveyor I

ANOTHER SPECTACULAR achievement has been added to the glowing series which measures man's progress in exploring our planetary system. In successfully making a controlled, low-velocity landing on the moon's surface, United States scientists and technicians have duplicated an earlier Soviet feat and perhaps gone it one better in technique and in the amount of information to be derived.

One thing the accomplishment demonstrates is that the lunar surface is apparently of a nature to permit manned landings. This was one of the continuing mysteries confronting astronauts and it had to be solved before human lives could be risked in a visit to the moon.

The televised moon pictures must now be assessed by space experts for the technical information that they can divulge. The layman can only remain bewildered by the magnitude of the whole performance: the intricacy of correctly estimating the exact spot and the exact time of the landing 250,000 miles away, the engineering marvel of the photography and the televised transmission to earth through the frigid reaches of space, the magic of the positional manoeuvres performed on signal from the earth by the vehicle while en route to the moon, even the terrestrial feat of transmitting the pictures from the reception station in the United States to Europe by bouncing the televised signal off a satellite high over the Atlantic.

Such marvels are becoming commonplace to a generation which has been hustled into the age of electronics. We can only take them in our stride, try to understand a modicum of the science that makes them possible, and prepare ourselves for even more awesome performances as time goes on.

Too Many Peekers

ANY ROOKIE POLICEMAN who sets out to organize a police force along trade union lines—as has Mr. Arthur Vachon with the Quebec Provincial Police — can expect to run into problems. There is considerable division of opinion on whether the police, fire departments and other essential services should be organized in this manner and particularly, of course, when this carries with it the right to strike.

Predictably, the Quebec government fired Mr. Vachon as soon as it was discovered what he was up to. Ostensibly the reason for his dismissal was of a "disciplinary" nature which doesn't really fool anyone, but then came the surprising disclosure by Premier Jean Lesage that Mr. Vachon was also considered a "security risk."

The RCMP, Mr. Lesage claimed, had a file on Mr. Vachon which was passed on to Mr. Claude Wagner, Quebec's minister of justice, to show that the firing was justified.

Mr. Vachon left the RCAF voluntarily, after completing nine years' service, to take the job with the provincial police. And Col. Clement Bouffard, chief of public relations for the armed forces at Montreal, has stated there was nothing on Mr. Vachon's service record to indicate he was a security risk. It seems strange that after Mr. Vachon had joined the police force and then made a nuisance of himself it should be discovered that there is an RCMP file alleging him to be untrustworthy in some manner or other.

Isn't it time that this brandishing of RCMP files for political purposes was brought to a halt? It has been made painfully evident in recent months that these files are not evidence of anything. They are filled with rumor and hearsay, questionable gossip in some cases, and have been the cause of considerable misery to innocent persons. They undoubtedly have a use when they are properly interpreted and carefully checked, but in their raw form they show only that there was believed to be reason to investigate the backgrounds of certain individuals.

The RCMP, unfortunately, have no choice but to make their files available on request by the proper authorities. And the authorities too often of late seem to have forgotten that unless there is an intention to lay charges that can be heard in a properly constituted court, the files should remain secret and should not constitute a judgment on persons who have no chance to prove their innocence.

Bird Dog of the Deep?

A RUSSIAN VESSEL HAS BEEN barred from re-entering Vancouver for provisions and water because Canadian fisheries authorities say they have found fishing equipment on the craft. Under existing regulations, Russians engaged in fishing may not use the Canadian port to replenish their supplies, but accommodation has been granted to Russian vessels engaged in research. The Russian skipper says he was carrying out research.

The incident presents a new facet of the persistent problems of protecting so-called Canadian fishing waters from undue intrusion by foreigners and raises a nice point concerning the definition of research.

It is a reasonable field for research to scout the seas to determine where fish may be found in quantity. Conceivably it might be necessary to make specimen hauls in such an investigation. A vessel engaged in such work might legitimately expect concessions in respect to provisioning from the closest point to its operations — assuming, of course, that its work was concerned solely with the scientific investigation of fisheries.

But if, as a Canadian official has suggested, the research ship were merely scouting the area for the Russian fishing fleet and giving a practical turn to research by fast communication so that the operating fishermen could move quickly to the grounds, would it then qualify for concessions at any nearby port? Would it, in fact, be an integral part of the fishing industry of the foreign country, acting as bird dog for the roving fish fleet of that nation?

Canadian authorities apparently think it should not receive special treatment at their port, but the occurrence provides a contentious issue on the principles of applied research.

Tangled in Red Tape

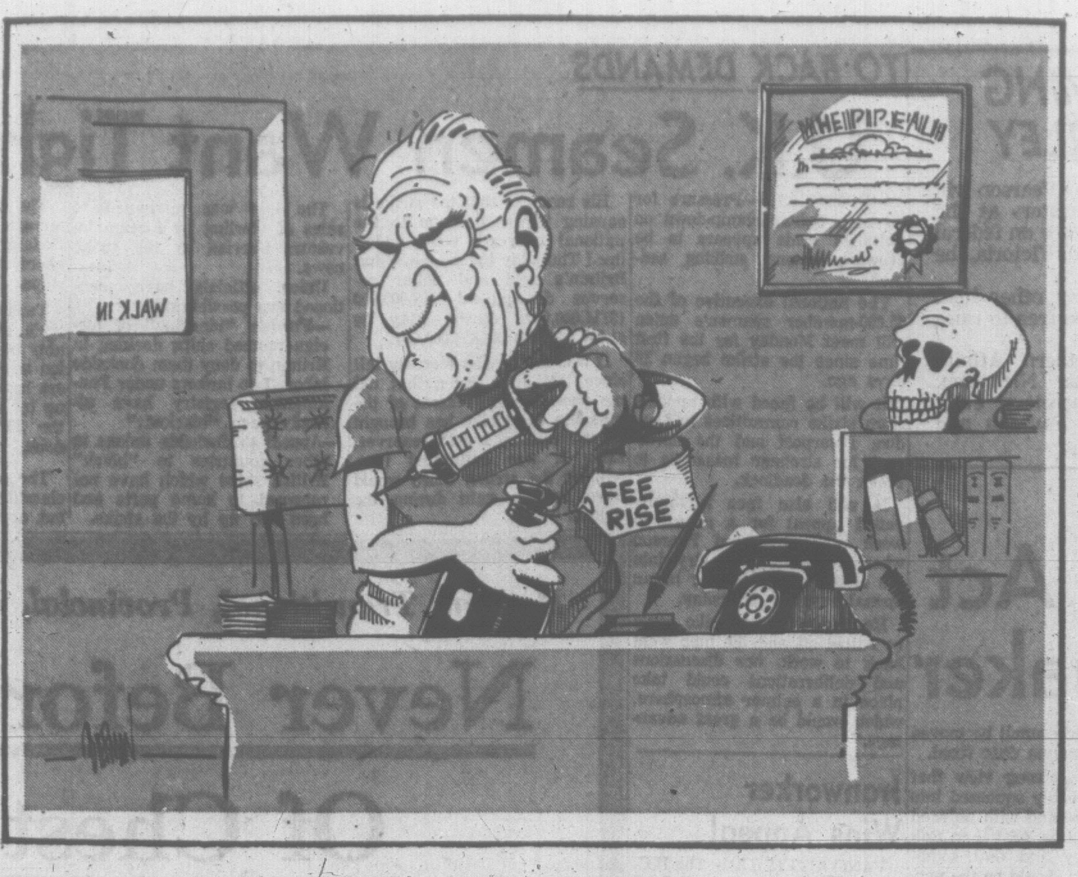
MR. A. H. ROBERTS, DIRECTOR of the Capital Region Planning Board, has outlined some of the impediments which delay urban renewal in those areas where such undertakings have received general public endorsement.

Inescapable problems arise because three levels of administration are involved in such work: federal, provincial, and municipal or civic. Each pays the piper and each, quite properly, wants to have a share in calling the tunes. This is reasonable enough. It does, however, lend itself to a prolonged concert as each insists on the tunes which should be played.

To this situation can be attributed the five-year delay in starting Vancouver's major urban renewal program, and getting the Blanshard Street scheme under way in Victoria.

But if there is a natural inclination by each participating government to look thoroughly into all aspects of a project, there should be some means of speeding up action in order to maintain public interest and purpose.

There must be safeguards against imprudent public expenditure at any level of government. But if red tape can be cut away, that in itself should lead to welcome economies.



Just what the doctor ordered.

Sea Strike—No 'Right' Solution

TO say that there are two sides to the dispute which has led to the current strike of British merchant seamen is a little like saying that mice have tails. Yet the most disheartening feature of Britain's latest descent into primitive industrial warfare is that this homely truth has been lost to view. As the strike grinds through its third ruinously expensive week the increasingly exasperated mood of the country demands that you be for the seamen or agin them. If you accept the general view of Fleet Street and the whole financial press, you are wholly convinced that the seamen's demand for a cut in their working week from 56 hours to 40—at the same basic rate of roughly $180 a month plus keep and assorted minor benefits—is a dagger aimed at the heart of the government's all-important prices and incomes policy. If the seamen are granted what really amounts to a wage increase of 17 per cent, runs the argument, the government might as well abandon the attempt to hold wage increases at a national norm of three per cent.

Dewey

Typical of most British publications is The Economist, which argues that it would be disastrous for the government to allow the shipowners to accede to this new "monster claim" on the heels of "a grossly inflationary" award of 13 per cent last year and increases amounting to 30 per cent in the four preceding years.

But if you are among the minority that agrees with the left wing of the Labor party and its sympathizers in the national press, you will be just as firmly convinced that Britain's 65,000 merchant seamen deserve to be regarded as one of the allowable exceptions to the wages norm.

Irrelevant

The size of last year's pay award is irrelevant, runs this argument. What matters is that British seamen are still underpaid. Besides, why all this eagerness to man the wage dike in the case of the lowly seamen when a 33-per-cent increase was just offered to the country's doctors and when MPs and judges, among others, have received healthy pay increases? Indeed, asks the New Statesman, what dike is there to man?

Thus the sides are chosen, the argument rages, the bitterness increases, and the strike tightens its potentially lethal grip on Britain's seaborne links with the rest of the world.

Thrusting aside all talk of compromise, the seamen say they are ready to hold out for three months and that, if need be, they will accept the kind offers of foreign labor unionists to choke off all surface commerce with these islands save foodstuffs.

Critics of the seamen say just as vehemently that the government should use the royal navy to break the strike —although they don't say so in so many words — and that it should legislate to freeze any other above-the-norm pay claims for an appropriate period.

The only thing these two opposed camps have in common, in the end, is that each has reached its respective conclusions by resolutely closing one eye. In arguing that the wages norm must be defended at all costs, one side closes an eye to the possibility that the case of the seamen must have individual merit. By maintaining that the case of the seamen can only be considered on its own merit, the other side closes an eye to the possibly disastrous effects of an above-the-norm increase on the nation's do-or-die struggle to contain the wages explosion.

Eyes Closed

The only party to the dispute which hasn't closed one eye is the government. It has closed both eyes. Blindly groping its way from day to day, the government has wavered between toughness and timidity. In an early speech, Mr. Wilson decreed that this was a strike against the state, against the community, and that, whatever the cost, the sanctity of the prices and incomes policy would be maintained.

Later, he authorized the offer of a token, interim wage increase together with the promise of an immediate inquiry into pay and conditions—a promise which can only have been intended as an indication that the seamen's claim would be considered on its own merits after all.

Of course, the advantages of closing one or both eyes are only too obvious. To look at the whole problem is to realize that here, if ever, is a genuine impasse. The seamen have a case, whether their lot is compared with that of British land-based workers or of the seamen of other developed countries (U.S. seamen earn a basic $390 a month for a 40-hour- week, Danes earn $222 for a 45-hour week, West Germans earn $192 for a 40-hour week, and so on).

Moreover, British seamen earn their unprincely $180 under a system of paternalistic discipline — sometimes benevolent, sometimes not — that derives its authority from the Merchant Shipping Act of 1894. In one sense, indeed, the seamen's claim is certainly a dagger aimed at the heart of the incomes policy, for it exposes the essential injustice of any attempt to impose a unversal wage freeze or go-slow on an economy which has not succeeded in achieving anything approaching equity in the distribution of wages. To ask adequately paid workers to recognize a wage norm is one thing, but to ask poorly paid workers to do the same is to ask them to submit themselves indefinitely to an unjust situation.

Wages Parity

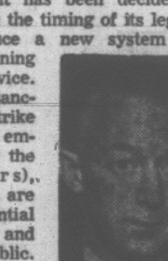
At the same time, the government can't realistically be asked to wait for universal wages parity before attempting to impose an incomes policy. One can only accept the argument that some sort of wage freeze—voluntary or involuntary—is essential if ever the country is to get its accounts into the black, if ever it is to allow lagging rates of production to catch up with soaring costs of living. The seamen are right. The government is right. There are no good guys and bad guys, only a classic conflict between the legitimate interests of the minority and the legitimate interests of the majority. There can be no "right" solution. All that can be hoped for is to find the solution that contains the least wrong.

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

Bargaining Law Timing Bad

THE government has been decidedly unfortunate in the timing of its legislation to introduce a new system of collective bargaining into the civil service. This system will sanction a right to strike in the case of employees (such as the postal workers), whose services are not deemed essential to the safety and security of the public. It will appear to many people that the postal service is highly essential to the efficient functioning of the Canadian economy. There is, of course, no reason to assume that postal workers are any less responsible than others but the harsh reality is that we are in an inflationary period which is, almost by definition, a time in which strikes are to be expected.



Western

Enthusiasm for the proposed reform may be further muted by the fact that some recent strikes and strike threats, while outside the public service (except in Quebec, which has pioneered rather unhappily in this field), have been of a character to impose grave burdens on the country at large. The longshoremen's strike is an obvious example, and a particularly interesting one because, if it is not settled, it could do great damage to the steel industry on which many workers depend. And in the background is the threat of a strike of seaway employees capable of tying up navigation all over again at great cost to industry, exporters, labor and consumers.

It was with such disturbing prospects in mind that Mr. Nicholson, the minister of labor, last week threw out as an idea for "serious consideration" the possibility of "the establishment of arbitration or labor courts, such as those that have been set up in Australia and other countries of the world."

As might have been anticipated, the suggestion has brought stormy protests from a number of labor leaders. Mr. Rygus, general vice-president of the International Association of Machinists, has vowed on behalf of his membership that: "We will not bow under the threat of legislative blackmail". Mr. Claude Jodoin, after one or two remarks about totalitarian regimes, concludes "if trade unionists are to maintain their integrity and to share in the growing prosperity of Canada, they must be allowed to withdraw their labor without threat of government intervention."

The trouble is that, in a country so dependent on transportation, extended tie-ups threaten prosperity and with it the jobs of other workers.

Too Many Policies

Unfortunately the government appears to be suffering in this field from rather too many policies or attitudes. The prime minister, ignoring expert advice, has now decided to make strike action legal in various branches of the public service at a time when the minister of labor, desperately attempting to control the situation, is urging unionists to consider other solutions.

Mr. Drury has got us into the so-called automobile free trade with the United States, which has predictably encouraged Canadian auto workers to strive for wage parity with their American counterparts. Such a demand is infectious; the seaway workers have now raised the same cry. But we do not dispose of the wealth of the United States and any attempt, in this fashion, to keep up with the Joneses is bound to be ruinous.

A problem of rather similar character may be hidden in the new collective bargaining legislation. Traditionally, there has been a considerable variation in wage scales across Canada, both inside and outside the public service. Bargaining with 67 different groups of government employees is bound to be a very complicated business. It is Mr. Benson's hope that one union or council of unions will bargain for each group classified as to trade, and that the principle of regional rates will be maintained.

In the light of recent developments, vis-a-vis the United States, this appears excessively optimistic. One has the distinct impression that the government, for the sake of transient popularity, has gone out of its way to sow the seeds of future trouble. Ministers might well be advised, before proceeding further, to have a heart-to-heart talk with Mr. Jean Lesage.

Looking Back

From The Times of June 3, 1906:

Harry Bray, BA, Nanaimo, selected last night as the recipient of the Rhodes Scholarship for the province, is a man who fills in almost every particular the requirements outlined by the renowned South African financier, Cecil Rhodes. Mr. Bray's passage through schools on Vancouver Island and in Toronto has marked him a man of strong mentality. In addition he is of athletic frame and more or less of an adept at all kinds of field sports.

Definitions In Viet Nam

By JOSEPH ALSOP
From Washington

IN the United States, it is virtually impossible to see the turbulent politics in Viet Nam in reasonable proportion. Consider, for example, Thich Tri Quang's militant Buddhists, whose bid for power looks as if it is being checkmated.

All sorts of irrelevant factors, ranging from dim recollections of Gautama Buddha to the personal bitterness of the president's opponents, have caused Tri Quang's Buddhists to be much romanticized. These leaders who think nothing of bullyragging innocent old women into burning themselves alive for the news photographers, are presented as true followers of the Buddha, true believers in nonviolence, and true democrats.

Alsop

In fact, however, Tri Quang and the members of his faction are creatures of a wholly different though quite recognizable sort. As an individual, Tri Quang himself has his nearest parallel in the late Ngo Dinh Nhu. No one else in recent Vietnamese politics except President Diem's Svengali-brother has shown the same combination of total self-obsession, extreme astuteness, and willingness to stop at nothing.

More importantly, perhaps, the Tri Quang group must be seen as another recurrence of a familiar Asian phenomenon — the tendency of elements within the Buddhist clergy to forget religion in favor of power-seeking, and to use para-military or even wholly military instruments for this purpose. Until our own day, Lhasa was rather regularly drenched in blood, by the Tibetan power struggles of the huge Drepung, Ganden and Sara monasteries with their powerful private armies.

Vietnamese Buddhism takes its main traditions from Japan, where Sir George Sansom remarks that political-military Buddhism began in the 9th Century AD. "Time after time," he says, the monkish troops "swarmed into the capital in support of their usually unreasonable claims. As a rule, the Japanese government was helpless, giving way in despair and even dismissing high officers of state so as to placate the monks.

'Making Right of Wrong'

"On one occasion, the emperor said in an edict: "Because our (Buddhist) faith is fervent we have at last granted this petition, making right of wrong'."

At length, in the 16th Century, the great Oda Nobunaga suppressed the worst of the political monasteries around Kyote, the Enryakuji. Toyotomi Hidtyoshi, the Japanese Napoleon, continued the disciplinary process; and Tekugawa Iyeyasu finally outlawed any sort of political-military activity by Buddhist monks. But one reason for the concern now felt about the modern, new-Buddhist movement in Japan, the Soka Gakkai is its organization of numerous para-military units.

It may seem odd to range through Asian history for precedents for the Vietnamese Buddhists; but this is really the only way for a westerner to begin to understand the politics of Viet Nam. Vietnamese politics are so turbulent and so unpredictable, precisely because Viet Nam is a country which is only now being dragged into the modern world by the main force of events.

The political viewpoints and attitudes of both individuals and groups are being modernized under pressure; but they are by no means modern as yet. The astonishing thing in Viet Nam is not that stable governments are organized with difficulty. The astonishing thing is the failure of the Viet Cong, highly organized as they are, to win stronger support in this as-yet disorganized country.

The president's opponents talk as though the Viet Cong spoke for the Vietnamese majority. In reality, the best estimate, made after careful tests, is that the VC might perhaps win 10 per cent of the total vote in a completely free nationwide election.

Strengthened From North

There are two demonstrable facts that confirm this necessarily conjectural estimate. On the one hand, at least one half of the VC cadres — or one half of the entire staff of the Viet Cong clandestine government—are now North Vietnamese invaders. That may not mean much in Washington, but it speaks volumes in South Viet Nam.

On the other hand, even the recent bitter troubles have failed to provide the Viet Cong with a single recruit of any local or national significance. Their national liberation front is composed of obscure and ghostly puppets. Much as the South Vietnamese leaders have disagreed among themselves, they have always agreed in resisting temptation to go over to the VC.

The rejection of the VC by all Vietnamese of any standing is a significant thing. It means that if we are only patient, there is much hope for the future. Here is a naturally rich country, cursed with war, but also being trained up by war in modern technology. It has not found its own way as yet. When that way is found, the resulting institutions will surely not very closely resemble our own institutions. But these are talented, courageous people, who will find their way in the end.

TO THE EDITOR

Ferry Kindness

I wish to pass a verbal bouquet to the very kind people at the Swartz Bay ferry terminal on duty at approximately 10:30 a.m. May 27.

I drove my father (who has a heart and chest condition) to catch the 11 o'clock ferry back to Ladner. The young lady selling tickets noticed his wheezing, so she promptly got on the phone and arranged for me to drive him right on to the ferry. All the attendants were most kind, courteous and helpful—getting him onto the elevator to the upper deck, etc. We did not ask for any favors. This was offered and was most appreciated.

In London, Hemlines Up And So Are the Prices

By ART STOTT

AS you know, hemlines have gone up in London. So have prices. You can still get bargains by careful shopping, but the cost of living to the tourist, compared to 1960 standards, is considerably higher.

Stott

Pat and I aren't mathematically apt enough to be quite positive of prices in pounds, shillings and pence as they relate to dollars. The rule for the Canadian visitor is simple enough. You reckon seven shillings to the dollar and three dollars to the pound. Then you run into half crowns, florins and multi-sided thrupenny bits and you start counting on your fingers. But that's no good. English money isn't yet decimal and neither of us has six fingers on either hand.

You go into a shop or a restaurant with pounds in your pocket—each pound worth three dollars—and you find they melt about as quickly as a dollar bill does over here; perhaps because you aren't familiar with the shops and the restaurants, or because you haven't become accustomed to ordering a meal reasonably priced for meat and then find that the roll and butter is extra and each vegetable is an additional purchase.

* * *

If you smoke, you're in trouble. To avoid some of it you load up with cigarettes or tobacco on the plane or the Channel boats.

Still, what are holidays for if not to spend money?

The raised feminine hemline is interesting in an academic sort of way. There aren't all that many "minis" running around London, but there are enough to sharpen a masculine eye and send a visiting male bumping into oncoming pedestrian traffic when he turns to stare at the little dainty who just passed.

I expected older English people to look askance at the short-short skirts. Not at all. Most of the elders I talked to were delighted, didn't know there were so many shapely legs in London, glad to see them on view. And on one reportedly intellectual BBC program an interesting conversation between some of the better brains investigated the engaging question: "Where do you like to see dimples? On the face or on the knees?"

The "mini" has done something for the London miss equipped to wear one. It has inspired her to learn to walk with that piquant hip-pocket action which gives the young Parisienne the ability to collect admiring glances as she trips along outside a sidewalk cafe.

After six years, it seemed to my aging eyes, that the London young lady was regaining the pert near-elegance familiar 25 years ago. But if current styles have helped her, they've done nothing for the boys. The long-hairs—shoulder bobs, Buffalo Bill and Charles II affectations, complete with dandruff—look just as scruffy as do their less frequent counterparts in Victoria. The young males—not all, but too many of them—have inherited the unwashed look that six years ago was lent to those girls who affected the haystack hair-dos.

* * *

From their elders, they receive the familiar criticisms: "Need a good scrubbing," "Two years in the services would fix them up right," "I'd like to catch one with my electric shaver in my hand."

If these are "Mods," the "Rockers" look no better. They don't appear to affect long hair. They just don't get it cut often enough and nobody's told them about combs. In their leather jackets and hipster dungarees, they aren't the type you'd expect to be attractive.

There again, you can be in error. I listened to a young lady, still in her teens, explaining the situation to her parents who keep their daughter neat, tidy and well-scrubbed:

"You don't understand, Mother. Tastes change, you know. And what seemed appealing to you at my age needn't appeal to me."

* * *

If there are to be exaggerated styles, then London's the place for them. The people are accustomed to unusual clothing, be it an Arab in burnoose and flowing robes, someone from the City impeccably tailored in cut-away coat, striped trousers, bowler and brolly, or a workman laying bricks on a damaged wall, his jacket and trousers carrying the stains of his labors, but wearing a collar and tie nevertheless.

They come in all shapes, sizes and colors, always changing. Even the distinguished personages in bronze are modified from time to time at the whim and caprice of the pigeons.

Was Lord Moran Too Revealing?

By CLEMENT ATTLEE

(Eighty-three-year-old Earl Attlee worked intimately with Sir Winston Churchill as his deputy prime minister during the Second World War and succeeded him as prime minister when the Labor Party won the election of 1945. Attlee remained prime minister until 1951 when Churchill returned again as premier. Here is his review of "Winston Churchill: The Struggle for Survival 1940-65" by Lord Moran.)

LONDON — From 1940 until his death, Lord Moran was Sir Winston Churchill's doctor and travelled with him to very many conferences in America and elsewhere.

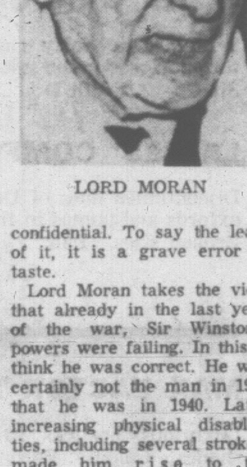
He was present on many occasions when matters of high policy were discussed.

He has now published his diary and it bears out, almost day by day, the physical condition of Sir Winston and recalls every passing phase of his activities.

Whether for a doctor to reveal all the symptoms of his patient is in accordance with medical etiquette I do not know, but Lord Moran is not content with this.

He reveals all kinds of meetings and discussions at which he was present. He was admitted to Sir Winston's family meetings. In my opinion, the reticence imposed on civil servants and generally observed by all persons of a confidential capacity is wise. A prominent man should feel able to talk freely in the knowledge that what he is saying will not be taken down and published.

Lord Moran has chosen to ignore this and, despite the objections of members of the family, he has described at length matters which should, in my view, have been kept confidential. To say the least of it, it is a grave error of taste.



LORD MORAN

Lord Moran takes the view that already in the last year of the war, Sir Winston's powers were failing. In this, I think he was correct. He was certainly not the man in 1945 that he was in 1940. Later increasing physical disabilities, including several strokes, made him rise to the occasion. It seems that he was continually having minor lesions affecting the flow of blood to the brain and, undoubtedly, Lord Moran did a great service throughout those years.

I had not realized myself how great was the concern for this health but Sir Winston, in fact, in the latter stages of his life, was always a hypochondriac. The slightest symptom and he would want to ask for treatment.

Revelations

There are, of course, very important revelations in this diary. I had realized already the failing powers of President Roosevelt—a most unfortunate thing for the Allies—and one effect was the surrender to the Russians of far too much at Yalta. It would, I think, have been far more satisfactory if Mr. Truman had succeeded to the presidency six months earlier. While a certain element is clear of the jealousy between these two great men, Sir Winston was, on the whole, a fairly good judge of men but it is surprising how long it took for him to understand the nature of Stalin.

Right up to the late 1950s, he believed that a personal postwar meeting between himself and Stalin might have changed the course of history. It also appears that he took his defeat in 1945 far more heavily than I had understood and, instead of taking the wise advice of Lady Churchill and retiring into private life, he could not give up the hope of once again being at the head of affairs.

Great Devotion

When I read this record, my admiration for Lady Churchill increased. Her devotion and love of this great man never failed. It was a pity he did not follow her wise counsels but he continued to cling to power after his ability to concentrate had diminished. He would, I think have had a happier old age if he had realized that he had done his great work. After all, he had so much to enjoy—his painting and writing and other avocations.

When he became prime minister again, he was not really fit. Every now and again, some element interfered with his powers of concentration and I think it was very unfortunate that Lord Avon (Anthony Eden) had to wait so long for the succession. It was this, I think, that led to the tragedy of Lord Avon's premiership and, despite many suggestions by myself, he would not see how important it was that Lord Avon should have had a full experience of office in home affairs instead of being kept all the time in the foreign office. There are many lovely sketches in the book of actors in the drama.

Churchill, like other great men, notably, Lloyd George, was not wise in his choice of friends. He was devoted to Lord Beaverbrook, who was never a good influence and, undoubtedly, did much to lose the 1945 election for him by his bad advice. Sir Winston clung to him and trusted to his judgment and I think he was a kind of stimulant.

Brendan Bracken was far less harmful but it was a pity he did not see more of men like Alexander of Tunis.

Immense Pains

Sir Winston took immense pains over the preparation of his speeches, taking many hours revising and correcting them and worried a great deal until he was sure and he heard the verdict on them.

When one reads of his great reluctance to surrender responsibility, one wonders how he managed to get through the years from 1931 to 1940, when he was in the wilderness. But, of course, he was then doing a great deal of writing.

I imagine that, though rightly indignant at the publication of this book, Randolph Churchill, who is to write the official biography of his father, will find in Lord Moran's account much useful material to enable him to give a well-balanced picture.

The book is, of course, far too long and is extremely badly indexed. It is full of trivialities which might well have been omitted, but one has to recognize the frailties of Sir Winston. It does not in the least diminish his stature and one always recognizes that, great man that he was, he had a great element of childishness. Balfour once said that what he needed was a strong-minded woman secretary to tell him from time to time not to be a fool.

India's Winningest General Taking Up Post in Ottawa

By DAVID VAN PRAAGH
Special to the Times

NEW DELHI — Diplomacy will be a new career for India's winningest general but not a new experience.

In fact, for a man who has spent nearly 40 of his 58 years in military service, there are amazingly few non-military fields not known to Joyanto Nath Chaudhuri, India's new High Commissioner in Canada.

General Chaudhuri is at once on of the most disciplined, dashing, intellectual and realistic men in Indian public life. He is also one of the most restless and active.

He will retire on his birthday June 10 as Chief of the Army Staff under a rule he helped make himself. He will leave for Ottawa a few weeks later.

The war with Pakistan last fall made the general the closest thing to a military hero India has, but he has made some of the politicians who dominate life here a little nervous.

Non-Interference

The Indian Army has a strict tradition of non-interference in political affairs, and General Chaudhuri is too proud a soldier not to follow tradition. But at a time when the ruling Congress party appears more amorphous and drifting then ever, it is no secret that some of its leaders wanted him out of the country.

The general himself will change from trim army uniform, strikingly cut for his tall figure, to equally British lounge suits with both regret and anticipation. He has helped build the army in the past four years — he was named Chief of Staff immediately after the Himalayan debacle at the hands of the Chinese in October-November, 1962 — to an impressive fighting force.

And while General Chaudhuri believes the 800,000-man Indian Army faces a period of consolidation after it reaches full strength soon, he is concerned about being out of direct touch with Indian affairs during a time of uncertainty and transition. His assignment in Canada is for two years.

Modern Man

It is tempting to call the general more Western than Indian but only accurate in the sense that he is more modern than most Indians. He comes from a cultured Bengali Brahmin family. His late father, A. N. Chaudhuri, was a well-known Calcutta lawyer, and his grandfather, W. C. Bonnerjee, was an early president of the Congress movement for independence.

He was sent to Highgate School in London at the age of 13. There he gave up the violin and decided to take up the cavalry instead. He received a nomination to the Royal Military College, Sandhurst and was commissioned in 1928.

During the early part of the Second World War, he served with the 5th Indian Division in East Africa and Libya. In 1944, he became the first Indian officer to command an armored regiment in battle; he led the 16th Light Cavalry in Burma at the head of the Allied march against the Japanese in Rangoon. Later he served in Indo-China and Java.

General Chaudhuri's first victory for India's own army was as commander of the 1st Hyderbad "police action" in 1948, when he defeated troops of the secession-minded Nizam and Communists. Afterwards, he maintained order as military governor of the state for 15 months.

GEN. CHAUDHURI
. . . a new career

Following two stints as Chief of the General Staff before and after Hyderbad, he became a corps commander and then head of the southern command with headquarters in Poona. It was in this capacity that he scored his second victory, though still against weak opposition, when he led the forces that took Goa from the Portuguese in 36 hours in December, 1961.

Goa provided another opportunity for General Chaudhuri to display a kind of popular diplomacy. He not only ordered his troops to be on their best behavior toward the suspicious Goanese but soon after the shooting stopped arranged a full-dress Beating Retreat on the local parade grounds that had the population goggle-eyed with respect. Afterwards an army soccer team played a Goanese team. The latter won.

When the Indian Army needed an overhaul of morale and organization in the wake of the Chinese invasion and the reign of V. K. Krishna Menon as defense minister, General Chaudhuri was given the job. He was reappointed to a second term as Chief of the Army Staff in 1964.

Tank Expert

How well he succeeded is indicated by what all Indians and many outside observers consider the success of the army, still with much outmoded equipment, in the brief war with Pakistan, especially in the tank warfare that General Chaudhuri knows best.

It is typical of him that he bears not the slightest trace of political animus toward Pakistan but that, when General Mohammed Musa came to New Delhi to work out joint withdrawals, he took the Pakistani Army commander to task for what he considered unmilitary public remarks during the conflict.

General Chaudhuri leaves the army convinced that it can more than hold its own now against what he considers limited Chinese military capability along the Himalayas, and indeed that it is close to being an independent force while still receiving hardware bought from both Western and Soviet bloc countries.

He also is coming around to the personal view that India should develop an atomic bomb if only for prestige.

Too Blunt?

General Chaudhuri jocularly expresses the fear that he may be too blunt as a high commissioner. But he was blunt as a military commander when he said: "War is a crime." And while it may seem a contradiction, he was blunt — and got away with it — when he told his men after the war with Pakistan: "As long as the army can hold its head high, the country will do the same . . . in all that we do, we must remember that the privilege of wearing the country's uniform and carrying arms carries with it greater responsibilities than those which apply to the normal citizen."

Economist Storm Centre Of Brazil's Revolution

By JOHN M. GOSHKO
The Washington Post

RIO DO JANEIRO — The most curious thing about Brazil's military regime is that its most important figure is a man who wears no uniform, commands no military or political following and exercises no direct power over the levers of government.

He is Roberto Do de Campos, an economist and professional diplomat who now serves the government of President Humberto Castelo Branco as minister of planning. He is also the architect, symbol and storm center of the Brazilian revolution.

To his admirers he is the man best equipped to give Brazil the financial foundation on which its future stability and progress depend. To his numerous critics, he is the man responsible for their privations.

Now, after two years as the man who had Castelo Branco's ear, it is an open secret that Roberto Campos will soon leave the government. And the principal decision confronting those who will become the revolution's new leaders is whether to continue following Roberto Campos's unpopular ideas or whether to give the people and the economy a breathing spell.

The roots of this dilemma go back to the late 1950s when then president Juscelino Kubitschek committed Brazil to a program of financing industrial development through inflationary means.

Near Bankruptcy

By 1964, Brazil stood on the verge of international bankruptcy and was caught in a desperate inflationary cycle.

At this point the Brazilian army, alarmed at the leftward drift of the government, stepped in and decreed the revolution that was supposed to transform the political, economic and moral fiber of the country.

Its main aims were to curb the runaway inflation and streamline the big-budget governmental apparatus as a springboard for restructuring the entire economy. The long-range goal was to lead the economy away from past dependence on protected import-substitute industries and create new and viable export industries.

Inflation has been curbed, though a current resurgence of the problem indicates that things aren't going quite as well as the regime's press releases would lead one to believe.

The new inflation wave has touched off the most serious discontent since the revolution began. Workers, whose wages have been held down in the anti-inflation drive, have in recent weeks seen big jumps in the price of such staple items as rice, beans and milk.

Even the business community, originally the regime's most enthusiastic backer, is grumbling very audibly at the anti-inflation campaign's tight money policies.

All this has led some observers to conclude that Robert Campos is making a mistake with his single-minded drive for monetary stability. In a developing country like Brazil, they argue, first emphasis should be not on creating a currency as stabk as the American dollar but on stimulating economic growth.

These critics generally applaud Roberto Campos's efforts to eliminate useless sources of inflation such as inefficiency and corruption in the government bureaucracies, tax evasion inefficient food distribution and automatic-wage-price spirals. All are areas where the government has had significant success.

THOMAS MANN
. . . American pragmatism

But the critics also contend that it is important to stimulate growth and public well being through a broad program of investment in such things as roads, housing, education, agricultural reform and social welfare.

The regime has drawn up ambitious plans in most of these areas; but they remain just that — plans that have yet to be implemented.

Proponents of the Roberto Campos idea agree with the desirability of social reform but insist that spending in these areas must first await the building of a stable economy.

Whether they are right or not is crucial for the United States government. For the U.S. has become closely identified with the current military regime.

A New Start

Castelo Branco came to power when Lincoln Gordon was the U.S. ambassador to Brazil. Gordon, who has just been named Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs, found it impossible to work with the former government and instinctively seized on the new government as a chance for a new start in Brazil.

Gordon's decision was based largely on his faith in Castelo Branco, an honest and respected general without personal ambitions, and in his principal civilian advisor economist Roberto Campos. Their main aims were to clean up corruption and subversion, restore the inflation-ridden economy to health and then return the country to democratic processes.

Given the hard facts of the Brazilian situation at the time, Gordon's recommendation that Washington support the new regime was both sensible and inevitable. But events were to lift this decision out of a purely Brazilian context and turn the embracing of Castelo Branco into a test case for an evolving new American policy in Latin America.

Pragmatic Policy

The Brazilian revolution came at a time when the relatively young Johnson administration was moving away from the Kennedy approach of emphasizing support of the hemisphere's liberal democrats. The new policy, usually associated with former Under Secretary of State Thomas Mann, was to be "pragmatic" rather than doctrinare.

Its central thesis was the idea that democracy, to take root and flourish, needed the soil of a developed economic base. And while it was hoped that this economic development would be brought about by democratic governments, the argument was made that a military regime could be as dedicated in this respect as a democratic one.

Testing Ground

Brazil, with the largest population in Latin America and with a new government fitting admirably into this formula, quickly became the principal testing ground for the new policy. For more than a year now, U.S. state department policy planners privately have made clear that they regard the Brazilian revolution as the pivotal factor in hemispheric affairs.

Publicly, this impression was to be reinforced by Gordon, who even made a lecture tour of the United States to drum up support for what he called "the best government Brazil has ever had."

His opponents, both within and without Brazil, have criticized this approach sharply, saying that such enthusiastic backing for a dictatorship, even a well-intentioned dictatorship, automatically antagonizes democratic forces all over Latin America.

Indeed, it is this failure to take into account the feelings of a country's people as opposed to its government that strikes most critics as he great flaw in the so-called pragmatic policy toward Latin America.

This has been the case in the two other clear-cut instances where the Johnson administration went down the line with military-backed governments that replaced democratically elected regimes: in the Dominican Republic and in Ecuador.

Mediator Bids To Prevent Air Walkout

TORONTO (CP)—An official mediator from the federal labor department has called officials of Air Canada and the Canadian Air Lines Employees Association to a meeting today in an effort to avert a strike by the 1,500-member association.

Bernard Wilson, assistant deputy minister of labor, appointed T. Bruce McRae, the department's chief officer in Toronto, to meet with management and the independent union after negotiations broke off Thursday.

Robert Dye, president of the association, announced earlier that the association will begin a two-strike vote next Tuesday. He predicted a strike would ground Air Canada and cost the company $1,000,000 a day.

But an Air Canada spokesman said the company would keep flying despite the strike threat.

HANDLE VARIOUS JOBS

The association represents reservation and ground agents, terminal control and ground hostesses, ticket office workers and switchboard operators.

The membership rejected a federal conciliation board report that suggested the equivalent of a 15-per-cent salary increase over three years. The current maximum rate after 5½ years for those in the passenger-agent category is $476 a month.

The association is asking for a 10-per-cent wage increase in each year of a two-year agreement; a reduction in the work day from eight to 7½ hours with no cut in pay; and a $25-a-month permium for long-service employees.

Meanwhile, in Montreal, an Air Canada statement said the company is willing to resume negotiations with association representatives at any time.

Pair Charged For Assault Of Martin Jr.

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Montrealers were charged Wednesday with grievous assault on Paul Martin Jr., son of External Affairs Minister Martin.

Jacques Rougeau, 36, and Paul Dion, 40, chose trial by judge and jury. Chief Sessions Judge Edouard Archambault set preliminary hearing for June 8.

The accused were allowed to go free without bail.

Jacques Rougeau is a brother of Jean (Johnny) Rougeau, independent Liberal candidate in the Montreal riding of Dorion for the June 5 Quebec elections. Dion is an organizer for the independent Liberal candidate.

The complaint against the two men was brought by Michel Lacroix, an organizer for the official Liberal candidate in Dorion, Francois Aquin.

The younger Martin, 27, telephoned his father Wednesday to report he had been "roughed up" in an incident outside a Dorion committee room Tuesday night. But he assured his father there was no cause for alarm.

A lawyer, Paul Martin Jr., has been living in Montreal while working in private industry.

Emergency Service Up During May

The number of emergency patients treated in St. Joseph's Hospital during May increased sharply over corresponding figures for the previous month and May, 1965.

Last month's total was 1,653 patients, an increase of 193 over the same period last year, and up 200 from the April 1966 figure.

The number of patients treated as a result of traffic accidents, 56 in May, was down 14 from the April figure, and down 22 from the May, 1965, figure.

Of last month's emergency patients, 1,028 required surgery, the remainder were medical cases.

The hospital released 1,457 after treatment, and admitted 196 for further care.

CHRISTMAS MAIL STRIKE BY CARRIERS?

MONTREAL (CP) — The Federated Association of Letter Carriers, holding its 34th annual convention here, adopted Wednesday a resolution giving the federal government until October to recognize its right to bargain collectively and to strike.

If the federal government did not comply, the membership authorized its executive council to hold a referendum to determine whether carriers want to strike—just before Christmas.

Too Busy in Own Job To Seek PM's; Martin

VANCOUVER (CP)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin says he has no ambition to become prime minister.

Mr. Martin, here to receive an honorary degree from the University of B.C., has been mentioned by some political observers as a possible successor to Prime Minister Pearson.

"I am so busy in my own job I haven't time to think of my own future," he said in an interview Thursday.

"Anyway, I have no ambition along that line."

The external affairs minister described Mr. Pearson as "a great Canadian" and said the prime minister "has the 100 per cent loyalty of people in parliament and in the government."

NDP FILIBUSTER ALLEGED OVER SPECIAL GRANTS

Get Cracking on Car Safety, Tories Tell Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP)—Debate on industry department estimates continues today in the face of what Industry Minister Drury calls a New Democratic Party filibuster.

Thursday was the second day this session that the department's 1966-67 estimates have been before the Commons and at adjournment there was no end in sight. To quote Reid Scott (NDP — Toronto Danforth): "I am prepared to stay with this department almost indefinitely."

Earlier Thursday it appeared the estimates might not come up at all. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker moved adjournment of the House to debate Premier Jean Lesage's use of RCMP files in the case of Arthur Vachon, president of the Quebec Provincial Police Association.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux decided the subject was not sufficiently urgent to warrant an emergency debate.

Mr. Vachon was branded a security risk by the Quebec premier. Mr. Lesage said RCMP files had been made available to his government.

Mr. Diefenbaker contended the federal government condoned the delivery of RCMP information to Quebec officials. He said this betrayed the legitimate rights of individuals to liberty under the law.

Mr. Drury then moved into the driver's seat with his estimates, only to be told his department isn't doing enough about automobile safety—and, moreover, his department shouldn't even have jurisdiction in the field.

Heward Grefftey (PC—Brome - Missisquoi) urged the government to get cracking on its proposed safety regulations. Only the federal government could bring auto manufacture under legal control.

Little research on auto safety was being done in Canada. A national research centre on the topic should be established. He drew solid backing from former Trade Minister Hees (PC—Northumberland), Arnold Peters (NDP—Temiskaming) and Richard R. Southam (PC—Moose Mountain).

Mr. Drury agreed that another department, possibly transport, should handle auto safety. His department had to co-operate with the auto industry and at the same time was being asked to impose regulations on it.

The Commons then moved to the department's designated-area program, whereby companies are given tax incentives for settling in certain areas of high unemployment.

MPs, particularly those in the NDP, peppered the minister with questions about why some areas qualify and others don't. He was then told the formula used to qualify an area for the "designated" distinction is wrong and unfair. Other MPs wanted to know where such areas are located.

Mr. Peters thought there was "monkey business" taking place. After Mr. Peters and Mr. Scott had taken an hour to air their questions, Mr. Drury reacted.

MAYOR SEEKING FULL REPORT ON JAIL DEATH

Mayor A. W. Toone has called for a complete report on the events leading up to the death of Josephine Jimmy, 30, in Victoria police cells a little more than two weeks ago.

Reluctant to discuss the issue until he was better informed on details, the mayor said he would request a full investigation.

Earlier this week a coroner's jury was critical of the treatment the woman received prior to her death in the cells. Its verdict carried the rider that she should have been taken to hospital the night before she died and stressed that changes should be made in the shift-hours worked by police matrons.

WOMEN'S AREA

At present, as on the night of Josephine Jimmy's death, matrons work 16-hour shifts in the women's section of the jail.

The jury recommended that the hours of duty be reduced to eight.

Mayor Toone said he would have no recommendations until after a detailed investigation report has been studied.

"I don't think the matrons work a straight 16 hours," he said. "Some of that time they are resting but on call."

The mayor, as chief magistrate is also chairman of the Victoria Police Commission.

Sewer Plan For District Near-Ready

The long-awaited report on an overall sewage disposal system for the Saanich Peninsula, Colwood and Greater Victoria will be ready for release at the end of June.

Victoria city engineer James Garnett says the voluminous report touching on all aspects of sewers and sewage disposal, is in the hands of the printers and should be ready for presentation to the Regional District Board in about two weeks time.

"After it comes back from the printers it will be gone over by the team of experts who conducted the survey and then turned over to the regional board," he said. "after that it will be up to them when it is released."

The forecast price for the program is $23 million.

TRUNK LINES

Though details of the report are still closely guarded secrets is it expected major trunk lines and sea outfalls will be among the recommendations.

One of the major headaches facing the boosters of the sewer project will be financing.

Victoria has already voiced a reluctance to share the cost of any major sewers which will be of little benefit to city dwellers.

However the cost is split the various municipalities will have to pick up the entire tab. The provincial government does not share the cost of sewer installation.

Negroes To Be Tried

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Seven Negroes, alleged to have been trained as saboteurs in China and Egypt, were committed for trial in Rhodesia Wednesday on charges that could lead to the death penalty. No date was set for the trial. They were charged with unlawfully possessing three rifles, two submachine-guns, two automatic pistols, 575 rounds of ammunition, 25 hand grenades and 20 slabs of Russian-made explosive.

PILOT in famed "dambuster" raid, Sqdn. Ldr. Kenneth Brown of Comox, is attending a reunion dinner in Toronto tonight of the dambuster squadron. He was one of six pilots who took part in the sensational 1943 attack on the Ruhr dams.

School for Retarded Opened by Chairman

A new $138,000 school for retarded children was officially opened Wednesday by Greater Victoria school board chairman John Porteous.

Sixty youngsters from the Victoria area will attend the school, at Victor and Denman, when it opens for classes in the fall.

Greater Victoria school trustees can be "justifiably proud" of the building, said provincial Superintendent of Education Franklin P. Levirs at the opening.

RIGHTS FOR WOMEN

Men Were Horrified It Wasn't a Joke

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Forbes

It seems to be general belief that the women of British Columbia made their greatest strides toward equal rights in this present age.

In fact, many people think that it's only within the past 50 years (since we were enfranchised) that we have waged any sort of fight to obtain the recognitign to which we are entitled.

This is entirely wrong. You need only read back through history to know that women have played their part in the growth of British Columbia in every one of its hundred years.

In those days when Vancouver Island and the mainland were joined into one, the place of women was still, to all intent and purpose, in the home. Yet they quickly stepped into the hurly-burly days of growth and expansion.

The worked for reforms. They organized social welfare groups. Their collective voices were heard asking for better conditions for all women and children in the provicne.

Gradually their influence was felt in municipal and provincial circles. Some people feared this influence; others were willing to listen and to help where it was possible.

* * *

First concrete results of their work came in 1873 when legislation was introduced by the Provincial Assembly for an "Act to extend the right of property of married women."

Business men — especially in Victoria — regarded it as a whimsical joke on the part of the member of the Assembly who presented it. But when it came up for a second reading the public — that is, the male public — was horrified to find it was no joke. The bill was real and its purpose revolutionary.

It provided among other "unbelievable" things that a married woman could hold real estate in her own name and for her separate use, she could earn money and use it without the consent of her husband — she could not only insure her own life but, with the consent of her spouse, she could insure his life — she could hold stocks and bonds and dispose of them at her own pleasure, and she could maintain an action at law.

* * *

The bill passed its second reading and committee stage at a single sitting, with a gallant bachelor, Amor de Cosmos, supporting it.

John Robson, who had fought with de Cosmos for Confederation, was bitterly opposed. He feared enactment of such legislation would encourage some wives to throw their children in their husbands' laps, leave them to cope and go into business on their own.

It was "an act to encourage bachelorism" and should be labelled so, Robert Smith of Yale said in satirical vein.

Henry Holbrook put real terror in male breasts. The measure, he said, "held out a premium to the wife to deprive her husband not only of his money but his life" . . . after having him insured, of course.

Before the male population of the province could recover from the shock the bill was given third reading and passed.

* * *

In despair men prepared a petition to be presented to Lieutenant-Governor J. W. Trutch asking him to disallow this legislation. Nearly every businessman in Victoria signed it — some 475 or more. Some signed, then scratched their names out.

It was no use. The act was law.

Another notable victory in woman's fight for better conditions came in 1918 when the provincial government passed the Women's Minimum Wage Act, providing that experienced women workers should not be paid less than a living wage. Later this Act was amended to include hours and conditions of work as well as wages.

Protection of children, mother's pensions and hours of work were also brought under proper jurisdiction in the early days of this century.

As a result of continuous prodding the child welfare program was reorganized in 1927, with gradual development of a more desirable foster home program that in 1936 saw institutional care beginning to die out.

* * *

In 1917 fathers and mothers were placed on an equal footing and their rights, powers and responsibilities in regard to their children were spelled out in the Equal Guardianship Act.

In our own time we have seen an Equal Pay for Equal Work Act placed on the statute books.

Over the years some of these acts as well as others pertaining to women and children have been amended and changed to meet current conditions — again through the efforts of women and women's groups.

Today — women continue to work to improve conditions for all women and children, just as others have done throughout British Columbia's first 100 years.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Glamor Mines Move Up

Three glamor mines showed gains on the Vancouver Stock Exchange this morning but other prices were generally down. Dynasty was up .50 to $13.25, Pyramid gained .25 to $13.37 and Brenda rose .10 to $6.80.

Wall Street was higher in dull trading that appeared to be falling short of Thursday's 5,080,000 shares.

AT TORONTO market activity remained light in mid-afternoon trading as major groups only managed fractional gains.

Volume totalled 1,813,000 shares at 2 p.m. compared with 2,157,000 at the same time Thursday. Analysts say investors are staying away from the market because they expect prices to go lower.

Walker-Gooderham and Distillers Seagrams paced the industrial group gaining 1¼ each to 33½ and 34¼. CPR was up ¾ to 61 and Shell ½ to 21¾. Harding Carpets was down 1⅝ to 41½.

Banking issues were lower with Imperial Commerce off ⅞ to 65, Montreal ½ to 59½ and Nova Scotia ¼ to 70¼.

Pine Point highlighted base metals, rising 1¾ to 67. Pyramid added ⅜ at 13½ and Rio Algom ¼ at 24⅝.

Among western oils, Scurry Rainbow advanced 1⅜ to 29⅝, Pacific Petroleum ⅜ to 12⅜ while Dome lost ½ to 15.

AT VANCOUVER three industrial stocks and three mining issues hit 1966 lows.

In the industrial list B.C. Forest was off 50 cents to $18.50, Doman Industries dropped 25 cents to $6.75 and Industrial Acceptance fell to $20.50.

In the mines Anuk River was off five cents to 85, Benson was down two to 50 cents and Beaver was off two to 13 cents. Bethex climbed nine cents to a 1966 high of 89 cents.

AT NEW YORK caution prevailed but there was enough investment demand to give steels, rubbers and chemicals a higher trend.

International Mining was the volume leader on the basis of a single block of 150,000 shares. It was up nearly a point.

Walker Gooderham rose 1⅛ and Distillers Seagrams 1 among Canadian stocks. The rise followed word that Seagrams had filed a new price list boosting most brands about 16 cents for each one-fifth of a gallon in Michigan. The increases are expected to become effective in all 17 states where the state government runs the liquor business, and to be matched by the other major distillers.

AT MONTREAL stocks continued to move to higher leevls towards 2 p.m. today in moderately active trading.

Industrial volume was 184,800 and mines and oils 773,500.

Utilities were up. CPR rose ½ to 60⅝ and Maritime Telephone ⅜ to 50⅝. Trans-Canada Pipe Line climbed ¼ to 34.

Papers turned to higher levels with Fraser advancing ½ to 28.

AT LONDON the stock market was quiet again today, but most losses were small. Aircrafts were strongly supported following favorable company statements.

Lornex Trades Shares For Mineral Claims

Consolidated Skeena Mines Ltd. is taking 50,000 shares of Lornex Mining Corp. stock in exchange for four mineral claims, C.S.M. president F. A. McGonigle said today.

The transaction at $6.50 market value of the shares is equal to $325,000.

Mr. McGonigle said the four copper-molybdenum claims are at the south end of the Divide group in Highland Valley, where 16 others are under option to Rio Algom in consideration of development work and $3 million, exercisable up to 1970.

On a visit to Vancouver Island on other business, the mine president reported diamond drilling on the Skeena property at Zeballos continues, with drill core showing a wide, low-grade copper zone.

Access is by helicopter, for which a new landing pad has been constructed. Three new drill holes are spotted at an elevation 250 feet lower than previous activity.

Consolidated Skeena also has holdings in the Revelstoke, Dynasty and Pine Point areas and work plans are being prepared, Mr. McGonigle said

Car Sales Jump In Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Automobile sales in Canada in March this year were 22 per cent higher than in the same month last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Sales of 94,338 motor vehicles of all kinds in the month compared with 77,232 in March last year and brought the total for the first three months of 1966 to 213,933, up 17 per cent from the first quarter of 1965.

Retail sales value in March was $323,909,000, up 29 per cent from March, 1965, bringing the quarter's total to $726,002,000 this year, up 21 per cent from $601,304,000 last year.

Industry reports have indicated some slackening of the sales activity in April and May, though not as seriously in Canada as in the United States. DBS figures for this period are not yet available.

PGE Records Small Gain

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pacific Great Eastern revenues reached a record $19,494,687 in 1965, the government-owned railway's annual report showed Thursday.

This was a gain of $366,951, equal to less than two per cent, smallest increase in recent years.

J. S. Broadbent, vice-president and general manager, said the smallness of the gain resulted from a number of problems, including two work stoppages, heavy snows in the northern sections and the closing of the line twice because sections of the Parsnip River bridge were washed out.

But he said the 50-year-old railway's future has never been so promising, because of growth in the areas it serves.

TORONTO (CP) — Dominion Stores Ltd. had record net earnings of $10,655,576 or $1.32 a share in the year ended March 19 compared with $10,077,827 or $1.25 a share last year, Thomas G. McCormack says in the annual report.

Sales jumped 5.3 per cent to $513,656,740 from $487,735,081.

Mr. McCormack said the ratio of net earnings to sales remained at 2.07 per cent. This means that before Dominion Stores makes $2.07, a shopper has to spend $100 in one of its stores.

Total expenses were up $7,500,000, of which $3,800,000 was in increased employees' salaries and benefits. Another major factor was the "spiralling level" of municipal taxes in the 197 communities in which Dominion does business.

At year-end, the company has 64 new stores in various stages of development or negotiation. About 31 are scheduled to open this year. The company now operates 377 stores across Canada.

Working capital at March 19 was $26,748,595, up $2,057,324.

LIMIT NOT WORKING FISHERIES HEAD TOLD

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Dr. Noel Murphy, Progressive Conservative opposition leader in the Newfoundland legislature, sent a telegram Thursday to federal Fisheries Minister Robichaud protesting a statement by the minister that the 12-mile territorial limit is working.

The telegram asked Mr. Robichaud to state publicly that the 12-mile limit as at present constituted is of no practical value to the inshore fishermen of Newfoundland.

* * *

Dr. Murphy said his protest followed a report that Mr. Robichaud told the Commons Wednesday that the limit was proven effective by Russian observance of it and that negotiations were in progress with nations holding traditional fishing rights in Canadian waters.

Watchdog Group Set to Eye Russians

SEATTLE (CP-AP)— Formal organization of a joint Washington-Oregon committee to keep an eye on the big Russian fishing fleet off the west coast of North America was announced Thursday.

Gov. Dan Evans of Washington said the committee will first find ways to continue surveillance of the Russian fleet, now off the lower Washington coast.

The committee's main job will be to determine the exact size of the fleet, the areas in which it is fishing and the types and numbers of fish being taken.

Thor C. Tolleison, state fisheries director, was named head of the Washington section and Robert W. Schoening, leader of the Oregon section.

Members of the committee include representatives of the fishing industry and scientists from the schools of fisheries of Washington and Oregon universities. under state control.

Earlier Gov. Evans and his two top fisheries aides flew over a Russian fishing fleet off the Washington state coast; counted 45 vessels and said the flight heightened their concern.

On one slow pass within 200 feet of a Soviet trawler hauling in its net, the fishermen appeared to be shaking their fists at the plane and one brandished a stick.

The bulk of the fleet was between Willapa and Grays Harbors, about 12 miles offshore.

On another low-altitude pass over the fleet, the Russians hastily covered a catch of fish with a tarpaulin.

Only one American trawler, described as a midget by comparison with the Russian vessels, was seen in the area.

Ontario to Buy Failing Farms

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal and Ontario governments have agreed on a program to buy up uneconomic farms in the province and turn them over to other farmers to produce economic units.

The far-reaching program under the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act (ARDA) was announced by Forestry Minister Sauve and federal and Ontario officials today.

It also involves rehabilitation, retraining and financial grants where necessary to farmers displaced under the program.

About half of Ontario's 90,000 commercial farms would be eligible for government purchase under the program, although the $7,200,000 set aside for this purpose until 1970 will involve a much smaller percentage.

Mr. Sauve told a press conference that agreements to enlarge and consolidate farms had been signed earlier with New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, but they did not include the rehabilitation provisions of the Ontario agreement.

The rehabilitation section of the program comes under manpower use arrangements which were not in effect at the time of the earlier agreements.

Uneconomic farm units will be bought up by ARDA as they come on the market for sale. There would be no expropriation. The purchased land would be leased to a farm operator who wanted it on a long-term basis and the operator would have first option to purchase it.

The program will be restricted to land costing less than $100 an acre. Farms will only be bought if they are within operating range of a small farm unit that requires additional land to make it more profitable.

Mr. Sauve said the provincial and federal governments will split the cost of the purchase fund 50-50. Of this, $1,200,000 would be spent in the current 1966-67 fiscal year and $2,000,000 in each of the succeeding three years.

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick would be offered the rehabilitation and retraining provisions of the Ontario agreement under their smaller programs.

Where the owner of a purchased farm wished to stay in his farmhouse, he would be given a life lease at a nominal rental.

Some displaced farmers would qualify for free tuition and training allowances under the federal manpower program.

Displaced rural families moving to confirmed employment would qualify for moving grants from the federal government. These meet all family moving expenses and pay relocation costs up to a $1,000 maximum.

Big Travel Writers' Tour Off to a Swinging Start

Vancouver Island Coach Lines annual travel-writers tour has hit the big time this year.

Some 33 television, magazine and newspaper travel reporters from points as far away as Montreal, Fort Worth, Texas, Denver, Los Angeles and way-stops began a five-day trip today on the new Totem Tour route.

This year the government travel bureau and B.C. ferry authority have joined the Victoria bus firm in sponsoring the tour — longest and most elaborate yet of the outings that began with a trip to Gold River and rose to jaunts up to the Peace River Dam.

Travelling on one of the line's new raised-deck coaches, with its own lavatory the group left Victoria for Kelsey Bay where it will board Queen of Prince Rupert for the run to the northern port.

From there the bus will head down Highway 16 — with "outrider" cars taking cameramen to beauty spots off the beaten track while planes and helicopters provide longer side-trips.

The group will visit the Kitimat aluminium smelter plant, burgeoning Lakelse hot springs, resort, Terrace, Smithers, Vanderhoof, Fort St. James, Houston and finally Prince George where they attend a black-tie inaugural of the new luxury Inn of the North.

In between they'll be serenaded by an Indian marching band, escorted by cowboys and several other entertaining diversions will be provided.

On they'll press to visit restored Barkerville, Quesnel and Williams Lake — where a special version of the famed stampede will be put on for their benefit — and then to 100 Mile House, Clinton, Lillooet, Lytton, down to the massive mountain slide at Hope and finally into Vancouver.

WINED, DINED

Throughout, they'll be wined and dined by local community groups, sleep at the best hosteleries, interview local characters and take pictures, pictures, pictures.

B.C. Telephone is making sure they get the word of B.C.'s beauties to folks back home.

It's installed a radio-telephone in the coach and each correspondent will have a free daily call to his office.

"We've been putting on these tours for three years now ourselves and its grown bigger each time," said Vic Downard of VICL.

"This year it really became big and we decided we needed some help so we showed the bureau and the ferry authority the class of writers we had invited and the publicity impact of previous trips and they were happy to join in with us.

"We hope to make the Totem Tour an annual event to spread the word all over this continent."

Garden peas or green peas make tremendous growth in cool weather, and Thursday's rain showers will provide added stimulus.

It would be wise, however, to investigate the soil around various of the garden plants to discover how much moisture has reached the root areas.

Peas need a constant supply especially now the first pods are forming. To swell the peas which in turn will make plump pods, considerable soil moisture is required.

This is where a soil containing plenty of fibrous material is of great value, for it will retain moisture in the area where it is needed to supply food to the plants — right in the area of the pea roots.

Over the years a gardener finds out various facts, and a useful one about peas is that the first flowers often fail before producing pods. This condition is caused by low temperatures and knowing about it saves us undue worrying.

Sudden browning of all the leaves on individual pea plants is another phenomenon causing anxiety.

SHALLOW ROOTS

Pea vines in the early stages of their growth are not deeply rooted. Wind will frequently tear at the top growth sufficiently to break the feeding roots.

Cultivation nearby may also disrupt a plant or two, children and dogs passing through whether you see them or not, would have the same effect.

Later in the season, when picking of the pods takes place every other day or so, it is easy to jolt a plant so completely as to break its roots free from the soil.

If picking the pods is difficult for you without pulling the vines, use a pair of sharp scissors to snip each pod stem.

Fresh green peas are too delicious to lose any of the vines from preventable causes.

Adventists Take Special Offering For Evangelism

Members of Victoria Seventh-Day Adventist Church will join other Adventists around the world in giving a million dollars for world evangelism this Saturday.

This special offering, taken once every four years, will be devoted to public evangelism throughout the world, Pastor Arthur Spenst of the Victoria church said today.

It will precede the opening of the Adventist's 50th world conference at Detroit on June 16, when some 20,000 church members will meet at Cobo Hall.

"Our faith is far from limited to the American continent," said Pastor Spenst. "In fact, there are twice as many Adventists overseas as there are in Canada and the United States.

"Every four years our world conference helps unify the church's world mission by bringing together delegates and workers from nine overseas divisions, as well as North America.

"The church has organized ministries in 189 countries."

ANAF Club Not Folding, Says Chief

Local re-organization of Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Club, 1001 Wharf, was backed up Wednesday by a meeting of ANAF provincial command.

Endorsation of Victoria executive action spiked rumors of financial difficulty and imminent closure of the 48-year-old club.

Unit 12 president G. W. Stan Ball said the re-organization has put the club on a "more financially sound basis."

He said some staff adjustments had been made and a new secretary manager, with more authority, was appointed.

Mr. Ball has been president of the club since January and the changes in operation were made about two weeks ago.

NOT CLOSING

He said there were several rumors circulating to the effect that the club was in difficulty and about to collapse.

"It's unfortunate these vicious rumors start; we're the oldest veterans' organization in Canada.

"We're certainly not closing any doors," he said.

In 1962 the local unit spent more than $100,000 renovating its Wharf Street building, which was erected in 1935.

Mortgage payments of about $1,000 per month have been met consistently, Mr. Ball said. They have some seven years to run.

SUGGESTIONS PAY OFF FOR FOUR

A few suggestions paid off for four Vancouver Island servicemen last month.

They received cash prizes in the department of national defence's suggestion award program.

MORE THAN 100,000 TESTED IN GREATER VICTORIA

Low Incidence of TB Encouraging

Fewer cases of active or suspected tuberculosis were discovered in Greater Voctoria's recent Operation Doorstep campaign than expected.

The massive anti-TB project checked more than 100,000 residents of the capital region via chest X-ray and skin test during its four and a half months operation here.

A total of 12 active cases, were turned up, as well as 33 inactive and nine suspected cases.

Officials were pleased they did not find more cases among the 35,000 school children tested, said Victoria and Island Chest Clinic director, Dr. Robert M. Lane.

They expected to find "a little," he said, but the low rate of TB incidence is particularly encouraging because previously the highest rates have been found among children.

Survey officials were especially alerted for appearance of TB and chest diseases among older persons, where it occurs more often than among any other group.

Of the 10,000 pre-school youngsters checked in the campaign, only one, a 2½ year old boy, had active TB.

The survey also checked family members and other contacts of all schoolchildren who had positive reactions.

Goal of the operation was to check 70 per cent of the capital region's 175,000 residents.

For those who missed checkup in the mobile vans in their neighborhood and at downtown points, a free TB test can still be obtained at the chest clinic, 1902 Fort.

UN Group Seeks New Members

A local group which lends and seeks support for the United Nations is conducting a drive for new members and increased aid.

The Victoria branch of the United Nations Association has launched its annual financial campaign and is combining this with a request for more support from local residents.

The UNA encourages government support of the United Nations by making information on the UN and its associated agencies, such as UNICEF, UNESCO and the World Health Organization, available to the public.

In the UNA's education program it distributes information in the schools, lends help to high school UN clubs, and sponsors UN seminars for students.

The Victoria branch has also provided a scholarship at the University of Victoria, and gives financial assistance each year to local students attending the UN seminar held in August at the University of British Columbia.

The local group has about 400 members, which include business, group and family members as well as individual ones.

It is particularly interested in enlarging its support among local businesses and other organizations.

Chairman of this year's campaign is J. Courtney Haddock, and campaign manager is Dr Hartley Sargent.

Donors receive the UN Association's magazine, The UN in Action. Inquiries and donations may be sent to PO Box 621, Victoria.

STABLE LIKES BELMONT . . . . . . KAUAI KING FAVORED

If Experience Counts, Try Buffle

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP)—If you believe experience is paramount in a horse race, go no further than Buffle in looking for the probable winner of Saturday's $125,000-added Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct.

Although not heavily campaigned, the home-bred son of Zenith out of Bold Venture mare, Refurbish, is supported heavily by a cast wise in the ways of the 1½-mile race which winds up the triple crown competition for three-year-olds.

Post time Saturday is 2:15 p.m., PDT.

Kauai King, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, is 4-to-5 favorite to become the ninth winner of the triple crown.

Not one of his cast ever has been near the New York track on Belmont Stakes day.

Buffle is owned by Robert Klebgerg's King Ranch which has won three runnings of the Belmont in 11 entries—with triple-crown winner Assault in 1946, Middleground in 1950 and High Gun in 1954.

He is trained by Max Hirsch, 85, who has saddled four winners—the King Ranch trio and Vito way back in 1928. And he'll be ridden by Manuel Ycaza, who has tried four times and won once with Quadrangle two years ago.

C. V. Whitney is the only owner except King Ranch among the 10 scheduled entries who has won the classic. His silks were carried to victory by Phalanax in 1947 and by Counterpoint in 1951. He's tied with 16 other horses.

Whitney will be represented by Fast Count, a son of Counterpoint who this year has won all three of his starts, each at 1⅛ miles and all over the Aqueduct oval.

Hirsch stands alone among the trainers as winner of the coveted race.

Jocky Braulio Baeza, who'll ride the well-liked Stupendous from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley Stable, won with Sherluck in 1961 and Chateauguay in 1963.

Johnny Sellers failed on the popular Carry Back in 1961 but came through with Hail to All last year for his first Belmont triumph in five rides. Baeza also has ridden in five Belmonts as has Bobby Ussery who'll be after his first triumph on Fleet Shoe, the hope of California.

Valam, a rank outsider who'll start only if the track is fast, is the lone other horse with a complete novice cast. The others—Amberoid, Highest Honors, and Rehabilitate—all will be ridden by jockeys who have been in one or more Belmonts.

Entries closed this morning with a pot of $160,200 due if 10 are entered. The winner will earn $116,450 with $25,000 to second, $12,500 to third and $6,250 to fourth.

FIRST IN LINE to purchase "package-offer" tickets to Victoria's 1967 "Festival of Golf" were Victoria Mayor Alf Toone (centre) and Reeve Alan Cox of Oak Bay (left). Ringing up first sale was ticket chairman Bill McColl. Scheduled to be played next year are Commonwealth matches, Willingdon Cup and Canadian Amateur events. See story below. Blacker the Fish — Better the Day for Fishing

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Twenty dollars down, and only $24,980 to go . . .

You can call it a "railroader's start," but the campaign to make next year's "Festival of Gold" one of the most memorable fairway events in B.C. history officially got under way Thursday.

Within a 12-day span in 1967, Victoria will be host to the Commonwealth matches, the Willingdon Cup tournament and the Canadian Amateur.

All for the price of $10. . . .

That was the bargain price announced Thursday at a reception at Victoria Golf Club.

Ticket chairman Bill McColl, in announcing details of a "package" ticket-selling campaign for all 12 days, promptly launched sales by "offering" the first two tickets to Victoria Mayor Alf Toone and Oak Bay Reeve Alan Cox.

TARGET OF $25,000

The Commonwealth matches, being staged in Canada for the first time, will be played Aug. 8-12 at Oak Bay. The Willingdon Cup and Canadian Amateur events follow at Colwood, Aug. 14-19.

A preliminary budget of $30,000 has been set to cover both tournaments and McColl said "a goal of $25,000 in advance sales" was the target of his committee.

A ticket enabling persons to see both events is priced at $12.50. Early buyers, however, can take the benefit of an early bargain. Tickets sold before the end of this year will cost only $10.

PRICE WILL CLIMB

As of Jan. 1, the regular $12.50 price will prevail.

Persons wishing to buy tickets for only the Commonwealth matches or the Canadian Amateur and Willingdon Cup team battles (the latter two will be run off as a combined event) will cost $7.50.

Daily prices will be $2.50 "up to the semifinals." Persons wishing to attend semifinals and finals will have to pay $3 for daily tickets.

It doesn't take complex mathematics to figure out that the $10 "package deal" is the obvious bargain.

Arcaro Likes Brumfield As Much as Kauai

NEW YORK (UPI)—Eddie Arcaro, last man ever to win the Triple Crown, feels Kauai King has a good chance to do it Saturday because he likes the jockey as much as he does the horse.

The dapper 50-year-old Arcaro rode nearly 5,000 winners in his time, including two horses for the Triple Crown, Whirlaway in 1941 and Citation in 1948, and six winners in the Belmont Stakes.

So he knows exactly how jockey Don Brumfield will feel when he climbs aboard Kauai King on Saturday, trying for both the Belmont Stakes and the Triple Crown.

"He'll probably be a little tense coming up to it," said Arcaro, "but he won't be nervous. Certainly not enough to interfere with his ride.

"I was with him the night before the Preakness. He was tremendously confident and he had great faith in his horse. He believes Kauai King can beat anything going, and I have to believe in a jockey who thinks like that.

"Most people never even heard of Brumfield before he won the Kentucky Derby," continued Arcaro. "But I heard of him and so did a lot of others who follow racing. He's been a top rider the last seven or eight years."

★ ★ ★

Arcaro was trying to make the point that in some ways winning the Kentucky Derby, which he did five times, carries more prestige than winning the Triple Crown.

"I've travelled around the world and the first question people always ask me is whether I ever won the Derby," he laughed.

"They never ask me if I ever won the Triple Crown.

"I'll say this, though: If Brumfield wins it Saturday, he'll be able to live on it as long as he's a jockey. By that I mean he'll always get good mounts. I have no way of estimating what the Triple Crown means to a jockey in actual dollars and cents for the future. I'd say it was considerable."

Although Arcaro has no reservations about Brumfield, he does have one about Kauai King.

"The horse proved in the Derby and the Preakness that he can beat all the others in a mile and a quarter," said Arcaro.

"But the Belmont is a mile and a half and that could be a big difference. It's a question of whether Kauai King has the staying power."

★ ★ ★

Arcaro does not feel everyone should run out and put everything on Kauai King's nose merely because he likes the three-year-old's chances in the Belmont.

"I did the telecast for the Metropolitan Handicap the other day," he laughed, "and they asked me which horse I liked. I picked Pollux. There were eight other horses in the race and he managed to beat only one of them.

Arcaro rode his last horse in Australia in 1962. Since then, he hasn't even been aboard a wooden steed on a merry-go-round.

But he's doing to saddle up for the network which will televise the Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct on Saturday and will do the color commentary.

Before the race is run, he will describe his Triple Crown victories aboard Whirlaway and Citation for the TV audience.

"I've always said Citation was the best horse I ever rode," said Arcaro. "Thinking it over, though, I'd have to put Kelso right there with him."

Tugs on Rampage

Island Tug batters went on a home-run spree Thursday night and romped to a 17-3 Industrial-Commercial Softball League victory over Red Lion.

In other games, Yarrows beat RCMP 16-9, Victoria Plywood edged Shepherds 14-13 and Bapco trimmed Post Office 14-2.

SEATTLE CLUB . . . . . . HIRES COSTELLO

Totes Pick MacFarland

Former playing-captain Bill MacFarland and Murray Costello, an assistant to Western Hockey League president Al Leader, have been named to top positions with Seattle Totems.

MacFarland, retiring as a player, is the new coach and general manager of Western League club. Costello has been named executive director.

The two will replace coach Bobby Kromm, whose one-year contract has not been renewed, and Keith Allen, who recently resigned as general manager.

The high-scoring MacFarland spent nine of his 10 WHL playing seasons with Seattle. Costello, league publicity director for five years, played four years of professional hockey, three of them in the National League.

Hospitality Kills Braves

Associated Press

Sure Atlanta Braves believe in Southern hospitality. But giving up four runs on a single . . .

That's what happened to the Braves Thursday night when San Francisco Giants handed Atlanta its sixth straight setback, 5-0.

Outfielder Felipe Alou was the goat on Cap Peterson's sixth inning single that broke open a 1-0 game. The bases were loaded on two infield hits and an intentional walk to Willie Mays when Peterson came to bat.

He laced a single to left and when the ball bounced past Alou and roled to the fence, all four runners scored.

That gave Bob Bolin a comfortable margin and the Giants' righthander made it stand up. He allowed only one single over the final seven innings and finished with a three-hitter for his fourth victory in seven decisions.

STILL LEAD LEAGUE

The victory was the fifth straight for the National League-leading Giants, who still hold a 2½-game margin over surging Los Angeles. The Dodgers won their ninth game in the last 10 by shutting out St. Louis Cardinals for the second straight night, 2-0.

Houston Astros tagged reliever Jack Baldschun for nine hits and scored eight runs in the 12th inning to beat Cincinnati Reds 11-4. Philadelphia Phillies edged Chicago Cubs 5-4 and Pittsburgh Pirates blanked New York Mets 5-0.

Until Peterson's hit and Alou's error broke the game open for San Francisco, Bolin had protected a 1-0 lead built in the first inning on a single by Jim Davenport and Mays' double.

The error was the second this year for Alou, who made only three all last season.

WORKS LIKE MAGIC

Dick Radatz now is doing his latest act for the Cleveland Indians—and it still works like magic.

First he appears. Then he disappears.

Radatz did both in the seventh inning Thursday night just hours after the Indians acquired him from Boston. He faced eight batters, retired one, watched five cross the plate and left with the Indians well on their way to an 11-4 loss to Kansas City Athletics.

Earlier in the day, Radatz expressed pleasure with the trade that sent him from the struggling Red Sox to the American League leading Indians in exchange for pitchers Lee Stange and Don McMahon.

SOME NEW START

"It's like starting life all over again—being born again," said Radatz. "There's nothing wrong with my arm. My trouble is mechanical and if I pitch the way I think I can, the Indians will win the pennant."

The Kansas City victory, coupled with Boston's 12-2 loss to Washington Senators, tumbled the Red Sox into the AL cellar while the Athletics climbed into ninth place.

Elsewhere, Baltimore Orioles outlasted California Angels 9-6 in 10 innings, Detroit Tigers edged Minnesota Twins 7-6 and New York Yankees defeated Chicago White Sox 5-3.

Pitcher Lyon Slaps Game-Winning Single

BILL MacFARLAND

Don Lyon picked up a well-deserved 2-1 victory over McLarens for Red Lion Thursday night in a Senior Men's Softball League game at Heywood Avenue Park.

Lyon gave up only two hits on the way to his fourth win of the season and his well-stroked single drove home the winning run in the seventh.

The loss dropped McLarens out of first place. Carlings, who tangle with Sooke tonight at Heywood, now set the pace.

NOT ALL BRITONS ARE SOCCER MAD

LONDON (CP) — Britain is expected to go soccer-mad for three weeks this July and the anguished cries of those who are not fans are already being heard.

The BBC has announced it will televise 50 hours of football during prime evening time when teams from 16 nations compete here for the World Cup. That works out to about two hours a night.

The independent television network will carry only 16 hours.

Soccer fans — and there are millions of them — are overjoyed at the extensive coverage. But there also are millions of non-fans.

Columnist Ann Buchanan writes in The Daily Sketch that "television has solved my annual problem for me — when to take my vacation. "I intend to be hundreds of miles away from the dreaded goggle box during those three weeks in July. . . ."

The Daily Express has a cartoon of a housewife reacting to the news by sawing down the family TV antenna.

The Daily Mirror points out that "millions of viewers, especially women, are bored stiff with football."

Jo Grimond, Liberal party leader has said he hopes BBC and ITV will get together to provide some alternative to football.

CITY GOLF FINAL

Regina Shares Title Interest

The city women's golf final was an argument between Victoria and Nanaimo, but Regina also shared some interest in today's title match at Uplands.

Stepping off in this morning's 18-hole final were Colwood's Eileen Anderson and Ruth McNiven of Nanaimo, both one-time Regina residents who met for the first time shortly after ticking off Thursday's semifinal victories.

Mrs. Anderson moved into the final Friday by defeating Uplands' Lil Thirlwell, 7 and 6, while Mrs. McNiven upset Gorge Vale's Shirley Naysmith on an extra hole.

Mrs. McNiven, one down playing the 18th, had to drop a nine-foot putt to square the match.

Both Mrs. McNiven and Mrs. Naysmith, this year's medallist, toured the regulation 18 holes in seven-over-par 82s.

Plus Which, It's Against The Law . . .

NEW YORK (AP)—There will be no fight to the finish for heavyweights George Chuvalo of Toronto and Argentina's Oscar Bonavena at Madison Square Garden, June 23. They will meet in a scheduled 10-rounder.

The boxers' request for a fight to the finish was rejected by Edwin B. Dooley, the new chairman of the State Athletic Commission, in his first ruling as he took over the post.

"It would not be in the best interests of the boxers," said Dooley. "It would be a big step backwards since all of the measures passed in recent years have been for the protection of the boxers."

In addition, there is a state law against fights to the finish.

COVERING ALL ASPECTS

Fitness Group Studies Hockey

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister MacEachen said Thursday he hopes a study of hockey to be undertaken by the National Fitness Council "will remove any problems surrounding hockey . . . and strengthen its position as the country's national game."

A fitness council statement said the study is to be a wide-ranging one, covering all aspects of amateur hockey in Canada.

"The areas which the study committee will explore include, among other things, the relationships between pros and amateurs, conflicts between hockey and education, playing rules, player drafts, Canadian participation in international competition, and the role of Canada's national hockey team."

Committee chairman is Bill l'Heureux, a former senior hockey player who now is director of the physical education department at the University of Western Ontario.

Mr. l'Heureux told a reporter last month that results of the study will be made public. He said the committee would report to the fitness council and the council to the health minister who is responsible to Parliament for the amateur sport directorate.

He said the committee would recommend solutions for any problems it may find in its study.

BREAK COMING

Relationships between the National Hockey League and the CAHA have become strained lately and the amateur group voted a year ago to end its agreement with the pros. The break is scheduled for next year.

The CAHA wants the NHL to discontinue its present drafting of amateur players while they are still juniors and to put funds it spends on minor hockey into one pot where all amateurs can benefit, instead of sponsoring certain teams.

CAHA TO HELP

Gordon Juckes, secretary-registrar of the CAHA, has said his group welcomes the committee's interest and will throw open its operations to the committee.

The committee first will gather all available information from organizations involved in hockey. It may also interview officials and accept briefs from interested persons.

Workers Unload Heavy Artillery

Transport Workers are only one game off the pace set by Greaves in the Senior Amateur Baseball League parade, and if they continue to hit the ball the way they did Thursday night against Rawlings at Hampton Park, they may not take too long in catching up to the pace-setters.

Transports tagged Rawlings hurlers for 16 hits, five of them for extra bases on the way to a 13-3 victory.

Transports' second baseman John McKeachie drove in five runs with a single, a double and a home run in four trips to the plate.

Art Worth led Transport hitters wth four solid base hits in five at-bats. Worth scored two runs and knocked in two more.

Barry Harvey, Jim Heighton and Al Foster each collected two hits for the Workers. Foster scored three runs, Harvey added two and accounted for another with a single during a wild, seven-run rally in the final inning.

Brian Harvey received credit for the win, Myron Wallace took the loss.

Sports Hall of Fame Becomes Legal Body

Incorporation as a legal body was granted this week to British Columbia Sports Hall of Fame, which became a provincial society.

Its articles state the hall is to recognize the achievements of teams and individuals which bring honor to B.C. in any sport;

To recognize the development by persons or bodies of any sport in the province;

To encourage development by recording sports achievements and the history of sports;

To set up an archives of achievements and place in which to show them prominently.

The hall of fame will operate chiefly within the city of Vancouver, the articles say.

Among 27 directors named in the application for incorporation are hotelman and rowing coach Frank Read, UBC athletic director Prof. Robert Osborne, restaurateur Nat Bailey, public relations director Ted Fox, Magistrate Mervin E. Ferguson, and Nanaimo Mayor Pete Maffeo.

WHERE THERE'S smoke there's bound to be a bunch of nuts like Duncan Jaycees here shown in Jaycee parade on the oldest, noisiest and most unpredictable fire engine in the world. Group, who won first prize for best parade entry, includes Dave Hartley, Hugh Jackson, Bob Swanson, Jens Wolf, Joe Gauthier and Ernie Hamm. Mascot on hood is Bob Maxwell. (Irving Strickland Photo.)

FUN AND BUSINESS FOR ALL

Saanich Roars to Jaycee Beat

Color Saanich a deep red.

If the money Reeve Hugh Curtis and eight of his nine councillors misspent at the Junior Chamber of Commerce Nevada Night Thursday had been the real thing, the municipal coffers would be as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard.

The Saanich brass, hosts at a dinner for B.C.-Yukon Jaycees at the Red Lion Inn, stayed on for an evening's gaming, Las Vegas style.

"At $200 funny money for $1 of the real stuff, a profligate time was had by all," said a Kamloops Jaycee who added he hadn't seen as much green on one table since he quit the bank.

The 179 Jaycees and 128 wives, Jaycee-Ettes and girl friends arrived Thursday for the biggest provincial Jaycee convention ever held.

They were welcomed at opening ceremonies by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, Mayor Alf Toone, Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich, Reeve Alan Cox of Oak Bay and acting provincial Junior Chamber of Commerce president Bert Day, and Mines Minister Don Brothers.

Highlight of the afternoon was a parade, which despite ominous skies and a traffic-filled Douglas Street, made it from the CPR wharf to the arena, apparently delighting thick late-afternoon crowds on the way.

Today is devoted to provincial chamber business, a stag luncheon at the Red Lion and a dance and banquet at the Crystal Garden.

Main events Saturday will be an awards luncheon at which the best single Jaycee in the province and the best unit (there are more than 40 at the convention) will be honored, a cocktail party at Government House and the President's Ball at the Racquet Club.

At the close of the first day's activities Thursday, Victoria Jaycee president Brian Small said the only headache convention organizers have had so far has been what to do with all the people.

He said there were so many here for Thursday's dinner, 50 Victoria Jaycees had to give their seats to out-of-towners.

By tonight, the total convention attendance mark should be close to the anticipated 600.

One hundred are expected from Washington, Idaho and Oregon.

Said provincial president Day, Kamloops: "Victoria Jaycees have done a terrific job getting these people to come, and accommodating them."

Mr. Day's term lasts until Saturday when a new provincial executive will be elected.

Everyone Looked Them Over

By GLEN ALLEN

"Hey, Look Them Over." blared the brass of Lansdowne Junior Secondary School band and a whole city did.

There were a dozen floats, two bands, numerous clowns, one antiquated fire engine, Miss Victoria, convertibles, a walking hat and a rogue B.C. Hydro bus.

It was the Jaycee Fun Parade which stomped its way from the CPR wharf to Memorial Arena Thursday afternoon.

Although hastily escorted through the Douglas Street traffic by motorcycle policemen—even if beleaguered by red lights and at least one impudent crosstown bus—the parade brought sidewalks, at least, to a standstill.

Among the more original and rambunctious parade entries was a vintage North Cowichan fire engine driven by seven madmen from the Duncan Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A silent but mirthful contingent from Richmond carried placards proclaiming "We Follow the Birds to Victoria" (the birds were gone but there were eight or nine umbrellas covered in evidence of their passing).

Representing Cloverdale Jaycees was a bogus Gerda Munsinger rather fetchingly got out in a giant (and she needed it) bikini.

Theme of the parade was as its title implied, "Fun," a requisite accounted for by the hose-happy Cowichan firemen who took the permanent creases out of more than one innocent pair of trousers.

The parade began at 3:40 and was over at 4:10, a half-hour the city fathers and police are glad is over and done with.

YOUNG PEOPLE NEEDED IN POLITICS: CURTIS

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis urged young people Thursday night to become active in politics at all levels of government.

He told the Jaycee convention there is no finer combination than youthful enthusiasm coupled with experience and wisdom of older persons.

"Theoretically, and I know it works in practice as well, the younger side of the team then urges action and prompt solution of problems while the more senior members are in a position to point out past pitfalls and difficulties," he said.

Cribbens At the Movies

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS
Royal Theatre

I cannot take much of the Old Testament literally. But those who can should be well pleased with this thundering screen spectacle—and those who can't will be moved by its huge dramatic impact.

Revived 10 years after it was filmed, The Ten Commandments is still a powerful re-enactment of a great story—the story of Moses who was raised to be a prince, but fell into slavery and almost perished before the time was ripe for him to lead the children of Israel out of Egypt.

* * *

To Sir Winston Churchill, Moses was the man who made "the most decisive leap forward ever discernible in human history." Henry George described him as "the genius of human liberty—one of those star souls that dwindle not with distance."

Cecil B. DeMille, who both produced and directed this movie interpretation of Biblical history, saw him as a "fiercely impassioned deliverer freeing mankind to live by law."

Moses is also an example of man's power to grow in stature and wisdom, and Charlton Heston, in the first of his many Biblical roles, is magnificently impressive.

But when it comes to the turning of rods into snakes and the conversion of rivers into blood, I was uncomfortably reminded of music-hall magic.

The voice of God coming out of the burning bush on Mount Sinai is impressive, but to me it suggests a Shakespearean actor impersonating the Deity, with Hollywood sound effects.

* * *

I much preferred the earlier scenes in which Moses, exiled from Egypt, stumbles through blinding desert and finds shelter with the Sheik of Midian, his shepherd kingdom and his seven comely daughters.

His love affair with Sephora, the eldest, is appealing and Yvonne De Carlo (formerly of Vancouver) is charmingly beautiful in the role.

They live in peace, as man and wife, until Joshua (John Derek) comes on the scene and urges Moses to return to Egypt and free his people. Moses is convinced of his divine mission when he climbs to the burning bush and hears God commanding him to save the persecuted Israelites.

He returns to Egypt and commands the Pharoah Rameses (Yul Brynner) to let his people go. But Rameses hardens his heart and says: "I know not your Lord, neither will I let Israel go."

Backed by stormy symphonic music and an all-star cast, the great drama takes nearly three hours to unfold. There is hardly a dull moment in it and the parting of the Red Sea is magnificently done.

No Evidence To Warrant Charges

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC said Thursday an RCMP investigation into allegations that drugs were used in connection with the filming of a bed scene for the TV program "Youth and Morality" did not turn up any evidence to warrant criminal charges.

The publicly-owned corporation requested the investigation on the basis of a story in the Toronto Telegram on May 2.

The story said a 17-year-old girl claimed that while under the influence of a pill she was photographed in bed with two youths by a CBC crew.

It said that the film, taken last July to simulate a teen-age marijuana party in a Toronto apartment, "showed two teen-aged boys in bed with a partially-clad teen-aged girl who appeared dazed and bewildered."

The program—minus the bed scene—was shown on the CBC television network last Sunday night.

SA Plans Sing Along In Square

A 25-piece Salvation Army band begins a 13-program series of band concerts in Centennial Square Sunday at 8:15 p.m.

There will also be piano and organ accompaniment and a 35-voice choir. Soloists will also perform.

The programs will be sing-alongs with the public invited to participate. Song sheets with words of favorite hymns have been prepared.

Master of ceremonies will be Bert Nelson. Director is Captain Don McMillan. Band director is Ray Cornick. The first choir program is directed by William Hastings and Wilfred Yurgensen and soloist is Capt. Bruce Robertson, second in command of all Salvation Army musical activities in Canada.

Captain Robertson recently returned from Bermuda to visit with his parents here.

Toronto Magazine

TORONTO (CP) — Plans for publication in Toronto of a glossy, 100-page monthly magazine to be known as Toronto Life have been announced by Donald Cromie of Vancouver. Mr. Cromie, former publisher of the Vancouver Sun, said the new magazine, scheduled to appear Oct. 17, will follow the format of Vancouver Life, a magazine he launched in Vancouver last October.

ALDERSOT, England (AP) — Two British Army parachute troopers who refused to jump were sentenced to jail Wednesday. Both told an army court they had been seized with fear. Pte. Peter Morkill, 25, was sentenced to 84 days, Pte. Peter Harris, 19 to 55 days.

PROTESTER HALTS ROYAL PROCESSION

YEOVIL, England (Reuters) A man waving a banner protesting the Viet Nam war sat in the road halting Queen Elizabeth's car as she drove from a railway station here today.

Accompanied by Prince Philip, the Queen was starting a tour of western England farming districts.

They had just left the station when the man sat down in the road. The royal couple's limousine stopped and police dragged the man to the roadside.

THREE B.C. COMEDY PRODUCTIONS PANNED

No Laughs from Adjudicator at Drama Fete

Bardot Must Pay

PARIS (Reuters) — A Paris civil court Wednesday ordered French film star Brigitte Bardot to pay 10,000 francs ($2,140) damages to a French recording company for breach of contract. Miss Bardot was adjudged guilty of failing to record children's stories as stipulated in a contract she signed in 1959.

KELOWNA (CP)—Three comedies drew criticism Thursday night from Dr. Ian Rose, adjudicator of the B.C. Drama Association's one-act play festival.

Ladysmith Little Theatre's Happy Holiday, Cranbrook Community Theatre's Guest of Honor and Fruitvale Community Players' The Form all lacked pace, the adjudicator said.

Dr. Rose said Happy Holiday and Guest of Honor, as dialogue and character comedies, respectively, gave the audience too much time to think—particularly Guest of Honor, which as farce must be played as nonsense.

He said The Form belongs to the theatre of the absurd and must be played off the audience. There were too many gaps in the laughter in this case.

The festival ends tonight with presentations from Grande Prairie, White Rock and Kitimat.

REVIEWING POLICY CLASH

Future of 7 Days In Doubt

OTTAWA (CP) — The future of the CBC's This Hour Has Seven Days was left in doubt Thursday by corporation president J. Alphonse Ouimet.

He told the Commons broadcasting committee it may be impossible to continue the show next season.

As the committee concluded more than a month of hearings on the dropping of the co-hosts from the television show, Mr. Ouimet said recent statements by executive producer Douglas Leiterman which challenged management's authority had made necessary a study of the feasibility of continuing the program.

But he said if Seven Days is scrapped the CBC will turn out a magazine-type program that is "virile, aggressive and interesting."

Mr. Ouimet said the review, which he hopes will be completed this month, is required to determine whether the program can be produced according to CBC policies.

Mr. Leiterman, whom management says it wants to produce the show again, has stated that producers should be given the right to give editorial opinion and has defended use of "extra - legal" methods of reporting, Mr. Ouimet said.

"Such views are unacceptable to the corporation."

THREATENED A STRIKE

The committee, set to work last month when the Toronto Producers' Association threatened strike action over the decision against keeping Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre as co-hosts, hopes to write its report in time for the three-day meeting of the CBC board of directors scheduled to start June 27.

The strike was postponed after Prime Minister Pearson named Stuart Keate, on leave of absence as publisher of the Vancouver Sun, to review the dispute to determine whether a solution was possible.

Mr. Keate found blame on both sides and urged CBC to give a fuller explanation for its action. As it had a month before, the directors admitted a failure in communications but backed management's decision.

There has been no indication what the committee will report or what effect the report will have on the situation.

Lewis Brand (PC—Saskatoon) asked Mr. Ouimet what his reaction would be if the committee recommended the co-hosts be reinstated. The president replied it would be the first time in 30 years that a parliamentary committee had made recommendations on a specific program and its personnel.

He was not trying to tell MPs what to do. But in the past parliamentary committees had always limited themselves to broad policy questions.

REJECTS LEWIS' PROPOSAL

He rejected a proposal by David Lewis (NDP — York South) that he accept the producers' latest demand that the issue of the co-hosts be submitted to binding arbitration.

It would be a "very dangerous precedent" to hand a programming decision to a party that has no responsibility within the CBC structure, he said.

The controversy over the program opened in April with producers arguing that normal communications channels were short-circuited by management when it acted on the co-hosts.

Mr. Keate recommended appointment of a vice-president to consult directly with producers and the public affairs department to improve the communications system.

Mr. Ouimet told the committee Thursday that at the moment he does not know whether this is the best way to proceed.

Mr. Keate also reported that the "gut issue" in the dispute remains — the announcement April 22 that the president and the board reviewed the Watson-LaPierre case and confirmed the decision not to renew their contracts.

CBC Gets Ultimatum Signed by Employees

TORONTO (CP)—A petition signed by about 60 members of the CBC's public affairs department here has been sent to the parliamentary committee on broadcasting.

The petition says the employees will not comply with instructions from head office that they feel conflict with traditional policies of the department.

The 12 - sentence document, addressed to Ron Basford, Liberal member for Vancouver-Burrard, who is vice chairman of the committee, notes management has acknowledged that the firings of Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre, co-hosts of This Hour Has Seven Days violated lines of authority.

"We seek reassurance," the statement said, "despite statements of the CBC board of directors, that this . . . will cease and that a constructive relationship will ensure."

ORBIT PATHS of Gemini 9 are shown in this chart which also pinpoints the beginning and end of the space walk Saturday by astronaut Eugene Cernan. The three-day mission started early today with a perfect takeoff from Cape Kennedy. One of the goals of the mission was a rendezvous and hookup with a target satellite, 185 miles in space. But this part of the mission may be scrapped because protective covering on the satellite failed to drop off. (AP Wirephoto.)

. . . SATELLITE

on the lunar surface and sent back dramatic pictures of possible manned landing sites, the Titan propelled Gemini 9 aloft on a vital, three-day rendezvous and space-walk mission.

The big Titan, with the rays of a bright sun glistening on its sides, rose slowly from its launch pad and sped out over the Atlantic Ocean, followed by a big white tail of vapor.

"We're right down the middle," flight director Eugene Kranz shouted. "Good! Excellent!"

"Everything," he told Safford, "is green and go."

'It's Fantastic,' Says Stafford

"We're on our way!" Stafford yelled exultantly. "It's fantastic."

To make today's launch possible, Stafford faced and overcame the same communications problem that forced Wednesday's shutdown 100 seconds before firing.

A radio guidance command that would have given the spacecraft precise steering directions failed to get through to its computer. This time, the decision was made to go ahead.

Shortly after the Gemini separated from its booster rocket, Stafford fired his jet thrusters to make necessary corrections in the orbit and plane of the spaceship and put it on the desired path of pursuit.

Before returning to earth, the astronauts were to perform many of the manoeuvres Apollo spacemen will make on round-trip journeys to the moon.

It was the second time Stafford had needed three tries before going into orbit. His Gemini 6 flight last year was postponed twice before finally getting away.

The 11-foot-long target satellite, a tiny dot in the vastness of space, was entering its 30th revolution of the earth as Stafford and Cernan began their hot pursuit.

Good for at Least 15 Orbits

With Cernan calculating the manoeuvre on a computer and Stafford firing the thrusters, the astronauts made a major shift 49 minutes after launching as Gemini 9 whipped high above Australia.

The move lifted the low point of their orbital course from 99 to 144 miles.

The Australian station also passed word that Gemini 9 was good for at least 15 orbits.

Warner Shareholders Get Some Good News

Satisfaction with performance of its portfolio companies despite a falling market is expressed in the quarterly report of E. C. Warner Investments Ltd., of Victoria.

A net income of $12,278 for the first half of the fiscal year is reported in the statement of income for the period ended March 31.

"Your directors feel now that your company is in such good financial shape that dividends on your "A" stock are assured for the foreseeable future (15 cents has been paid) and a small initial dividend of five cents a share was paid on the "B" shares," president E. C. Warner said.

The firm has increased its holding in A-1 Steel and Iron Foundry Ltd., both "A" and "B" shares, after an imporved financial year.

Progress also was noted in the performance of McKay-Cormack Ltd. shipyard compared with last year and Atlas Chain Co. Ltd. "exceeded all our expectations," Mr. Warner reported.

"Our profits were so enormous that we felt it was our duty to realize some of this investment and put it into dividend-paying stocks," he said.

Wilko Industries had performed below expectations, although the future appears to be good, he said.

Public reaction to Growers' Wine new lines and bottles led Warner Investments to buy "a fairly large block of shares."

The rest of the portfolio "drifted along with no spectacular performance in keeping with the Canadian stock exchanges prices in general," the president said.

TRAIL TO HONOR PREMIER

TRAIL CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett will be made a Freeman of the City of Trail during his B.C. centennial fiesta next week.

Mayor Joseph Palyga said Thursday the premier would be the third person so honored in the fiesta's three-year history. The others are former external affairs minister Howard Green, and Cominco chairman and chief executive officer W. S. Kirkpatrick.

The presentations will be made Thursday, June 9. The premier will be accompanied by several members of his cabinet.

The fiesta, a week-long celebration in this Kootenay city, will begin Saturday with a parade.

Benefits From Drug Reviews

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will get a bonus benefit from a United States review of the efficacy of some 4,000 drugs which began this month, federal officials said Wednesday.

The results of the U.S. review will be available to the federal food and drug directorate whose job involves checking on safety and efficacy of drugs sold in this country.

The U.S. review will cover all the drugs which came on the market between 1938 and 1962. Checking their efficacy is a three-year job.

Dr. A. C. Hardman of the federal food and drug directorate said in an interview that the Canadian directorate maintains a close liaison with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, and will have access to the results of the American testing program.

The Canadian directorate also will be starting its own drug review next year.

Once new regulations come into force next Oct. 1, Canadian drug manufacturers and distributors for the first time will be required to provide information to a central drug registry here on all their drug products.

The index will be the base from which the directorate will make an extnsive review of drugs on the market in this country.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1966—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

Most of the letters that come to this office are signed, even though the writers may not wish to share their names with the reading public. This is a sometimes necessary provision, and I have yet to hear of a newspaper or newsman who failed to respect it.

So when good old "Pro Bono Publico" looses a blast, or "Utterly Disgusted" goes to bat for yon doomed oak tree, you may be sure that he has established his good faith by furnishing us with his name and address.

We know who "Faithful Reader" is, and even though his shyness may puzzle us, this paper gives him reasonable space in which to make his point.

There is, however, another penman whose effusions never see print. He is anonymous in fact as well as nom de plume; he doesn't trust us, and, often regretfully, we must consider his letters suspect.

I have no quarrel with Anonymous in his more amiable manifestations, and there have been times when he has earned my gratitude by good works. However, there lurks among his ranks a faceless, nameless creature of a more sinister sort. His specialty is the poison pen letter.

★

The first time one of these favored me with his attentions, I felt as if I had been lashed at by a snake. But that was a long time ago, and I no longer brood over the rare attack from ambush.

A columnist offers an especially choice target for the poison pen. His name is up there for all to see, he states his views on any subject that takes his fancy, and in the process he may very well tread upon somebody's toes.

When this happens, the offended reader usually lets me know. He calls and identifies himself, or writes and signs. Since mine is a lonely sort of job with few guide-posts, I welcome those contacts, and frequently benefit from them.

The poison pen, however, is not given to rational discussion, and prefers his arguments to be strictly one-sided. He is also terrified at the prospect of discovery, and the means he uses to avoid dropping clues are many and devious.

If he telephones, he will often attempt to change his voice. Frequently he prints his letters; once he took the elaborate and ridiculous precaution of clipping and pasting words from a magazine.

One of my pet serpents—so constant that I would miss him if he turned his venom elsewhere — alternates between fine, tight handwriting and a large, unformed scrawl.

I have used the generic "he," but I think those last missives come from a woman, and this is a reversal of the usual order. By the evidence, I suspect that the majority of poison pen letter writers are male.

★

In the course of a year, I garner about a dozen of these furtive epistles.

Even the envelope conveys an impression of furtiveness. It carries no return address, of course, and it is free of any distinguishing mark. Often the letter inside lacks margins. Occasionally, despite his precautions, the writer betrays himself by a unique turn of phrase or a misspelling which I have noted and remembered from previous legitimate correspondence.

All are abusive, some obscene. They are always ugly, vindictive beyond the normal range of anger, and characterized by the crazen fear of recognition that I noted earlier.

But what's to be afraid of? Why not do as the normal incensed correspondent does . . . state the complaint, perhaps blow off steam by beating the dust out of my pelt, and add the signature which establishes the right to be considered an honest dissident?

I wonder less about the why of the poison pen since I quit dropping such letters in my wastebasket and began turning them over to a psychiatrist.

WE'RE RIPE FOR EASY PICKINS

BARRY BICKFORD

Jumbo Crop Needs Pickers

One of the heaviest berry crops in years is waiting to be picked in the Saanich Peninsula.

The word from growers this morning was that, this year's crop may go as high as 800 tons, compared with 600 tons last year.

And, as usual, the growers say there is a shortage of pickers.

Barry Bickford, a large Central Saanich grower, said people are starting to go out on weekends to pick fruit and he expects little problem in getting pickers once school is out.

But in the meantime there is an acute shortage of pickers during the week.

CALL N.E.S.

Saanich Fruit Growers' Association confirmed the shortage and a spokesman appealed for pickers at this time. He said anyone interested should contact the National Employment Service which makes arrangements for pickers.

The association spokesman said some pickers can earn as much as $13 or $14 a day although he agreed "this is very high."

He said it is "impossible" to estimate the average earnings of pickers.

"It depends on how hard they want to work and the patch they are working in."

Mr. Bickford said this year's crop is ready a bit earlier than last year's. So far he has taken 30 crates of strawberries off one acre of fruit.

Picking started last Sunday on his farm. This year's crop has been little affected by frost.

Seven Hurt In Series Of Smashes

Seven persons required hospital treatment in six road accidents over the past 24 hours.

Irwin Lyle Rocknell, 1418 Harrison, is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital after his car went out of control in the 200 block Esquimalt Road early today and smashed into a rock outcrop.

He suffered face cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Cecilia Ward, 4967 Cordova Bay Road, was treated for minor injuries at hospital Thursday night and released following a spectacular two-car crash at Hillside and Quadra Streets.

SHATTERED WINDOW

The Ward car rammed the wall of Hillside Hardware and then shattered a plate glass window after it was in collision with an auto driven by Peter Erthington, 242 Beechwood.

Edmond Persohbacker, 17, of 2780 Seaview, was treated for abrasions at hospital Thursday after he was thrown from his motorcycle on North Park when it struck a dog.

Police said the dog, owned by Jim Ato, 916 North Park, was killed. The mishap took place between Cook and Quadra Streets.

Maryse Carrious, 16, of 2664 Cedar Hill Road, and Gail Fletcher, 17, of 1120 Oxford St., were treated for minor injuries after a two-car collision at Oliphant and Vancouver Thursday around 6 p.m.

HEAVY DAMAGE

Police said damage was heavy in a collision between the Carrious car and an auto driven by Joan Marie Haywood, 1029 Oliphant.

Dennis Hutchings, 19, of 1871 Carrick, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital about noon today after his motorcycle was in collision with a car at Blackwood and Vista Heights. A hospital spokesman said he was not seriously injured.

One person was reported injured and en route to hospital in a mishap on Sooke Road near Royal Roads today. No details were available.

WATER, WATER everywhere at Douglas and Cloverdale early today as an 88-year-old main burst, turning Roderick and Cloverdale into rivers. At breakfast time crews had uncovered the break and the line was back in service later today. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

ONE MORE UNION TO SIGN

Victoria has one more labor agreement to sign before its labor negotiations for the year are completed.

City manager Dennis Young said rates paid city-employed carpenters are normally agreed to by the Victoria Builders' Exchange and the union, and that negotiations are still in progress.

BREAKDOWN

Other unions settled with the city as follows:

City Hall Employees' Association, Local 388 (inside staff), five per cent a year for two years; Civic Employees' Association, Local 50 (outside workers), 12 cents an hour each year for two years.

International Association of Fire Fighters, Local 730, five per cent for one year. The fire fighters award was decided by a binding conciliation board.

Victoria Policemen's Union, five per cent each year for two years.

Operating Engineers (Memorial Arena), 12 cents an hour each year for two years.

Registered Nurses' Association, five per cent for one year.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, street lighting division, six per cent each year for two years.

In his report Mr. Young said that while the various increases had boosted the city's budget they are fair and equitable.

Mayor A. W. Toone said the negotiating teams from management and labor are to be congratulated on reaching the different agreements amicably.

1878 Water Main Throws in Towel

Tens of thousands of gallons of water turned parts of Cloverdale, Douglas and Roderick Streets into a riverbed early today as an ancient water main burst under Douglas Street.

The 12-inch cast-iron pipe, stamped with the date 1878, cracked for several feet where it runs about eight feet underground at the Douglas-Cloverdale intersection.

The basements of two homes on Roderick were flooded though not severely, a Saanich waterworks department spokesman said.

Water gushing under the road surface heaved it as much as six inches along the edges.

Workmen were busy burrowing down to the break as the morning rush-hour traffic streamed past and were expected to have the line in service shortly after noon.

The high-pressure line broke about 3 a.m. Crews stopped the flooding by turning off four valves. Water supply for most of the area was maintained by bypassing the break through other mains in the area. Only about 10 houses were without water until repairs were completed.

'Mug-Up' Planned After Field Trip

The younger section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Douglas and Hillside for a field trip to Goldstream Park.

A "mug-up" and campfire is planned after the hike.

Esquimalt Radar At Work Monday

Something new has been added in Esquimalt.

Police Chief James Smart said Thursday the municipality now has its first radar unit.

It will go on the job Monday morning checking the speed of motorists on Esquimalt streets.

Warehousemen Set Strike Vote

A government-supervised strike vote will be held next Thursday among 15 drivers and warehousemen employed by Standard Furniture.

The International Brotherhood of Teamsters is seeking its first contract for the men, who work at the warehouse on Viewfield Road.

If the vote is affirmative, the men may strike after giving 48 hours' notice.

Assessment in Area Called 'Acceptable'

AMERICAN SUBMARINE OPEN SUNDAY

A U.S. submarine will be on show to the public Sunday at HMC Dockyard.

The USS Menhaden will be here on a two-day liberty and recreation visit, and no official ceremonies have been laid on when she docks at 9 a.m. Saturday.

People interested in touring the 310-foot vessel will be allowed on board between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday.

The provincial assessment commissioner has officially informed Victoria that assessments in the Greater Victoria municipalities are at acceptable levels.

But the city still isn't convinced that assessments are as fair as they appear on paper.

Commissioner W. P. Wright, answering a request from city manager Dennis Young for information on assessment increases in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, said in his opinion "all of the municipal components of the Greater Victoria school district have highly acceptable levels."

COSTLY TO CITY

The issue came to light when, in his annual report to city council at budget time, comptroller James Bramley suggested the significant differences in assessment increases during the past year could be costly to Victoria taxpayers.

In his reply Mr. Wright noted that although Victoria assessments had jumped 25.13 per cent in 1966 over 1965 as compared with a 16.43 per cent jump in Sannich, a 0.14 per cent increase in Oak Bay and a 1.58 per cent increase in Esquimalt, a three-year tally of increases showed a truer picture.

He stated that since 1964 Victoria's total increase in assessments was 32.94 per cent as compared with 31.65 per cent in Saanich, 38.78 per cent in Oak Bay and 17.31 per cent in Esquimalt.

But although the three-year figures show three municipalities fairly close in line the city wants more information before it accepts the statistics.

NEED ASSURANCE

"This is fine, but I think we still need the assurance that the assessments in other municipalities are up to the 50 per cent of market value line," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

"We should ask the city manager to find out how assessment values in other municipalities compare with ours. We know that we are up to the 50 per cent mark, but are the others? We have nothing to hide and I'm sure the other municipalities have nothing to hide."

The city manager will endeavor to supply the information.

EARLY CHECK

Mr. Young said the report from Mr. Wright was more than welcome in that in addition to the information presented it also carried the promise of an early check of assessments by equalization evaluators.

"It is significant that the equalization evaluators will be out in the field early," said Mr. Young. "It will give us the assurance that if everything isn't all right now it certainly will be in the future."

The cost-sharing formula used by the various municipalities in the Greater Victoria area is based on assessment values. It has been stressed on several occasions that a municipality with low or out-of-date assessments could thus save money when the municipalities share costs while the municipality with its assessments up to date could be penalized by its own efficiency.

North Saanich Student Believed Drowned Swimming Near Peace

A University of Victoria student working for the summer with B.C. Forest Service is believed to have drowned while swimming Wednesday near the Peace River power project.

Douglas Gordon Ward, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Ward, 8667 Aldous Terrace, North Saanich, was last seen when he left after work late Wednesday afternoon to go swimming in the Peace.

DOUGLAS WARD
. . . clothing found

A forest service spokesman said when the youth failed to return a search party was sent out and his clothes were found beside the river about 9 p.m. The site was about 15 miles west of Portage Mountain dam site.

Up until press time today the body had not been recovered.

The youth, a graduate of North Saanich high school, attended University of Victoria last year and went north on a summer job with the forest service. His parents said that in a letter home he had said the past month was one of the happiest in his life. He was a survey assistant marking flood lines on the Peace project.

He is survived, in addition to his parents, by two sisters, Anne and Mary.

NEVER IN UPLANDS

Old Smokey Fires Them Up

By DESMOND BILL

People in Parklands say it couldn't happen in the Uplands.

And they say it shouldn't happen anywhere.

They mean "the smoke."

It comes in great gusts, at times, from a burner at Plumper Bay Sawmills Ltd.

The smoke deposits ash and dirt on clothes hung out to dry. It permeates locked windows and causes what one woman called "a most horrible smell in your house."

At times it mixes with light morning fog so that you can't see a house on the other side of the street.

UNTIL AUG. 5

And it will continue like that, depending on atmospheric conditions, until Aug. 5.

Presumably, homeowners in the Parklands subdivision of Esquimalt and people who live around Craigflower Bridge, will continue smoking with rage until that date too.

There is nothing anyone can do to stop it.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, metropolitan health officer, says the mill has been given until Aug. 5 to stop the smoke nuisance.

But that doesn't make the people who live in the smoke path any happier.

Says one of them, Mrs. W. R. Walters, 908 Alexander, "It looks as if we are in for a long, hot, smoky summer."

HEARD IT BEFORE

She says they have heard before that the nuisance would be stopped. That was last fall when the mill owner promised to try and stop burning by Jan. 1 of this year.

The mill did start to ship away sawdust and now burns only about 10 per cent of the waste it did formerly. But it still continues to burn wet bark that produces a lot of smoke.

Mrs. Walters, and other residents like her, say the improvement hardly makes any difference. She has organized her neighbors to have the burning stopped completely.

Most of them live in better-than-average homes. Some moved in within recent years, not knowing of the smoke nuisance. They don't want to be quoted by name but all the newcomers quizzed say they would not have moved if they had known about the smoke.

PALL OF SMOKE

A woman who lives in a rented home down by Craigflower, in the opposite direction from Mrs. Walters' home, says she can sometimes see a pall of smoke rolling downhill on her home.

Mrs. Beverley Campbell, 109 Glentana, says her husband had to get a professional car wash for his auto when he left it out overnight once. He couldn't remove the fine ash from his car.

Her neighbor, Mrs. Darlene Lange, 107 Glentana, says the smoke makes the area "worse than Alberni, except that this place doesn't have the pulp mill smell."

Even the promise that the burning will cease Aug. 5 does not really make Mrs. Walter happy.

She says: "Tight legislation is necessary to control this air pollution. It should never have been allowed in the first place. Even when this nuisance is cleared up, there is nothing to prevent something similar happening either here or elsewhere."

Ask The Times

Q. What, briefly, is the history of Bentinck Island, the former leper colony? C.P.

A. The 112-acre island, nine miles southwest of Victoria off William Head, was taken by the federal government for use as a lighthouse reserve, although it never served in that function, in 1884. In 1924, it was given over to the Department of Health and Welfare for use as a leper colony. The island, with its total patient population of 22 patients was one of two lazarettos in Canada until the last afflicted man died in 1956. It was turned over to the Department of National Defence in 1959 and has since served as a demolition range.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Feed Hungry Gourmets Quick, Hearty Meal

By Penny Saver

Saturdays around the Saver household are a real panic in the truest sense of the word. Perhaps "chaotic" best describes the usual pandemonium. The day starts at the crack of dawn as somebody has to attend a very important baseball meeting. There is no time to catch your "second wind" when dancing lessons are about to start in a remote corner of the city and, of course, your dancer is late. Getting children away on Saturday mornings is nothing really, but rounding them up is another story. However, at the end of the day, a "nose-count" reveals all heads, and all are famished and ready for a hearty meal.

The occasion calls for something that will "stick to the ribs" as well as taking just a minute to prepare. A heaping plate of spaghetti with tantalizing sauce is just the thing. Noodles take from seven to 11 minutes to cook to perfection, and the sauce can be bubbling away while the noodles are boiling.

The sauce that I have in mind requires heating and nothing more. Taste-tempting tomato goodness along with onions and spices are locked inside cans of delicious sauce.

A plain tomato sauce sells for just 32 cents the can. There are variations too. Mushrooms added to this sauce make it even tastier. If you don't have any mushrooms on hand, pick up a can of mushroom sauce for 37 cents.

The real gourmet's delight is in a succulent meat sauce smothering tender strings of spaghetti. This combination demands a second helping every time. A can of this sauce sells for just 42 cents.

All spaghetti lovers know that the meal is not quite complete without loaves of French bread. One shop sells long, crusty loaves for 23 cents. If the appetites in your household aren't quite demanding enough for this king-size loaf, pick up a shorter one for just 13 cents.

In the time it takes the spaghetti to cook, you have a meal fit for royalty.

Dine the Italian way. Give Penny a call at 382-3131.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Some People Just Don't Read Signs

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a collection of beer steins on our mantel in the front room, some of which are quite expensive. Why does EVERYONE, children and adults alike, have to pick them up and examine them while we hold our breaths for fear they will drop one?

We have told people over and over again to PLEASE not touch them, but they do anyway. My seven-year-old son suggested we put a sign on the mantel, "DO NOT TOUCH." Would this be proper?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Not only would it be improper, it would be ineffective. The world is full of "counter phobics," who go through life pushing doors marked PULL, and pulling doors marked PUSH.

And on freshly painted benches one can plainly see the fingerprints of doubting Thomases who don't believe in signs. So either put your precious collection out of reach, or lock it in a china closet.

DEAR ABBY: We live in a first class apartment and pay high rent. We walk as lightly as possible so as not to disturb the tenants below us. We turn our TV down after 10 p.m., and ask our guests to keep the noise down out of consideration for our neighbors.

Last month a young couple moved in above us. I have never heard such noisy people! They are constantly running, dropping things and moving the furniture. And their TV blares until the wee hours. You'd swear they were about to come crashing through the ceiling at any moment.

I complained to the apartment manager and she suggested I speak to them, so I went up and asked the wife in a VERY nice way if they could be a little more quiet. Well, she practically slammed the door in my face!

Since then, out of spite, they have been noisier than ever. I complained to the manager again, and she said she was sorry but there was nothing she could do.

Our nerves are shot, Abby. We are not old cranks. We are reasonable people. What should we do? We have another two years to go on our lease.

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Assuming the apartment manager is not the owner, appeal to the owner of the building. If that doesn't bring results, hunt up another apartment. And about that lease. Hunt up a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend's father will not allow me around their house until I have a regular boy's haircut. I don't think this is fair. Everybody else likes my hair the way it is and so do I. It goes over my ears and is quite long around the back, but I've seen boys with lots longer hair than mine.

I have had trouble at school with my teachers about my hair, too, but nobody has given me the bad time my girl's father has. I'm sure the kids would laugh at me if I suddenly showed up at school with a short haircut and I don't want to be laughed at. Please give me an answer besides "get a haircut."

LONG HAIRED BOY

DEAR BOY: If you want to see your girl at her house, you had better get a haircut. You say you'll be "laughed at" at school if you appear with short hair. So, since it would take more manliness on your part to face the jeers of your contemporaries, I say, be a man, and shear the locks.

Round of Parties Heralds Vows To Be Heard Here on Saturday

A round of gifts and gatherings marks the forthcoming wedding of bride-elect Miss Frances Brown. Her marriage to Herbert Dennis Allen takes place this coming Saturday.

Co-hostesses Mrs. H. Meadows and Mrs. M. Grant surprised the bride-elect with a shower in Mrs. Grant's Haultain Street home. Deep red roses en corsage were presented to the guest of honor and her mother, Mrs. Frank Brown and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. Peter Allen received feathered carnation corsages.

A pink and white basket, decorated with a white wedding bell, contained the gifts presented to the bride-elect by Miss Janice Meadows. The lace-covered refreshment table was centred with a pink and turquoise shower cake.

BELONGED TO MATERNAL GRANDMOTHER

Chooses Heirloom Ring for Talisman

An heirloom diamond and pearl ring which belonged to her maternal grandmother was "something old" worn by Sonia Sophie Elizabeth Bowman, Nanaimo, when she became the bride of Mihailo Solunac, Victoria.

The ring and the groom's gift of a pearl necklace and earrings were jewelry accents to the bride's gown of white crepe. The empire-line bodice was styled with lily point sleeves and the floor-length sheath skirt featured panels of Guipure lace. Her full veil misted softly from a coronet of similar lace and she carried a bouquet of mauve lilac.

Arrangements of mauve and white lilac created the setting for the service in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Nanaimo, at which Canon W. Greenhalgh and Rev. G. Uvalic officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Bowman of Nanaimo, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Svetislav Solunac of Lapovo, Yugoslavia. Mr. Bowman gave his daughter in marriage and during the ceremony, Dr. Kirkbride sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Matching floor-length gowns of crystal charm in tones of mauve and pale green, styled on empire lines, were worn by matron of honor Mrs. Angelo Rampon and bridesmaid, Miss Beverly Cottle. Junior bridesmaid Miss Ruth Bowman was in a gown similar to the bride's of mauve crystal charm.

All wore floral headpieces en tone and the bride's gifts of pearl drop necklaces, and carried bouquets of lilac.

Mike Radic was best man and Larry Bowman and Mitch Solunac ushered the guests to their pews.

Taped greetings from friends and relatives in Yugoslavia were played at the reception following in the Mt. Benson Legion Hall. Decorations in the hall were in a mauve and pale green theme and George Race's orchestra played for dancing. Paul Micklenic was master of ceremonies and Jack Leyland proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip touring Europe, the new Mrs. Solunac chose a trotter-length suit in camel tones, accented with camel suede hat, brown leather accessories and corsage of green orchids.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Buys Wrong Size to Get Skirt Length She Wants

Lowman

Q. What are we to do? We really have no choice of short or long skirts, except to pay for alterations for a too-large size. I am 5 feet, 7 inches tall and weigh 130 pounds. I have worn a size 12 for many years. This spring I have to have a size 14 so I can get my knees covered and must pay to have the seams taken in to fit the rest of me. We really aren't boss. We can no more change this than we change pointed toes and slacks without pockets.

A. I disagree. I believe this will change much sooner than the pointed toes did because it is the women and not the teenagers who have the money. I don't think that the designers and manufacturers want to design themselves out of business.

Q. How do I know what size frames I should have when I buy sunglasses? I have read that you shouldn't wear round frames with a round face and I know that you shouldn't wear very large frames with a very small face or very small frames with a very large face, but aren't there some general rules for those of us who aren't extreme either way?

A. As a general rule the frames should extend about two-thirds of the way down your nose and should extend to the outer contour of your face at cheekbone level.

Q. I wear my hair long and straight, past my shoulders. I have a round face. Is this the right style for me?

A. Wearing your hair flat at the sides is correct. However, you should have height at the top of your head in order to make your face look slimmer. Don't wear your hair so long. It will make the effect out of proportion. Let it come just to the shoulders.

Q. I hear about how important calcium is. In what foods do I get this? I am afraid I will be calcium poor.

A. Calcium is widely distributed in the food world. However, milk is one of the richest sources and many nutritionists feel that all adults should have two glasses a day unless there is some reason for not drinking milk, such as an allergy or some other special individual problem. Green leafy vegetables and meat also are good sources. If you eat a varied diet you need not worry. However, if you wish to have extra protection have two glasses of milk.

If you have an overweight problem or a high-cholesterol blood level, drink skim milk or powdered fat-free milk. You will get just as much calcium as if you drank whole milk.

Q. I hope you can help me with my problem. My face is very full. Is there any way I can lose weight just in my face?

A. The only way is by losing weight generally. You can make your face appear slimmer with the proper application of makeup and with the right hair style.

Q. I am a girl who is too young to wear much makeup and I have a problem which I hope you can help me, and many other girls, solve. My problem is a mustache. I have a very light complexion and this "thing" shows up. It is very embarrassing.

A. Try bleaching it with peroxide several times a week. Apply the peroxide and let it dry and remain for a little longer. Then rinse. If this doesn't work, use one of the depilatories designed especially for facial hair, not just a usual one. Follow directions carefully.

HEAD COUNT started Wednesday across Canada in the five-year "mid-term" census. Householders must answer questions—name of each person in the house; relationship to head of household; male or female; age at last birthday; single, married, widowed or divorced. Type of dwelling and whether it is owned or rented also will be asked. Everyone is required by law to give correctly the information sought. Here, census taker Charlotte Roberts gets the details from Mrs. J. T. McDonald, 1187 Colville, with Suzan, 3½. Count should be completed in several weeks.

Minor Changes Revealed In Electoral Boundaries

OTTAWA (CP)—Final boundaries of federal electoral districts in all provinces were made public today, reflecting changes in only four provinces from original proposals placed before the Commons this year.

Independent commissions in Ontario, Quebec, British Columbia and Manitoba altered their original boundary proposals, mostly in minor ways.

Boundaries proposed for the other provinces were returned unchanged after the commissions reviewed objections raised to them by MPs.

The new boundaries now must be proclaimed within 10 days. They will then be in force for the next federal general election.

In general, the boundaries reflect the population at the 1961 census which showed a marked swing to urban ridings from rural ones since the last redistribution of the electoral map in 1953.

FEWER SEATS

The new boundaries cover 264 parliamentary seats, down one from the current 265.

Number of seats by provinces under the new maps, with current figures in brackets:

Newfoundland 7 (7), Prince Edward Island 4 (4), Nova Scotia 11 (12), New Brunswick 10 (10), Quebec 74 (75), Ontario 88 (85), Manitoba 13 (14), Saskatchewan 13 (17), Alberta 19 (17), British Columbia 23 (22), Yukon-N.W.T. 2 (2).

Five ridings were affected by the British Columbia amendments and only one in Manitoba.

The B.C. changes:

Skeena—Gains 3,246 population with the addition of the Queen Charlotte Islands and a coastal section from Klemtu on the north to Milbanks Sound from Coast-Chilcotin riding.

Kamloops-Caribou — Loses a block including the town of 100 Mile House to Coast-Chilcotin. Gains Merritt and Nicola towns.

Okanagan Boundary — Loses about 5,000 population by additions of Merritt and Nicola towns to Kamloops - Caribou. Gains Grand Forks and contiguous areas from Kootenay West balancing Merritt-Nicola population loss.

Prince George-Peace River—Gains a block from Kamloops-Caribou west of the Alberta boundary from Crescent Spur to Lucerne West, adding 2,995 population.

Lady Bird's Party Was Bit Too Noisy

NEW YORK (AP) — Police, responding to a neighbor's complaint about noise early today, visited a party attended by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson. But the president's wife had left by the time police got there.

Thursday, the president's daughter, Lynda, 22, acquired a $15 parking ticket, slapped on her car while she and a secret serviceman had lunch at a restaurant.

Two policemen arrived at the party 10 minutes after Mrs. Johnson had left.

The policemen asked those present to cut down the noise. They then waited outside the house until two windows on the second floor where the dancing was taking place were shut.

The band stopped playing about 1:30 a.m. but Lynda didn't leave until 2:20.

Lynda and her mother fly to Texas today for Lynda's graduation Friday from the University of Texas.

Luci is to be married Aug. 6 to Patrick J. Nugent. She chose her trousseau while in New York Thursday.

Side Effects Eyed In Tree 'Medicines'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Delegations to the Canadian Plant Societies' meeting at the University of British Columbia Wednesday talked about insidious things that threaten trees, animals and farm crops.

Forestry research scientist Dr. R. G. McGinn of Victoria, for instance, said that there should be a slowdown in the use of toxic materials to fight tree diseases.

He said every time a new wonder drug is introduced in human medicine, it later appears to have side effects, and the same might be true in poisons used to fight tree diseases.

"Although toxic materials may seem to produce quick results, control by other methods may be a more certain method of maintaining the productive capacity of our forests," he said.

R. J. Mayers, of the federal agriculture department said farms on the B.C. mainland will be checked this summer for traces of the wily and elusive golden nematode.

The golden nematode, a destructive little potato worm, was discovered last summer on Saanich Peninsula. As far as anyone knows it has been confined to that area. The infected land is being fumigated.

Set Women Afire

AUGSBURG (AP) — West German police said Wedesnday they have arrested a man who set fire to women while they prayed in church. They said they had evidence linking the 22-year-old single man to six such arson attacks. None of the women was seriously injured.

Mammoth Rally Climaxes Bid By Johnson

MONTREAL (CP) — Daniel Johnson made a strong appeal for Montreal votes Thursday night at a mammoth rally marking the climax of the Union Nationale party's campaign for Sunday's provincial election.

Mr. Johnson, opposition leader in the last legislature, said a Union Nationale government would cover the cost of extending Montreal's subway system to serve the entire island of Montreal.

Transportation was a key problem in the metropolitan area, and residents of the suburbs needed easier and faster access to downtown Montreal.

The Union Nationale leader was addressing his party's last major rally, a gathering of more than 8,000 persons in the east - end Maurice Richard Arena.

Two thousand extra sets were set up on a platform over the ice-surface area in the hockey arena, which normally seats 4,800. Outside, crowds watched the rally on a giant 30-by-40-foot television screen.

The interior of the arena was decked with thousands of Quebec's blue-and-white fleur-de-lys flags.

HOLD RALLIES

Meanwhile, the Liberal party and Le Ralliement Natioal were holding their last major rallies in the Quebec City area. Both parties have similar windup rallies scheduled for Montreal tonight.

Premier Lesage, pale - faced and with a cracked voice, addressed the Liberal rally in what he said was his 300th speech in 69 ridings since the start of his campaign May 1.

He reiterated his criticisms of Quebec separatism and said that at forthcoming federal-provincial conferences he would strive for "maximum recuperation of funds" from the federal government.

This would give Quebec "the benefits of separatism linked with those of belonging to the Canadian alliance."

The crowd of some 4,000 did not quite fill the hall in Limoilou district where the rally was held.

Le Ralliement's election meeting, addressed by co-leaders Laurent Legault and Rene Jutras, attracted nearly 200 persons to a Lower Town hall where there was seating accommodation for 600.

HEAR FROM CAOUETTE

Mr. Legault read a telegram he said he received from Real Caouette in which the federal Creditiste leader expressed wholehearted support for Quebec Creditistes and wished Mr. Legault good luck.

In his address to the rally, Dr. Jutras said the people of Quebec would take up arms and march on Ottawa if they knew how their tax money was being used to wipe out the French-Canadian nation.

The fourth recognized party in the election campaign, the separatist Rassemblement pour l'Independance Nationale, held its windup rally in Montreal Wednesday night.

Party Leader Pierre Bourgault flew to Sept-Iles Thursday to spend his remaining time in his own riding of Duplessis, a vast north-eastern constituency extending more than 400 miles westward from the Labrador border.

A parade of more than 400 cars escorted him from the airport to the 1,000-seat Sept-Iles Arena, where he addressed a crowd that filled the building to capacity.

Memorial Plaque To Slain Mountie

KELOWNA (CP) — Commissioner G. B. McClellan of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Thursday unveiled a memorial plaque honoring a young RCMP constable slain in the line of duty.

Constable Neil M. Bruce was shot April 10, 1965, in the Westbank area of the Okanagan, while investigating a report that a girl was being held in a small shack against her will.

He died four days later in Kelowna General Hospital, aged 26. He left a wife and two young children.

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY AND SON

Sauce for the goose is not always sauce for the gander. In a team match each East player opened the bidding with one club. West responded one spade. North doubled. East went to two clubs. South bid two diamonds and the bidding continued to five diamonds at one table and six diamonds at the other.

Opening lead—♣3.

The three of clubs was opened against both contracts. The declarer at five diamonds ruffed, played dummy's ace and king of spades to discard two hearts and led a third spade. East ruffed with the ten. South overruffed and led a heart to dummy's ace. Then he ruffed a heart, ruffed a second club and led another spade. East ruffed with the jack and South discarded a club. East led another club. South ruffed with dummy's ace of trumps and eventually lost another trump trick but was home with his diamond game.

The declarer at six diamonds was not at all pleased with his prospects but he saw that his best chance for success was to establish dummy's heart suit.

Therefore he discarded a spade on the club. East was in with the king and returned a trump. South won in dummy, discarded two hearts on the ace and king of spades, played the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart in his own hand. Then he led a second trump to dummy and when both opponents followed he was able to ruff another heart to set up the last two hearts. Then he ruffed a second club in dummy and discarded his last two clubs on dummy's good hearts.

Six diamonds was certainly an optimistic contract but South had managed to bring it home. We aren't sure that he had adopted the best line of play and, strangely enough, the way the cards lay he could have made the slam in several ways.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The television industry gave dubious recognition to its own in the absurd Emmy award show a fortnight ago. But the ultimate winners were far from unanimous in choice.

Stephen

The Emmy award system has been criticized year after year for its strange selection of categories and, stranger still, its selection of winners.

Earlier this week, a dozen TV critics, banding together to create their own TV awards in reaction to the quantitative accent and other undiscriminating aspects of the Emmys, came up with a slate of four winners from the period of mid-May '65 to mid-May '66—each recognized for "exceptional contribution to television."

The Talent Associates production of "Death of a Salesman," carried on CBS-TV last month as a two-hour telecast, was singled out as "exceptional drama."

Xerox Corp., for underwriting distinguished programs (including Salesman, but also the UN dramas and various documentaries), was cited for "exceptional contribution by a sponsor."

Frankly, I can't go along with the latter choice. It's up to sponsors to help produce quality, isn't it?

Former CBS News president Fred Friendly was named for "exceptional contribution by an individual," and NBC won recogniton for "exceptional contribution by a network."

NBC was recognized in three areas: for all-color pioneering; for airing a weekly film series with a Negro co-star (I Spy with Bill Cosby); and for its coverage of the Senate hearings.

Runners-up in the balloting were Color Me Barbra; CBS Reports: KKK—The Invisible Empire; National Educational Television network; Julie Andrews Show; NET's Who Shall Live? and all network coverage of the Pope's visit to New York.

Peter Falk, star of CBS' Trials of O'Brien, polled four votes for "working nobly and effectively all season in a virtual vacuum." Others to receive four were ABC's Beethoven: Ordeal and Triumph and NBC's Inherit the Wind on Hallmark Hall of Fame.

The 12 participating critics in the consensus, representing all regions of the U.S., agreed that the measure of "exceptional" would not merely be against other achievements in a single year but against all achievement in the history of TV. There was no hardware for winners to receive. Citations were made only in the form of publication in the critics' columns.

Four More Senators Retire

OTTAWA (CP)—Four senators over the age of 75 have retired, bringing the number of vacancies in the Senate to 11, it was announced Wednesday.

The retiring senators, all Liberals, are Mrs. Marina Jodoin, 84, of Montreal; William H. Taylor, 76, Brantford; Thomas Alexander Crerar, 89, Winnipeg; and Clarence Veniot, 80, Bathurst, N.B.

The retirements brought to 12 the number of aged senators who have left on an $8,000 annual allowance since the Senate retirement act became law a year ago.

CHOICE

A total of 27 senators who were 75 and over when the act came into force had until midnight Wednesday to choose between retirement and serving out their life appointments at $15,000 a year.

Those appointed in the last year and all future senators will be required to retire at 75, the same as federal judges.

The 11 vacant seats are distributed among seven provinces. Quebec has three vacancies, Ontario and Newfoundland two apiece and Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Manitoba one each.

Senate standings now are Liberals 57, Conservatives 31, Independents two and Independent Liberal one. There are 102 seats.

'B.C. RAIN NO JOKING MATTER'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lands and Forests Minister Williston says British Columbia's abundant rainfall is no joking matter.

Mr. Williston said Thursday that the province receives annually about 40 per cent of all the water that falls on Canada.

"Some people like to joke about our climate, but the shortage of water in the western United States has demonstrated the comparative wealth of an area with ample rainfall."

Strike Cuts No Grass With Them

VANCOUVER (CP) — The lawn at city hall was cut Thursday for the first time since a strike of outside workers began 27 days ago.

About 25 Simon Fraser University students did the job, watched by about 14 union pickets.

Ross McDonald, 21, of West Vancouver, said it was a spontaneous protest. "We got fed up with the strike," he said.

Stuart Westie, 18, of Burnaby, said the group believed union demands for a 70 cent increase over three years on a basic hourly wage of $2.28½ were unreasonable and unfair.

"They refuse any real negotiation," he said.

Blue-eyed UBC co-ed Dulcie Brimacombe, 19, hitched a ride from West Vancouver and began cutting the grass Thursday in 1,000-acre Stanley Park.

"I'll do it all week," she said, "because this place is a mess."

Meanwhile, the graduating class of Prince of Wales High School planned to tidy up overflowing downtown garbage refuse containers tonight.

Resourceful Ways, Means Committee

The ways and means committee of the Victoria New Democratic Party came up with its own ways and means during the electrical blackout in the Fairfield district Wednesday night.

About dinner was sitting in the oven for 40 persons when the power gave out. Luckily, it was well wrapped in foil to conserve heat.

Resourceful members turned up a camping stove for boiling tea on the patio of 1337 Fairfield, home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lloyd Brereton.

Toone Praises Work Done By Travellers

Victoria Mayor A. W. Toone today praised the work done in connection with retarded children by the northwest branches of United Commercial Travellers of America.

Some 350 delegates were in attendance for the 68th annual convention of Washington, Oregon and B.C. Grand Council of UCTA in the Empress Hotel.

Welcoming delegates, Mayor Toone mentioned the work done by the Victoria branch in connection with building of the new retarded children's centre.

He said they had paid for the heating system, in addition to raising $5,000 locally in the past three years by means of wishing wells.

Business sessions continue today and Saturday.

Tea Proceeds To Buy Equipment

The B Troop Scouts of the Third Fort Victoria (Emmanuel Baptist) Group will hold a tea Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the church hall, 1900 Fernwood.

A recently formed troop directed by scoutmaster Donaldson Jordan, the group is small and still in the experimental stages.

Its chief aim is to bring scouting to mentally handicapped and slow learning boys.

Proceeds will help purchase camping equipment.

Archbishop To Mark 31st Year

Archbishop Harold Sexton, head of the Anglican church in British Columbia, will commemorate 31 years' service to the province on June 29.

On that date, in 1935, he was consecrated Coadjutor-Bishop of the diocese of British Columbia in Christ Chruch Cathedral, Victoria.

He celebrated his 78th birthday last May 14.

"I plan to continue in office as long as I am needed," the archbishop said, "Mrs. Sexton and I have come to regard Victoria as home and we have many good friends here."

The archbishop was born at Adelaide, South Australia, and served overseas as a chaplain with the Australian Army from 1916 to 1919.

After the war, he studied at Keble College, Oxford, then returned to Australia as vicar of St. Martin's, Hawksburn, Melbourne.

BACK TO ENGLAND

In 1924 he returned to England as a speaker for the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel and from 1925 to 1927 was curate at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster — the parish church of the House of Commons.

During this time he was friendly with Sir Winston Churchill and many famous parliamentarians.

He was vicar of All Saints' Church, Upper Norwood, London, for seven years before coming to Victoria.

Court Halts Picketing Of Texas Farms

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex. (UPI)—Striking farm laborers who tried to tie up four major Rio Grande Valley farms were under court direction today to stop their picketing.

Dist. Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin issued a court order Thursday that he said would continue 10 days. He called a hearing for June 13 for the laborers' union representatives to show cause why the court order should not be made permanent.

So far, growers at four farms being picketed in the Rio Grande City area of the Texas Rio Grande valley were content to wait out the strike by workers who want $1.25 an hour instead of 50 cents an hour to pick melons.

Peter Mason Wins Drill Competition

Lt.-Col. C. L. Kirby, commanding officer of the First Battalion of the Queen's Own Rifles, was on hand Wednesday at St. Michael's School to present cups to the winners in the school's drill competition.

Peter Mason won the open event in the competition, David Stevenson finished first in the under nine age group, Harry Fowler in the under 10 age group, Timothy Wiggins in the under 11½ group, and Larry Straith in the under 13½ age group.

Blue House was the winning house.

United Unions Win Vote Test

VANCOUVER — A tri-union group has defeated the Mine, Mill and Smelters' Union (Ind.) for the right to represent 37 employees of a Vancouver Island mining company.

The union group, composed of the tunnel and rock workers, the International Union of Operating engineers and the Teamsters' Union, won the right to represent the Orecan Mining Ltd. employees in a provincial government-supervised vote.

The employees voted 21-16 in favor of the three-union group.

The Steelworkers' Union, which also sought the right to represent the employees, did not recieve any votes. Orecan operates an open-face iron mine 38 miles north of Campbell River.

New Efforts Stalled

MONTREAL (CP) — Efforts to end the four-week strike of longshoremen at three St. Lawrence River ports stalled today as scheduled meetings between representatives of the strikers' union and 11 stevedoring companies did not take place.

No Controls Over Press, Pearson Reply to Russia

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government has advised Soviet officials that it has no control over what the press of Canada prints, Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Friday.

He said this was the reply made to Soviet representations alleging an anti-Soviet campaign in Canadian newspapers. The Soviet Union was advised that newspapers can report what they want in a free society.

Mr. Pearson said at the same time "we are looking forward" to the visit of a group of Soviet parliamentarians soon. The government was not aware of any anti-Soviet provocations.

Replying to David Lewis (NDP—York South), Mr. Pearson said the Russians had brought the matter to the attention of the Canadian embassy in Moscow June 1. Later the Soviet embassy here made informal representations.

BLAMES GOVERNMENT

The Soviet protest note delivered in Moscow claimed that "some forces in Canada itself and outside" are trying to hinder Soviet-Canadian relations. It said the Canadian government had failed to take measures to halt the campaigns and promoted the unleashing of invented information about Soviet espionage.

Canadian observers regarded the note as a reaction to the Gerda Munsinger affair. The West German blonde was linked with Soviet espionage in her earlier years in press reports of the case.

The case of Mrs. Munsinger, now living in West Germany, rocked Parliament this spring following allegations by Justice Minister Cardin that she had liaisons with some cabinet ministers in the previous Conservative government.

A Moscow report said that the reference to provocations in the Soviet note appeared to be a resurrection of old charges of RCMP harassment of Soviet embassy employees in Ottawa.

In any event, the tenor of Mr. Pearson's remarks reinforced the view that the visit of the Soviet delegation, scheduled for this month, will proceed as scheduled. The delegation is headed by First Deputy Premier Polyansky.

New Defence Building Towers Over Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The dominant feature of the downtown Ottawa skyline in 1972 will be the new defence department.

Works Minister McIlraith announced at a press conference today that the central tower of the three-tower department will be 450 feet—38 storeys—high. The Peace Tower, now the tallest building in the capital, is 291 feet high.

The new department, which will house some 8,000 persons, will be built in the former slum area known as Lebreton Flats about one mile west of the Parliament buildings. The slum has already been torn down.

Mr. McIlraith said there is not yet an even rough estimate of the cost.

The defence department originally announced that the cost would be $35,000,000 but this was before the three-tower concept was arrived at. The cost may run to $100,000,000.

Big Class Teaching Under Fire

VANCOUVER (CP) — The size of the student body and the need to give individual attention to students are the greatest problems facing Canadian universities today, says the retiring chancellor of the University of British Columbia.

Mrs. Frank Ross told 510 students receiving degrees at Thursday's second session of the three-day spring convocation that teaching — 'The most sensitive of human connections.' — cannot be accomplished successfully by mass methods.

"Somehow we must find systems, methods and techniques to ensure that the mature mind meets the maturing mind — personally, directly and effectively."

Three honorary degrees were given Thursday.

Sir John Carew Eccles, professor of neurophysiology at the Australian National University in Canberra and a Nobel prize winner in medicine, was awarded an honorary doctor of science degree.

External Affairs Minister Martin, who was cited for maintaining his department above politics and for his work in the Cyprus conflict, was made an honorary doctor of laws.

And Dr. G. Neil Perry, deputy minister of education in British Columbia, was given an honorary doctor of laws degree. He is a former vice-president of UBC.

Cominco Offer Turned Down

TRAIL (CP) — About 4,000 hourly-paid employees of Cominco Ltd. have rejected the latest company offer, it was announced Thursday by the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

A decision on a strike vote would be made following a June 7 meeting with the company and a government conciliation offer, said a union spokesman.

Policemen Acquitted

TORONTO (CP)—Two former Toronto policemen were acquitted of criminal charges Tuesday in the May 11 shooting of a singer in a downtown tavern. Dennis Ewaniuk, 23, was acquitted of a charge of criminal negligence and Constable Michael Walker, 22, was acquitted of charges of possessing a firearm without a permit. Ewaniuk was examining a gun when it went off and the bullet hit entertainer Kell Winzel.

Wallis New President

The Greater Victoria Dog Obedience Training Club elected Dr. Gordon Wallis as president during the 13th annual general meeting recently in the parish hall of St. George the Martyr, Cadboro Bay.

Mr. Wallis has been with the club for some time and served as vice-president for the last two years.

Retiring president D. B. Hudsor gave a resume of the past year's work.

$1,000 Given Researchers At University

A University of Victoria research group preparing the first bibliography of British Columbia history has received a grant of $1,000 from the Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation.

The Vancouver-based foundation, established in 1955 to assist projects in the creative arts and higher education, has awarded the grant to the university's Social Sciences and Research and Information Centre. Funds will help to meet the cost of compiling a reference list of source material in the social sciences.

The first section of the three-volume work will cover the period from 1849 to 1899. Scheduled for publication during Canada's centennial year, it will cite all works of interest written before the turn of the century, or dealing with that stage of B.C.'s development. Headings include anthropology, archaeology and history.

Mrs. Barbara Lowther, a bibliographer with the Social Sciences Centre, has spent almost a year at the Provincial Archives, the Northwest Library, and other Victoria storehouses of history, drawing the facts together for the printers.

The new ground she is breaking for the benefit of future researchers includes reference listings for B.C. periodicals, which should account for 300 to 400 entries alone.

A publication date in July, 1967 — the month of Canada's 100th birthday — is the current goal for the first volume. Future volumes will take references up to the present day, and back to the earliest days of Indian life and colonial settlement.

China Woos Castro

TOKYO (AP)—China made an open move Thursday to mend its relations with Fidel Castro's Cuba and charged that Moscow is betraying the Cuban people. An article in the official Peking People's Daily claimed the Russians are not really supporting the Cubans in recent incidents at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo. It said China is Cuba's "most faithful and dependable" friend.

'NO DRIBS AND DRABS'

Lump Sum Requested On Parks Development

DUNCAN—The city recreation commission Thursday night asked council to proceed with a $200,000 bylaw for development of Wharncliffe Park.

Ronald Price, chairman, said: "We want a lump sum and not dribs and drabs.

"If the full sum is made available at one time development could start right away."

Mayor Jack Dobson said this morning: "We'll certainly give the recommendation full consideration.

"We could nibble away at producing the money or go for in one fell swoop.

150,000 ESTIMATE

"City council has been given an estimated cost of $150,000 but this didn't include a dike by the Cowichan River."

Mayor Dobson said council meantime is trying to resolve legal difficulties regarding boundaries.

Certain boundary lines around the property are in dispute.

The mayor said: "The park should extend to at least 35 acres and possibly a good deal more if we can hook up to other city-owned property in the area."

"I would say yes to the question of will there be a money bylaw put to the people this year.

"But we can't put a bylaw until we're absolutely sure of the boundaries.

"A money bylaw rather than piecemeal financing would certainly be more economical."

At the commission meeting, Melvin Massey criticized the suggestion service clubs be asked to underwrite the cost of specific projects within the Wharncliffe Park development.

"Service clubs have been pinched too long and it is up to the businesses and individual residents to make the money available from taxes.

FALLING DOWN

"Taxpayers in the past have not played thier part in promoting recreational facilities."

The commission will ask council to provide indoor accommodation as an alternative for the children who use the Kinsmen pool

A recent high-school graduate, Roberts Sutton, will again be the swimming supervisor at the pool.

She has asked the commission for play area equipment, and alternative accommodation for the children in the event of weather.

Pinpoint Bowser Minister Told

PORT ALBERNI—Education Minister Leslie Peterson will be asked to take a look at a map of Vancouver Island next week.

In no uncertain words, he will then be asked to take a compass, pinpoint Bowser, just north of Qualicum, and draw a circle with a 25-mile radius

According to Horne Lake (Bowser) Booster Committtee, he'll then have the ideal location for a proposed regional college.

75,000 PERSONS

Says a committee report: "Take any map and draw a circle with a 25-mile radius with Bowser as its centre and you'll find the whole area from Parksville to Courtenay, the Gulf Islands and the Albernis is included with a population of about 75,000 who would all be within commuting distance of the college if it were at Bowser."

The committee will write to the minister suggesting Bowser as the ideal spot subject to Horne Lake Road being opened up.

Tentative plans call for the college to be built at Wellington, just north of Nanaimo.

BOY FOUND HANGED

KUPER ISLAND — A 15-year-old student at Kuper Island Indian residential school was found hanged in the gymnasium Thursday night.

Chemainus RCMP were called to the school about 11 p.m. after the boy's body was found hanging from a beam in the gym.

Cpl. Frank Johnson said today: "No foul play is suspected but investigation is continuing.

"The coroner has been advised but it is not known yet if there will be an inquest."

HARVEY
... it's friendship

Young Carver Gives Masterpiece to Mayor

A 14-year-old master-carver gave Mayor A. W. Toone his masterpiece Thursday because "I thought I'd like to."

The gift, a two-foot totem carved by Harvey Williams, 2206 Sayward Street, came as a complete surprise to the mayor and other city hall officials.

Harvey, the oldest of 10 children in the Williams family, not only carved the totem but also made the decision to present it to the mayor as a gesture of friendship.

PALM GASHED

He was anxious to impress on civic leaders he did the carving himself and proudly displayed a gash on the palm of his hand to prove the point.

Harvey's talent comes naturally. His father, Raymond Williams, is a carver whose totems find their way into many a tourist's suitcase.

OFFICIAL THANKS

Mayor Toone expressed pleasure and surprise at the spontaneous gift and promised Harvey that within a few days he would receive an official letter from the mayor's office thanking him for his gift.

The totem, designed by Mr. Williams, bears the beaver, frog and killer whale symbols.

"It means good hunting," said Harvey proudly as he handed his gift to the mayor.

The Williams family came here from Nitinat.

Fallout Appeal Rejected

PORT ALBERNI—A little dirt never hurt anyone.

Apparently even B.C. Assessment Appeal Board subscribes to this view.

This week they reversed the decision of Port Alberni assessment board in granting a 10 per cent tax reduction to F. D. Kallstrom, on the grounds of industrial fallout.

PRICES UP

The provincial board, in denying the reduction, said it did not feel the fallout would financially harm the Kallstroms in view of selling prices of houses in the area.

However, they upheld a similar reduction in the case of Mrs. H. G. Winter, who lives only a few hundred feet from the Kallstroms.

In allowing the reduction, the board said the selling price of Mrs. Winter's home would be depreciated because of the dilapidated state of adjoining properties.

OPITSATE INDIANS

Boy, 13, Named New Chief

TOFINO—A 13-year-old boy has become the new chief of the Opitsate Indians on Meares Island on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

George Frank, eldest male descendant of the former hereditary chief who died accidently last year, was inaugurated in a ceremony last week.

* * *

But although he is now officially chief, the affairs of the band will likely be handled by his father until he is older.

The spirit of the Thunderbird was summoned in a series of ceremonial dances.

The message given to the new chief by Thunderbird spirit was interpreted to mean: "You are big and powerful and you are ready to serve your people and stand up and be one of the world. You were once powerful people and captured whales."

HOSPITAL TO CLOSE ON DEC. 1

NANAIMO—The Indian Hospital here will close Dec. 1.

The closure has been announced from Ottawa.

At present the hospital houses 60 patients, most of whom will be returned to hospitals in their own areas at the end of the year or to the tuberculosis hospital at Sardis.

Since opening, the hospital has served Indians on Vancouver Island and from the Bella Coola area.

The department of health and welfare which handles hospital administration, has promised to aid hospital staff in finding new employment in Nanaimo or other communities.

Pupils' Problems Studied at Sooke

SOOKE — A special study of children's problems is being made by the local school board.

The study, aimed at better understanding of the problems that can beset a child, started this week.

Mental health, education and welfare authorities met in the school board offices to study four case histories of children from multiple-problem families.

Said school board superintendent Ernest Hyndman: "It it hoped that these meetings will be held three or four times a year.

"Some very effective recommendations for action in individual cases were made."

The panel consisted of provincial psychiatrist Dr. Charles Gregory; Dr. P. F. d'Estrube from the mental health clinic; Dr. J. T. Bailey and supervisor Mrs. Maxine Smith from the Metropolitan Health Board· Mrs. A. C. Walmsley, supervisor, and Mrs. R. Adams from Saanich welfare department; and William Flemming, special supervisor of Saanich and Sooke school boards.

Totem Blackout Irks Committee

DUNCAN — The government has refused to let a centennial totem pole be displayed for the official opening Saturday of Cowichan Valley Forest Museum.

The totem, built by Stan Modeste of Duncan, for the Haida Route, is finished and ready for display.

Mrs. Heather Bulcock, organizing an Indian display for the opening, asked permission to put the totem on temporary display.

On Thursday she received a telegram from Director of Indian Affairs R. J. McGuinness saying permission refused.

Explained Mr. McGuinness today: "The totem doesn't belong to us but to the centennial committee.

"They commissioned Mr. Modeste to build the totem for them.

"Since it hasn't yet been judged for acceptance as one of the poles for the Route of the Haidas, it seemed inadvisable to put it on public display.

"It may have got damaged and then Mr. Modeste wouldn't have got his money."

●

However, not everyone agreed.

"Ridiculous," said David R. Williams, chairman of the official opening committee. Why refuse?"

Mrs. Bulcock said: "Mr. McGuinness doesn't know me and perhaps thought I was some fly-by-night who might hack the totem to bits."

She promised to have another try today to get authority to display the totem.

The Thursday night meeting received another setback.

Members learned H. R. MacMillan can't attend to hand over his gift of a log-built museum house.

Lawrie Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee, will formally open the forest museum at 2 p.m.

At that time he will present a B.C. centennial plaque to the museum society.

Prior to official opening ceremonies there will be entertainment from the Don Miller Harmonaries and Cowichan Senior Secondary School Band.

The afternoon Indian display of spinning and weaving will be by Mrs. Dominic Thomas and family from Westholme.

Sunday afternoon Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will read the lesson at an open-air interdenominational church service.

Later entertainment on the grounds will include a group of quilting singers and Can-Can entertainers from Lake Cowichan.

SOLUTION MONDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to David Walmer, age 11, of Mount Vernon, Wash., for his question:

What causes those rocks called thunder eggs?

Andy is just as curious about things as his young readers and this question mystified him. He first suspected that thunder eggs were the fossilized eggs of the dinosaur thunder lizard — but he was wrong. The correct answer was found after lots of research into volcanic minerals.

Rock collectors of the Northwest hunt for stones they call thunder eggs. Most of them measure only a few inches and on the outside they look very dull and uninteresting. They seem to be made of rough, dark lava material, often pitted and scarred. But many thunder eggs have caches of secret treasure hidden inside. Their shabby coats may conceal stores of rainbow-colored crystals and other lovely minerals.

A rock collector uses a special saw to slice through a thunder egg. The stuffing inside the stone is almost always a pleasant surprise. The smooth-cut surface may suggest a minature picture in delicate colors. There may be fronds and foliage or tropical scenes with waving palms. Sometimes the colored minerals are arranged like colored ribbons in rings or rows or even bows.

A thunder egg is often born in the thundering upheaval of a volcanic eruption. Flames and smoke and fuming gases spurt into the clouds. Bombs of blazing minerals, ashes, dust and debris are tossed into the air. Rivers of red hot lava pour over the ground. The lava is often a foamy mixture of molten minerals and gases. As it cools, the liquid minerals harden around bubbles and pockets of the trapped gases.

Rocks Coated With Lava

The hardened mineral forms a layer of bed rock riddled with hidden holes. The pockets fill up with ground water and perhaps steam from the volcanic eruption. The steam and water are loaded with chemicals dissolved from magma and volcanic lava. Many of these chemicals are silicates that tend to arrange themselves in crystals. And silicates can form an endless array of tinted crystals and rainbow-colored stones. The pockets in the drab bedrock become stuffed with rainbows of semi-precious gems. They are much harder than the bed rock and when it crumbles away they are left behind. The pockets of treasure are found on the ground, each coated with a layer of crusty lava. They may be called geodes or Mexican agates and some collectors call them thunder eggs.

Quartz is the most common silicate and the quartz minerals form an endless array of colored crystals and semi-precious stones. They may form rainbow ribbons of agate or dark and glossy onyx, moon-glowing chalcedony and sunshiny carnelian, leaf-green chrysoprase and midnight jasper. They form glassy crystals of rose and violet, smoke and lemon. Traces of these and many other glamorous minerals may stuff the pockets and paint the pictures inside a drab-looking thunder egg stone.

* * *

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Bruce DeVault, age 13, of Huntsville, Ala., for his question:

What do they mean by the earth's mantle?

The word mantle means a cloak and a cloak usually is worn as an outside garment. You would expect the earth's mantle to be its outside layer of rocky minerals—but the outside skin of the earth is the crust. The mantle is the thick layer below the crust.

The average thickness of the crust is about 20 miles. Its layers of light rock rest upon the mantle which reaches down to a depth of 1,800 miles. As we go deeper, the pressure and temperature increase, and 200 or 300 miles down it is as hot as an oven. The bottom of the mantle rests on the outer core and the outer core surrounds a dense ball called the inner core.

Quite a few people with nodules under the skin of their legs write me to ask what the cause is, and what can be done. Often, they say that their doctor calls the condition erythema nodosum: erythema means redness, and nodosum means nodular, or lumpy. Often there are crops of 10 or more of the nodules, perhaps from half an inch to three inches in diameter, which are rounded, tender and red. Occasionally, when the doctor is in doubt as to the nature of the disease, he will cut out one of the nodules. A pathologist will section it, stain it, and examine the tissue under a microscope. This is called a biopsy. This gives a good idea as to the nature of the trouble.

There are a number of causes for this curious disease. Oftentimes it is associated with some inflammation elsewhere in the body. Recently, I read that in one series of cases, one in 10 of the patients had an ulcerative colitis, or an inflammation of the inner lining of the large bowel.

* * *

A while ago, in a small city in Iowa, there was a small epidemic of erythema nodosum, among persons who had been having influenza-like symptoms. In some of the cases, the cause may have been "pulmonary histoplastomosis" — a disease of the lung that is due to a mold which is often found in the dung of birds. It is found in the soil of some of the central United States. In California, Arizona, and New Mexico, erythema nodosum may be due to an infection with what is called a coccydiomycosis — a fungus-like cell. Hidden tuberculosis may be another cause.

* * *

In New England, Drs. Favour and Sosman, on studying 155 patients with erythema nodosum, noted that in eight out of 10 cases, some infection of the lungs had preceded the coming of the nodules. Half of the people had had a laryngitis or sore throat, due to a streptococcus (a special type of germ).

* * *

In rare cases, the patient can be suffering from psittacosis, which is an infectious disease of parrots and lovebirds. Rarely, the nodules can be due to sarcoidosis, which is a rare disease somewhat resembling tuberculosis. The nodules can be due also to the taking of drugs such as bromides, iodides and sulphonamides.

Treatment must obviously be preceded by an expert search for the primary infection, which is often in the lungs. If that disease can be cured, the nodules should disappear.

Teacher Boycott

DETROIT (UPI)—More than 1,200 teachers boycotted schools in four Detroit suburbs and Flint, Mich., Thursday, defying a state anti-strike law. Pickets patrolled 100 schools and one picketing teacher claimed he was hit by a non-striking colleague.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

This is just to prevent anyone making the same mistake we did:

We read this Help Wanted Ad offering independence, security, highest earnings, no strikes, never out of work.

It said that two years ago Hilmer Eckstrong was a carpenter with take-home pay of $412.72 a month. "Today he earns the same amount a week. You can do the same . . . ."

Well we phoned the number in the ad. A girl answered and said "Commonwealth."

We asked for Mr. Eckstrong, explaining that we had known a Mr. Hilmer Eckstrong on the Prairies (surely there couldn't be two) and we wanted to congratulate him.

The personnel manager told us Mr. Eckstrong never had lived on the Prairies.

"Well," we said, "this was some years ago."

"Well," he said, "that spelling actually is a misprint. The name is Eckstrom." And we both hung up.

We looked up Hilmer Eckstrom in the city directory and the telephone book and we couldn't find him either.

We would have liked to have met him just to see if he was as funny a guy as Hilmer Eckstrong used to be back on the Prairie.

Hilmer had lots of funny sayings.

For instance, whenever anyone tried to feed old Hilmer a line of malarkey, old Hilmer used to say:

"Don't eat that stuff, Elmer. That's been on the road."

City editors are notoriously blunt and bad-tempered. That's why some of our newshounds fear our city editor, Lloyd Baker, is losing his grip. The evidence was on his desk this week—letters from 23 Grade Six pupils of Suquamish, Wash., all of them thanking him for being a good joe.

Seems Lloyd got a desperate call weeks ago from their principal, Robert L. Ley. He had earlier set the kids to collecting funds for a trip to Victoria and he'd asked a tourist service here to line up a tour. Then Mr. Ley found out his Victoria contact was out of business. No arrangements had been made. And Mr. Ley faced the task of telling 23 Grade Sixers the trip was off.

Baker went to work, arranged a bus tour, guides at the Legislative Buildings, wax museum and an Undersea Gardens expeditions. The kids never had a dull moment.

Wrote Mr. Ley later:

"Your efforts to arrange our tour has kindled friendship in the minds and hearts of the kids. It is good that the younger generation had this experience, for friendship has held our two nations close much longer than I can remember."

Wrote pupil Jay Callen:

". . . I enjoyed every minute of it. On the way to Helmcken House I walked into a lamp post . . . I had a bump on my head which made me dizzy the rest of the trip . . ."

Cheer up, Jay. A bunch of reporters here ran into a shattered illusion, and they're dizzy too.

Okay smarty Bob Cadwallader of Grade Eight at Esquimalt Junior Secondary, you know how to order a ham sandwich in Quebec.

We could too when we were taking French—given enough time. But we still say, among all the high school graduates we know there are very few who are sufficiently schooled in the language to converse with a Frenchman. We wish we could. We suspect that for the majority their classes have been insufficient and a waste of time.

Story came off the New York wire telling about a move by a rebel force within the American Newspaper Guild to create a new union for news writers, separate from advertising and circulation staffs.

The story was of interest to union workers here. But the problem came up of where to display it. The guild notice board wouldn't be host to a notice of a guild breakaway. And it obviously didn't belong on the company notice board.

Solution was to tack it on the wall between the two boards, but leaning a bit toward the board of union organization. Which led one staffer to call it a "slanted story."

They've set up a date bureau at the current Jaycee convention here. Wives of local Jaycees have screened 100 local girls. Seems that 30 per cent of the conventioneers are single men.

So far there is no committee of local mothers set up to screen the visiting Jaycees.

IDLE ITEMS: Where did we finally trace down one of the busiest mining men in the busy, busy mining industry? At Sleepy Hollow Motel, Courtenay. Sell your stock; the boom is all a sham . . . Is chivalry a handicap in the modern world? It's a handicap to attaining things not worth attaining, says Major Fred Ney of Nanaimo, who is founding a Hall of Chivalry in England for the Commonwealth Youth Crusade . . . A friend asked a local clergyman why he was so proud when a visitor praised the view of the Olympics, which after all belong to Washington. "I work for The Man who made them," he replied.

Incorporation Of B.C. Firms At Record Pace

Incorporation of British Columbia companies continues at record-setting pace, according to statistics kept by the registrar of companies.

In May, for the seventh consecutive month, more than 400 companies were listed with the provincial registrar. There were 458 registrations last month, 52 more than in May 1965.

This puts the five-month total from January 1 at more than half the 1965 12-month total of B.C. company registrations.

Extra-provincial incorporations during May came to 20, a decline of six from May 1965.

There were 26 societies registered last month, compared with 17 in the same period a year ago.

Arthur Hall, B.C. registrar of companies, noted that in 1965 there were six months in which more than 400 companies were registered and totals for the other six months were all over 300.

In 1964, all months had more than 300 B.C. company registrations, but none reached 400.

Trucker Pays Fine For Impaired Driving

Albert Walker, 2435 Trans-Canada Highway, was fined $350 in central court Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

The accused was stopped by police on Metchosin Road near Colwood, May 22, after his car was seen moving slowly and weaving.

Walker, a truck driver for a logging firm, was also barred from driving for six months except weekdays between 5:15 a.m and 5:15 p.m.

THERE'LL BE NO KNEES TO DISTRACT MERE MEN

OXFORD, Eng. (CP)—The gloom of Oxford University's final examinations covered even the knees of co-eds taking the tests Thursday.

Mrs. Mary Proudfoot, dean of Oxford's Somerville College, had ruled that the girls must not wear thigh-length mini-skirts lest they distract male students also taking the examinations.

The result was some of the girls wore skirts reaching down to their shins.

No Vote This Year, Gibson Prediction

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gordon Gibson, Liberal MLA for North Vancouver, predicted here Thursday Premier Bennett will not call an election this year.

Mr. Gibson made the prediction while speaking at a testimonial dinner to mark an end to his 15 years in provincial politics. First elected to the legislature in 1952, he plans to serve out his present term and then retire from politics.

The premier, who was among a score of political leaders who sent good wishes to the North Vancouver MLA, is a good premier "as long as he is watched by a strong opposition," Mr. Gibson said.

"If he were given a free rein, he would be a dangerous man. He has ideas. I must say I almost respect him."

Mr. Gibson said he plans to find a line of work that is "non-political but public."

RIVARD PAL BLAMED FOR QUEBEC KILLINGS

Pair Shot, Buried, Inquest Told

ST. JEROME, Que. (CP)—A waitress testified Thursday that Andre Durocher—the man who escaped from jail with Lucien Rivard—told her he had murdered a man and a woman shortly after the escape March 2, 1965.

Minutes later, Durocher testified that the waitress's dead husband was the killer.

They were testifying at the inquest into the deaths of Andre Paquette, 43, and Alice Rioux, 28.

The lime-covered bodies of Paquette and Miss Rioux were found May 10 in a shallow grave in the Piedmont-St. Hippolyte district of the Laurentians. The two had been missing since the spring of 1965.

They are said to have sheltered Rivard after his escape in March, 1965, from Bordeaux jail. He was then being held for extradition on narcotics charges which brought him the 20-year sentence he now is serving in the United States.

Paquette has been mentioned in court as having been implicated in a $1,400,000 mail truck robbery in Montreal two years ago.

TELLS OF SLAYING

At the inquest Thursday, the 24-year-old waitress, testifying under her maiden name of Claudette Riopel, said Durocher told her last year he had killed Paquette and Miss Rioux outside their cottage in Piedmont.

Durocher countered by saying the killings were carried out by Miss Riopel's husband, Conrad Brunelle, a convict who hanged himself in his cell at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary two months ago.

Miss Riopel said she drove Durocher back to the cottage May 23, 1965, the day after the murders, because her husband had agreed to lend his car to Durocher.

When they got to the cottage, Durocher told her to stay in the car and went into the bush wearing rubber boots, carrying a shovel, a bag of lime and a flask of water.

Duroche returned to the car complaining that they should have brought more water so that "they would have bubbled a lot more."

During the return trip to Montreal Durocher asked her if she knew what was going on. When she said she did not, Durocher volunteered to tell her the whole story.

Miss Riopel said Durocher told her he handcuffed Paquette's hands behind his back and forced him to show where he had money hidden. Durocher got some money from inside a piano then more from a flat tin box buried under a flat stone.

GAGS VICTIM

Then, said Miss Riopel, Durocher said he forced the pair to their knees, stuffing a towel in Paquette's mouth so he would not scream.

She said Durocher told her he then shot Miss Rioux through the face and shot Paquette through the back of the head.

Miss Riopel was accompanied at the inquest by Montreal lawyer Leo-Rene Maranda, who produced a letter he said he had received from Conrad Brunelle a few days after Brunelle was found dead in his cell.

Miss Riopel read the letter aloud. In it, Brunelle said he feared homicide squad detectives would blame him for the Paquette-Rioux murders.

"I can't see myself spending several years in jail for something I didn't do and then come out broke and an old man, so I have decided to kill myself.

Brunelle asked the lawyer: "If ever Durocher puts the blame on me for those murders I ask you to defend my name and that of my wife."

Photographs submitted in evidence showed a pair of handcuffs and a length of electric wire close to Paquette's body.

Satellite 'Tumbling Like an Angry Alligator'

SPACE WALKER CERNAN READY TO GO

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The hard luck Gemini 9 astronauts rocketed into orbit today, caught up with a target satellite after a 75,000-mile chase in space and accomplished history's quickest rendezvous of high-flying space vehicles.

Their target, a tiny, barrel-shaped craft launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, still was locked as feared in a protective shroud which should have dropped away when it separated from its Atlas booster rocket.

This meant that Gemini might not be able to hook up with the satellite, because the fibreglass shroud covers part of its docking collar.

"We have a weird-looking machine," command pilot Thomas P. Stafford, veteran of six postponed flights, reported to a ground station in Hawaii as Gemini flew in close formation with the satellite.

Stafford drove Gemini 9 to within 10 feet of the target, but did not want to approach closer because of the potential danger that the shroud might suddenly fly loose.

The shroud, he said, "looks like it's held on by some inconceivable force." It appeared, he added, that explosive bolts which were to have blown the shroud loose from the spacecraft had exploded.

After two heart-breaking scrubs of the mission, a mighty Titan II rocket launched Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan today on a vital flight that could bring the U.S. its second space triumph of the week.

The big highlight was to come Saturday, when Cernan climbs out of the Geminin cabin and drifts for 2½ hours as a human satellite—the longest of man's "space walks."

"The clamshells are on but they are open wide," Stafford said as Gemini 9 moved close to the satellite. "It looks like an angry alligator."

If it had separated correctly, the bolts would have split the shroud in two halves shaped like clamshells. Then springs were to have kicked the two pieces loose.

As Mission Control pondered a way to jar the shroud loose, Stafford suggested that he manoeuvre Gemini close and try to nudge it off with a docking bar on the Gemini nose.

"It's hard to see what's holding it together," Stafford reported later. "The only thing holding it together are those small wires that go to the explosive bolts.

Whole Thing Might Fall Apart

"Possibly if we go in and tap it, the whole thing may fall apart," Stafford said.

Command pilot Stafford, skilfully guiding the little spacecraft through a series of intricate manoeuvres, gained swiftly on the target after the Gemini launch in the morning.

In 2½ hours, he had closed the gap to 30 miles from 640 and had adjusted his once-elliptical orbit into a nearly-perfect circle cose to the path followed by the satellite.

After executing four major orbital changes with bursts of of his jet thrusters, Stafford in the first 2½ hours of the flight closed the distance to the target from 640 to about 125 miles.

He also had shifted the Gemini 9 path into almost a perfect circle 170 miles from the earth. At lunch, the ship had gone into an orbit ranging from 99 to 172 miles.

"For the third time, go!" Stafford said as he sat in the spacecraft poised for the launch.

Just 31 hours after the Surveyor I moonship landed softly

PILOT STAFFORD STIFLES A YAWN

POWER STRUGGLE?

China Purges Top Official

TOKYO (Reuters)—China today dismissed Peng Chen, mayor of Peking and a leading figure in the Communist hierarchy, from his post as first secretary of the party's Peking committee, Radio Peking reported today.

PENG
. . . dropped from sight

For weeks Peng Chen's subordinates have been criticized in the current campaign against "bourgeois and revisionist" intellectuals. There have been reports that the attacks were really aimed at Peng Chen.

He ranks ninth in the Communist party's ruling politburo.

The radio did not say whether Peng Chen would retain his post as Peking mayor, or his membership in the party's political bureau.

Hsueh-foung Li was named to replace him as the Peking Communist chief.

Peng has not been seen in public since March, before the attacks began on his subordinates and on local Peking newspapers for being "anti-party."

None of these attacks directly mentioned Peng but Chinese newspapers hinted at a powerful figure in the background of the "anti-party" activities.

PART OF STRUGGLE

There has been speculation among China experts that the current campaign is part of a struggle for power now that China's head of state, Mao Tse-tung, is 72 and widely reported to be ailing.

Though Peng Chen officially ranks ninth in the hierarchy he is in practical terms about sixth, since the list includes two octogenarians and a politburo member who has long since disappeared from the public eye.

Above him are Mao, Chief of State Liu Shao-chi, Premier Chou En-lai, Defence Minister Lin Piao, and party General Secretary Ten Hsiao-ping.

Before his dismissal he was the immediate superior of two writers most heavily criticized in the current campaign against some intellectuals — Committee Secretary Teng to and Peking Vice-Mayor Wu Han.

Burly and jovial-looking, Peng Chen is one of China's most able and forceful officials.

He was sent to represent China at an international Communist conference in Bucharest in 1960 called by former Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev to rally support for his policy of co-existence.

Pictures Lacking Surprises

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Surveyor I radioed its second long stream of pictures from the moon early today—photos of itself and lunar terrain. They contained no surprises.

Some of the second series were out of focus, hurriedly taken to speed the camera on a full-circle sweep of the landing site — the Sea of Storms near the moon's equator.

Others of the series were remarkably detailed, some showing items as small as one-eighth of an inch. Scientists, after studying results of the full-circle sweep, plan later to turn the camera back to snap interesting areas.

The 620-pound spacecraft settled gently on its three shock-absorbing legs early Wednesda after a successful 63-hour voyage of more than 250,000 miles.

CALLED SIGNIFICANT

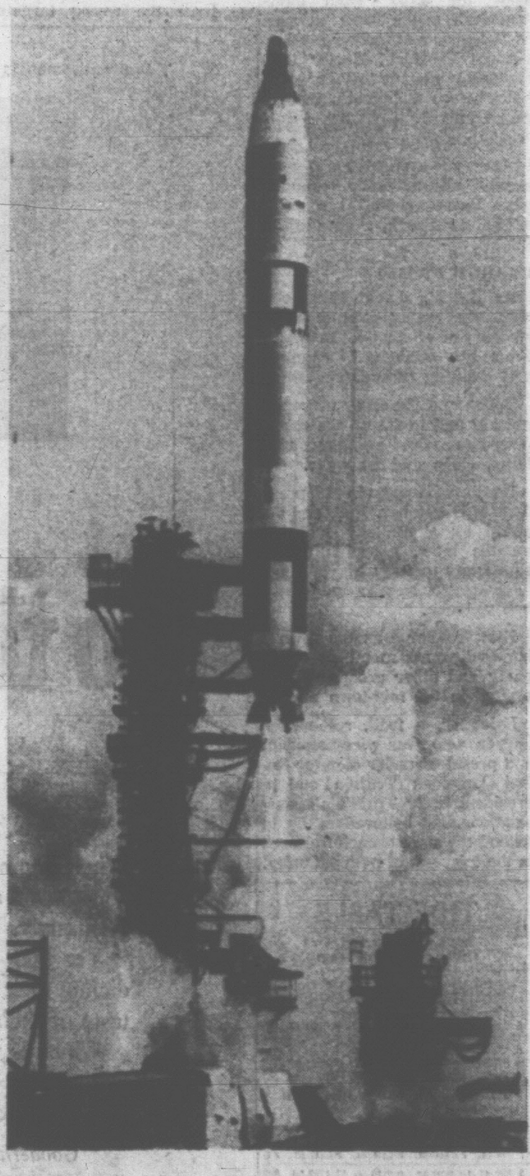
The feat was hailed as a significant advance in the race to land men on the lunar surface by 1970.

It also brought from President Johnson, along with praise, a renewed call for preserving the reaches of space for peaceful scientific activities.

Like Wednesday's series of 144 pictures, those from Surveyor today showed the undamaged spacecraft, the terrain around it and the distant horizon.

One shot of the horizon 1½ miles away showed small craters in the distance.

Another, aimed almost straight down at the ground, five feet away, depicted gravel-like objects on the apparently hard-packed surface. Some were one-eighth to one-half inch in diameter.



ENDING A FRUSTRATING 17-day jinx, the Gemini 9 spacecraft blasted off early this morning aboard a powerful Titan 2 rocket. But the "hard luck" which has plagued the mission continued when astronauts Thomas Stafford and Eugene Cernan discovered a protective covering on a target satellite failed to drop off. This development may cancel the "hookup" part of the three-day mission. (AP Wirephoto.)

Gemini 10 To Go Up July 18

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) The smoke around the launch pad barely cleared today in the wake of Gemini 9 before crews began clearing debris in preparation for launching Gemini 10, now scheduled to blast off July 18.

The Titan II rocket that will carry Gemini 10 astronauts John W. Young and Michael Collins on a three-day rendezvous and space-walk mission is due to be erected Tuesday or Wednesday.

U.S. Navy Cmdr. Young and Air Force Maj. Collins plan to rendezvous with an Agena target satellite and carry out a lengthy space walk by Collins.

The Gemini 10 launch is scheduled in the mid-afternoon of July 18, when Gemini 10 can also be placed in a position to rendezvous with another target satellite already in orbit—the Agena launched for the Gemini 8 mission March 16.

IF ACTION RECIPROCAL

U.S. Willing To Stop North Raids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department today reiterated U.S. willingness to consider stopping the bombing of North Viet Nam if Hanoi indicated it would take some "reciprocal action."

The carefully worded statements were issued in reply to a published report in New York that the United States had sent word to Hanoi it would be willing to stop bombing the north if Hanoi stopped its infiltration, both under a system of international verification.

WITHDRAWAL

The state department's reference to North Vietnamese "activities" and "presence" in the south indicated the U.S. was interested not just in a halt in infiltration but in withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces from the south. North Viet Nam has 12 regiments there.

In another development relating to Viet Nam, high administration officials took the view that Buddhist uprisings in the south were a faltering bid for power and not as any real attempt to oust American forces from the embattled country.

FRENCHMAN OFF TO HANOI

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle will send Jean Sainteny, France's represntateive to North Viet Nam during the early days of the Viet Minh war, to Hanoi and Peking in a new effort to end the present Viet Nam war, informed sources said today.

WIRE BRIEFS

City Golf Champion

Ruth McNiven, Nanaimo, won the Victoria women's golf championship today defeating Eileen Anderson of Colwood 2 and 1 in the 18-hole final at Uplands Golf Club.

'Freeloaders' Hit

VANCOUVER (CP)—About 30 motorists who attempted to take advantage of Vancouver's parking ticket holiday paid $5 each to get their cars back after they were impounded Thursday. John Fisk, deputy police chief, said he launched the attack on curbside free-loaders after a check of the downtown area showed about 75 per cent of drivers were not feeding the parking meters.

Truck Driver Killed

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The body of a 64-year-old Kamloops man, Larry Patton, was found today in his wrecked laundry truck at the bottom of a 150-foot embankment on the North Thompson Highway about 35 miles north of here.

Siamese Twins Born

TORONTO (CP)—Officials at the Hospital for Sick Children reported today that Siamese twins, born in Guelph, Ont., Thursday night, are in satisfactory condition.

The twins, both girls, were born to Mrs. Leonard McGhee, 25, and were brought here by ambulance under police escort. They were in critical condition overnight.

Hospital officials said the twins had a breathing problem, but were put in respirators.

Veteran de Valera In Narrow Victory

DUBLIN (Reuters) — Veteran statesman Eamon de Valera—one of the last surviving leaders of the 1916 Easter rising which wrenched Ireland from 300 years of British rule—today scraped to victory in the republic's presidential elections by a mere 10,500 votes.

De Valera, 83, who said it was his final election campaign, won his second seven-year term as head of state after his challenger, Tom O'Higgins, conceded defeat shortly after midnight Thursday night.

O'Higgins, a 49-year-old lawyer, polled strongly in urban areas, ousting his U.S.-born opponent by large majorities in all six of the capital's constituencies. Final figures for the nation gave De Valera 558,808 votes and O'Higgins 548,240.

De Valera's narrow victory was described by political observers as a moral defeat for the Fianna Fail (soldiers of destiny) ruling party of Premier Sean Lemass, which De Valera helped to found nearly 40 years ago.

O Higgins, nominated by the Fine Gael, the main opposition party, said the result "has created a very grave problem for the government."

Opposition Leader Liam Cosgrave said he was entitled to ask for the government's resignation but Premier Lemass declined comment on political implications of the election.

U.S. Wants Clarification From China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has asked China whether it would stop its nuclear tests if the U.S. agreed with Peking not to strike first in a nuclear attack.

Authoritative sources making this known today said the U.S. is attempting to clarify a proposal originally made by China in December, 1964, and referred to again last month by Premier Chou En-lai.

Thus, it was explained, the U.S. has not made a proposal as such, but has raised the question with the Chinese at the May 25 ambassadorial meeting in Warsaw, Poland.

State Secretary Dean Rusk replied May 17 to a claim by Chou that the U.S. had rejected the Chinese proposal for a no-first-strike agreement.

"We did not accept the Chinese Communist proposal because we believe that these disarmament measures should be carried out under strict and effective international control, so that all parties can be assured of honoring their obligations," Rusk said.

State department officials said this still is the U.S. position.

But Senator Albert Gore (Dem. Tenn.) told reporters Thursday that he had informed a privately convened conference in Geneva last weekend that the U.S. would "be willing to enter into a no-first-use-of-nuclear weapons treaty if China would adhere to the existing nuclear test-ban treaty."

New Fire Suicide Threatens Truce

SAIGON (AP)—The fire suicide of a Buddhist nun and pronouncements by two heirarchic leaders darkened prospects for South Viet Nam's precarious political truce today, Buddha's birthday.

The nun, 26, burned herself to death in the courtyard of a small pagoda in Da Nang. She was the sixth Buddhist to die in this fashion since Sunday in a wave of anti-government fanaticism.

Thich Tri Quang, the most outspoken and militant of the Buddhist leaders fighting Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime, announced at a press conference in Hue that he will order Buddhists to boycott any elections held by the government this year. He coupled the threat with bitter attacks on the government and on President Johnson for supporting it. Election of a constituent assembly is due Sept. 11.

SUBMITS RESIGNATION

In Saigon, the moderate head of the Buddhist Institute, Thich (venerable) Tam Chau, submitted his resignation, saying "I have failed." This imperilled the compromise formula agreed upon Wednesday for addition of 10 civilians to the ruling military directorate, for he was the chief Buddhist negotiator.

Monks said the nun, Thichnu Dieu Dinh, 26, left behind a letter for President Johnson charging that "Vietnamese Buddhists were annihilated by your policies in Viet Nam."

The suicide indicated the strong opposition among extremist Buddhists to a truce negotiated by Buddhist moderates with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime.

Tam Chau said in his letter of resignation:

"I have tried to solve the present situation but I have failed."

A special council will be called to decide whether to accept the resignation, but Buddhist sources said this might take two or three days.

No Power to Act

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Nicholson said today he has no power to meet a request by the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC) that the Shipping Federation of Canada be displaced as bargaining agent for employers in the strike which has tied up three Quebec ports.

ROWERS AVERAGING 7 MILES A DAY

Puffin Catches Cutlass' Eye

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Two English journalists apparently are making some headway in their efforts to row across the Atlantic in a 15-foot rowboat.

David Johnstone, 34, and John Hoare, 29, were paid an unexpected visit Thursday and found out they had advanced 98 miles toward England since departing Virginia Beach May 21.

The radar of the submarine Cutlass spotted the rowboat named Puffin at a distance of about nine miles, prompting Lt.-Cmdr. Lewis B. Sykes to order his men to manoeuvre the sub to the rowboat's side.

Asked if they needed assistance, Hoare and Johnstone replied they were doing fine and had every intention of continuing with their venture.

Sykes told the pair they were 98 miles east-southeast of Cape Henry, a progress of 64 miles since they were last seen Saturday night.

The two hope to make the journey to St. Ives, England in 50 days by averaging 60 miles a day. Adverse winds during the early part of the trip has kept their average down to eight miles a day. Over the last 4½ days however, Hoare and Johnstone had upped their average to better than 14 miles a day.

COMPLETE NEWS PAGE SET IN TWO MINUTES

NEW YOK (AP) — Newspaper publishers meeting in Cleveland next week will get a look at a new electronic type-composing system introduced by the Radio Corporation of America.

The new process, called Videocomp, composes up to 600 characters a second, 900 lines a minute, and can set an entire newspaper page in two minutes, RCA said.

Punched tape is fed into a computer which instantly separates, justifies, and hyphenates each line. A second tape, produced by the computer, is read electronically by the Videocomp typesetter and the lines are set on sensitized paper or film.

RCA will display the equipment at the production management conference of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, opening Sunday in Cleveland.

Videocomp, developed by a West German company, uses no metal fonts, matrices or photo masters. Each character is produced from a memory bank on a cathode ray rube—similar to television —and is directed through a lens to sensitized paper.

The reproduced type, on paper or film, can be used in printing by conventional offset lithography letterpress or gravure.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Glamor Mines Move Up

Three glamor mines showed gains on the Vancouver Stock Exchange this morning but other prices were generally down. Dynasty was up .50 to $13.25, Pyramid gained .25 to $13.37 and Brenda rose .10 to $6.80.

Wall Street was higher in dull trading that appeared to be falling short of Thursday's 5,080,000 shares.

AT TORONTO market activity remained light in mid-afternoon trading as major groups only managed fractional gains.

Volume totalled 1,813,000 shares at 2 p.m. compared with 2,157,000 at the same time Thursday. Analysts say investors are staying away from the market because they expect prices to go lower.

Walker-Gooderham and Distillers Seagrams paced the industrial group gaining 1¼ each to 33½ and 34¼. CPR was up ¾ to 61 and Shell ½ to 21¾. Harding Carpets was down 1⅝ to 41½.

Banking issues were lower with Imperial Commerce off ⅞ to 65, Montreal ½ to 59½ and Nova Scotia ¼ to 70¼.

Pine Point highlighted base metals, rising 1¾ to 67. Pyramid added ⅝ at 13½ and Rio Algom ¼ at 24⅝.

Among western oils, Scurry Rainbow advanced 1⅜ to 29⅝, Pacific Petroleum ⅜ to 12⅝ while Dome lost ½ to 15.

AT VANCOUVER three industrial stocks and three mining issues hit 1966 lows.

In the industrial list B.C. Forest was off 50 cents to $18.50, Doman Industries dropped 25 cents to $6.75 and Industrial Acceptance fell to $20.50.

In the mines Anuk River was off five cents to 85, Benson was down two to 50 cents and Beaver was off two to 13 cents. Bethex climbed nine cents to a 1966 high of 89 cents.

AT NEW YORK caution prevailed but there was enough investment demand to give steels, rubbers and chemicals a higher trend.

International Mining was the volume leader on the basis of a single block of 150,000 shares. It was up nearly a point.

Walker Gooderham rose 1⅛ and Distillers Seagrams 1 among Canadian stocks. The rise followed word that Seagrams had filed a new price list boosting most brands about 16 cents for each one-fifth of a gallon in Michigan. The increases are expected to become effective in all 17 states where the state government runs the liquor business, and to be matched by the other major distillers.

AT MONTREAL stocks continued to move to higher leevls towards 2 p.m. today in moderately active trading.

Industrial volume was 184,800 and mines and oils 773,500.

Utilities were up. CPR rose ½ to 60¾ and Maritime Telephone ⅜ to 50⅝. Trans-Canada Pipe Line climbed ¼ to 34.

Papers turned to higher levels with Fraser advancing ½ to 28.

AT LONDON the stock market was quiet again today, but most losses were small. Aircrafts were strongly supported following favorable company statements.

Arthur Mayse

Most of the letters that come to this office are signed, even though the writers may not wish to share their names with the reading public. This is a sometimes necessary provision, and I have yet to hear of a newspaper or newsman who failed to respect it.

So when good old "Pro Bono Publico" looses a blast, or "Utterly Disgusted" goes to bat for yon doomed oak tree, you may be sure that he has established his good faith by furnishing us with his name and address.

We know who "Faithful Reader" is, and even though his shyness may puzzle us, this paper gives him reasonable space in which to make his point.

There is, however, another penman whose effusions never see print. He is anonymous in fact as well as nom de plume: he doesn't trust us, and, often regretfully, we must consider his letters suspect.

I have no quarrel with Anonymous in his more amiable manifestations, and there have been times when he has earned my gratitude by good works. However, there lurks among his ranks a faceless, nameless creature of a more sinister sort. His specialty is the poison pen letter.

The first time one of these favored me with his attentions, I felt as if I had been lashed at by a snake. But that was a long time ago, and I no longer brood over the rare attack from ambush.

A columnist offers an especially choice target for the poison pen. His name is up there for all to see, he states his views on any subject that takes his fancy, and in the process he may very well tread upon somebody's toes.

When this happens, the offended reader usually lets me know. He calls and identifies himself, or writes and signs. Since mine is a lonely sort of job with few guide-posts, I welcome those contacts, and frequently benefit from them.

The poison pen, however, is not given to national discussion, and prefers his arguments to be strictly one-sided. He is also terrified at the prospect of discovery, and the means he uses to avoid dropping clues are many and devious.

If he telephones, he will often attempt to change his voice. Frequently he prints his letters; once he took the elaborate and ridiculous precaution of clipping and pasting words from a magazine.

One of my pet serpents—so constant that I would miss him if he turned his venom elsewhere — alternates between fine, tight handwriting and a large, unformed scrawl.

I have used the generic "he," but I think those last episodes come from a woman, and this is a reversal of the usual order. By the evidence, I suspect that the majority of poison pen letter writers are male.

★

In the course of a year, I garner about a dozen of these furtive epistles.

Even the envelope conveys an impression of furtiveness. It carries no return address, of course, and it is free of any distinguishing mark. Often the letter inside lacks margins. Occasionally, despite his precautions, the writer betrays himself by a unique turn of phrase or a misspelling which I have noted and remembered from previous legitimate correspondence.

All are abusive, some obscene. They are always ugly, vindictive beyond the normal range of anger, and characterized by the crazen fear of recognition that I noted earlier.

But what's to be afraid of? Why not do as the normal incensed correspondent does . . . state the complaint, perhaps blow off steam by beating the dust out of my pelt, and add the signature which establishes the right to be considered an honest dissident?

I wonder less about the why of the poison pen since I quit dropping such letters in my wastebasket and began turning them over to a psychiatrist.

WE'RE RIPE FOR EASY PICKINS

BARRY BICKFORD

Jumbo Crop Needs Pickers

One of the heaviest berry crops in years is waiting to be picked in the Saanich Peninsula.

The word from growers this morning was that this year's crop may go as high as 800 tons, compared with 600 tons last year.

And, as usual, the growers say there is a shortage of pickers.

Barry Bickford, a large Central Saanich grower, said people are starting to go out on weekends to pick fruit and he expects little problem in getting pickers once school is out.

But in the meantime there is an acute shortage of pickers during the week.

CALL N.E.S.

Saanich Fruit Growers' Association confirmed the shortage and a spokesman appealed for pickers at this time. He said anyone interested should contact the National Employment Service which makes arrangements for pickers.

The association spokesman said some pickers can earn as much as $13 or $14 a day although he agreed "this is very high."

He said it is "impossible" to estimate the average earnings of pickers.

"It depends on how hard they want to work and the patch they are working in."

Mr. Bickford said this year's crop is ready a bit earlier than last year's. So far he has taken 30 crates of strawberries off one acre of fruit.

Picking started last Sunday on his farm. This year's crop has been little affected by frost.

Seven Hurt In Series Of Smashes

Seven persons required hospital treatment in six road accidents over the past 24 hours.

Irwin Lyle Rocknell, 1418 Harrison, is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital after his car went out of control in the 200 block Esquimalt Road early today and smashed into a rock outcrop.

He suffered face cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Cecilia Ward, 4967 Cordova Bay Road, was treated for minor injuries at hospital Thursday night and released following a spectacular two-car crash at Hillside and Quadra Streets.

SHATTERED WINDOW

The Ward car rammed the wall of Hillside Hardware and then shattered a plate glass window after it was in collision with an auto driven by Peter Erthington, 242 Beechwood.

Edmond Perschbacker, 17, of 2780 Seaview, was treated for abrasions at hospital Thursday after he was thrown from his motorcycle on North Park when it struck a dog.

Police said the dog, owned by Jim Ato, 916 North Park, was killed. The mishap took place between Cook and Quadra Streets.

Maryse Carrious, 16, of 2664 Cedar Hill Road, and Gail Fletcher, 17, of 1120 Oxford St., were treated for minor injuries after a two-car collision at Oliphant and Vancouver Thursday around 6 p.m.

HEAVY DAMAGE

Police said damage was heavy in a collision between the Carrious car and an auto driven by Joan Marie Haywood, 1029 Oliphant.

Dennis Hutchings, 19, of 1871 Carrick, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital about noon today after his motorcycle was in collision with a car at Blackwood and Vista Heights. A hospital spokesman said he was not seriously injured.

One person was reported injured and en route to hospital in a mishap on Sooke Road near Royal Roads today. No details were available.

The fair is in aid of all Girl Guide and Brownie units on Saanich Peninsula to pay off a mortgage on summer camp property at Elk Lake, and a large group of outsiders have pitched in to put on a "different kind of show."

It will be opened at 11 a.m. by Lieut.-Gov. George Pearkes, and included in the program which will follow throughout the afternoon will be loggers' sports, horse events and official police dogs in action-packed demonstrations of their criminal-tracking work.

This is the schedule of events as listed by organizer A .W. (Bud) Mesher:

11:30—Fault and out horse jumping.

12.00—Rex and Prince, Saanich police dogs, with Constable Jim White and George Barr, in "The Laws Have Teeth!"

The Navy show at Patricia Bay Saturday will be between 1 and 4:30 p.m. when a variety of aircraft will be shown and a fire-fighting display given. There will be a fly-past of planes from the base as well as Comox, and parachute jumping and a display of aerobatics.

Saanich's totem unveiling Saturday will take place at Bute Street and the Trans-Canada Highway, and is one of 20 marking the Totem Route of land and sea roads north from Victoria to Prince Rupert. The ceremony will take place at 11 a.m.

Saanich's Diamond Jubilee motorcycle events Sunday at Beaver Lake start at 2 p.m. and are part of a continuing series of events mrking the anniversary of the municipality. Events will include scrambling, jumping, trick riding and formations.

Assessment in Area Called 'Acceptable'

The provincial assessment commissioner has officially informed Victoria that assessments in the Greater Victoria municipalities are at acceptable levels.

But the city still isn't convinced that assessments are as fair as they appear on paper.

Commissioner W. P. Wright, answering a request from city manager Dennis Young for information on assessment increases in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, said in his opinion "all of the municipal components of the Greater Victoria school district have highly acceptable levels."

COSTLY TO CITY

The issue came to light when, in his annual report to city council at budget time, comptroller James Bramley suggested the significant differences in assessment increases during the past year could be costly to Victoria taxpayers.

In his reply Mr. Wright noted that although Victoria assessments had jumped 25.13 per cent in 1966 over 1965 as compared with a 16.43 per cent jump in Sannich, a 0.14 per cent increase in Oak Bay and a 1.58 per cent increase in Esquimalt, a three-year tally of increases showed a truer picture.

He stated that since 1964 Victoria's total increase in assessments was 32.94 per cent as compared with 31.65 per cent in Saanich, 38.78 per cent in Oak Bay and 17.31 per cent in Esquimalt.

But although the three-year figures show three municipalities fairly close in line the city wants more information before it accepts the statistics.

NEED ASSURANCE

"This is fine, but I think we still need the assurance that the assessments in other municipalities are up to the 50 per cent of market value line," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

"We should ask the city manager to find out how assessment values in other municipalities compare with ours. We know that we are up to the 50 per cent mark, but are the others? We have nothing to hide and I'm sure the other municipalities have nothing to hide."

The city manager will endeavor to supply the information.

EARLY CHECK

Mr. Young said the report from Mr. Wright was more than welcome in that in addition to the information presented it also carried the promise of an early check of assessments by equalization evaluators.

"It is significant that the equalization evaluators will be out in the field early," said Mr. Young. "It will give us the assurance that if everything isn't all right now it certainly will be in the future."

The cost-sharing formula used by the various municipalities in the Greater Victoria area is based on assessment values. It has been stressed on several occasions that a municipality with low or out-of-date assessments could thus save money when the municipalities share costs while the municipality with its assessments up to date could be penalized by its own efficiency.

AMERICAN SUBMARINE OPEN SUNDAY

A U.S. submarine will be on show to the public Sunday at HMC Dockyard.

The USS Menhaden will be here on a two-day liberty and recreation visit, and no official ceremonies have been laid on for when she docks at 9 a.m. Saturday.

People interested in touring the 310-foot vessel will be allowed on board between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday.

WATER, WATER everywhere at Douglas and Cloverdale early today as an 88-year-old main burst, turning Roderick and Cloverdale into rivers. At breakfast time crews had uncovered the break and the line was back in service later today. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

ONE MORE UNION TO SIGN

Victoria has one more labor agreement to sign before its labor negotiations for the year are completed.

City manager Dennis Young said rates paid city-employed carpenters are normally agreed to by the Victoria Builders' Exchange and the union and that negotiations are still in progress.

BREAKDOWN

Other unions settled with the city as follows:

City Hall Employees' Association, Local 388 (inside staff), five per cent a year for two years; Civic Employees' Association, Local 50 (outside workers), 12 cents an hour each year for two years.

International Association of Fire Fighters, Local 730, five per cent for one year. The fire fighters award was decided by a binding conciliation board.

Victoria Policemen's Union, five per cent each year for two years.

Operating Engineers (Memorial Arena), 12 cents an hour each year for two years.

Registered Nurses' Association, five per cent for one year.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, street lighting division, six per cent each year for two years.

In his report Mr. Young said that while the various increases had boosted the city's budget they are fair and equitable.

Mayor A. W. Toone said the negotiating teams from management and labor are to be congratulated on reaching the different agreements amicably.

1878 Water Main Throws in Towel

Tens of thousands of gallons of water turned parts of Cloverdale, Douglas and Roderick Streets into a riverbed early today as an ancient water main burst under Douglas Street.

The 12-inch cast-iron pipe, stamped with the date 1878, cracked for several feet where it runs about eight feet underground at the Douglas-Cloverdale intersection.

The basements of two homes on Roderick were flooded though not severely, a Saanich waterworks department spokesman said.

Water gushing under the road surface heaved it as much as six inches along the edges.

Workmen were busy burrowing down to the break as the morning rush-hour traffic streamed past and were expected to have the line in service shortly after noon.

The high-pressure line broke about 3 a.m. Crews stopped the flooding by turning off four valves. Water supply for most of the area was maintained by bypassing the break through other mains in the area. Only about 10 houses were without water until repairs were completed.

'Mug-Up' Planned After Field Trip

The younger section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Douglas and Hillside for a field trip to Goldstream Park.

A "mug-up" and campfire is planned after the hike.

Esquimalt Radar At Work Monday

Something new has been added in Esquimalt.

Police Chief James Smart said Thursday the municipality now has its first radar unit.

It will go on the job Monday morning checking the speed of motorists on Esquimalt streets.

Warehousemen Set Strike Vote

A government-supervised strike vote will be held next Thursday among 15 drivers and warehousemen employed by Standard Furniture.

The International Brotherhood of Teamsters is seeking its first contract for the men, who work at the warehouse on Viewfield Road.

If the vote is affirmative, the men may strike after giving 48 hours' notice.

North Saanich Student Believed Drowned Swimming Near Peace

A University of Victoria student working for the summer with B.C. Forest Service is believed to have drowned while swimming Wednesday near the Peace River power project.

Douglas Gordon Ward, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Ward, 8667 Aldous Terrace, North Saanich, was last seen when he left after work late Wednesday afternoon to go swimming in the Peace.

DOUGLAS WARD
. . . clothing found

A forest service spokesman said when the youth failed to return a search party was sent out and his clothes were found beside the river about 9 p.m. The site was about 15 miles west of Portage Mountain dam site.

Up until press time today the body had not been recovered.

The youth, a graduate of North Saanich high school, attended University of Victoria last year and went north on a summer job with the forest service. His parents said that in a letter home he had said the past month was one of the happiest in his life. He was a survey assistant marking flood lines on the Peace project.

He is survived, in addition to his parents, by two sisters, Anne and Mary.

NEVER IN UPLANDS

Old Smokey Fires Them Up

By DESMOND BILL

People in Parklands say it couldn't happen in the Uplands.

And they say it shouldn't happen anywhere.

They mean "the smoke."

It comes in great gusts, at times, from a burner at Plumper Bay Sawmills Ltd.

The smoke deposits ash and dirt on clothes hung out to dry. It permeates locked windows and causes what one woman called "a most horrible smell in your house."

At times it mixes with light morning fog so that you can't see a house on the other side of the street.

UNTIL AUG. 5

And it will continue like that, depending on atmospheric conditions, until Aug. 5.

Presumably, homeowners in the Parklands subdivision of Esquimalt and people who live around Craigflower Bridge, will continue smoking with rage until that date too.

There is nothing anyone can do to stop it.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, metropolitan health officer, says the mill has been given until Aug. 5 to stop the smoke nuisance.

But that doesn't make the people who live in the smoke path any happier.

Says one of them, Mrs. W. R. Walters, 908 Alexander, "It looks as if we are in for a long, hot, smoky summer."

HEARD IT BEFORE

She says they have heard before that the nuisance would be stopped. That was last fall when the mill owner promised to try and stop burning by Jan. 1 of this year.

The mill did start to ship away sawdust and now burns only about 10 per cent of the waste it did formerly. But it still continues to burn wet bark that produces a lot of smoke.

Mrs. Walters, and other residents like her, say the improvement hardly makes any difference. She has organized her neighbors to have the burning stopped completely.

Most of them live in better-than-average homes. Some moved in within recent years, not knowing of the smoke nuisance. They don't want to be quoted by name but all the newcomers quizzed say they would not have moved if they had known about the smoke.

PALL OF SMOKE

A woman who lives in a rented home down by Craigflower, in the opposite direction from Mrs. Walters' home, says she can sometimes see a pall of smoke rolling downhill on her home.

Mrs. Beverley Campbell, 109 Glentana, says her husband had to get a professional car wash for his auto when he left it out overnight once. He couldn't remove the fine ash from his car.

Her neighbor, Mrs. Darlene Lange, 107 Glentana, says the smoke makes the area "worse than Alberni, except that this place doesn't have the pulp mill smell."

Even the promise that the burning will cease Aug. 5 does not really make Mrs. Walter happy.

She says: "Tight legislation is necessary to control this air pollution. It should never have been allowed in the first place. Even when this nuisance is cleared up, there is nothing to prevent something similar happening either here or elsewhere."

Ask The Times

Q. What, briefly, is the history of Bentinck Island, the former leper colony? C.P.

A. The 112-acre island, nine miles southwest of Victoria off William Head, was taken by the federal government for use as a lighthouse reserve, although it never served in that function, in 1884. In 1924, it was given over to the Department of Health and Welfare for use as a leper colony. The island, with its total patient population of 22 patients was one of two lazarettos in Canada until the last afflicted man died in 1956. It was turned over to the Department of National Defence in 1959 and has since served as a demolition range.

MAYOR SEEKING FULL REPORT ON JAIL DEATH

Mayor A. W. Toone has called for a complete report on the events leading up to the death of Josephine Jimmy, 30, in Victoria police cells a little more than two weeks ago.

Reluctant to discuss the issue until he was better informed on details, the mayor said he would request a full investigation.

Earlier this week a coroner's jury was critical of the treatment the woman received prior to her death in the cells. Its verdict carried the rider that she should have been taken to hospital the night before she died and stressed that changes should be made in the shift-hours worked by police matrons.

WOMEN'S AREA

At present, as on the night of Josephine Jimmy's death, matrons work 16-hour shifts in the women's section of the jail.

The jury recommended that the hours of duty be reduced to eight.

Mayor Toone said he would have no recommendations until after a detailed investigation report has been studied.

"I don't think the matrons work a straight 16 hours," he said. "Some of that time they are resting but on call."

The mayor, as chief magistrate is also chairman of the Victoria Police Commission.

Sewer Plan For District Near-Ready

The long-awaited report on an overall sewage disposal system for the Saanich Peninsula, Colwood and Greater Victoria will be ready for release at the end of June.

Victoria city engineer James Garnett says the voluminous report touching on all aspects of sewers and sewage disposal, is in the hands of the printers and should be ready for presentation to the Regional District Board in about two weeks time.

"After it comes back from the printers it will be gone over by the team of experts who conducted the survey and then turned over to the regional board," he said. "after that it will be up to them when it is released."

The forecast price for the program is $23 million.

TRUNK LINES

Though details of the report are still closely guarded secrets is it expected major trunk lines and sea outfalls will be among the recommendations.

One of the major headaches facing the boosters of the sewer project will be financing.

Victoria has already voiced a reluctance to share the cost of any major sewers which will be of little benefit to city dwellers.

However the cost is split the various municipalities will have to pick up the entire tab. The provincial government does not share the cost of sewer installation.

Negroes To Be Tried

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Seven Negroes, alleged to have been trained as saboteurs in China and Egypt, were committed for trial in Rhodesia Wednesday on charges that could lead to the death penalty. No date was set for the trial. They were charged with unlawfully possessing three rifles, two submachine-guns, two automatic pistols, 575 rounds of ammunition, 25 hand grenades and 20 slabs of Russian-made explosive.

School for Retarded Opened by Chairman

A new $138,000 school for retarded children was officially opened Wednesday by Greater Victoria school board chairman John Porteous.

Sixty youngsters from the Victoria area will attend the school, at Victor and Denman, when it opens for classes in the fall.

Greater Victoria school trustees can be "justifiably proud" of the building, said provincial Superintendent of Education Franklin P. Levirs at the opening.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Stephen

The television industry gave dubious recognition to its own in the absurd Emmy award show a fortnight ago. But the ultimate winners were far from unanimous in choice.

The Emmy award system has been criticized year after year for its strange selection of categories and, stranger still, its selection of winners.

Earlier this week, a dozen TV critics, banding together to create their own TV awards in reaction to the quantitative accent and other undiscriminating aspects of the Emmys, came up with a slate of four winners from the period of mid-May '65 to mid-May '66—each recognized for "exceptional contribution to television."

The Talent Associates production of "Death of a Salesman," carried on CBS-TV last month as a two-hour telecast, was singled out as "exceptional drama."

Xerox Corp., for underwriting distinguished programs (including Salesman, but also the UN dramas and various documentaries), was cited for "exceptional contribution by a sponsor."

Frankly, I can't go along with the latter choice. It's up to sponsors to help produce quality, isn't it?

Former CBS News president Fred Friendly was named for "exceptional contribution by an individual," and NBC won recogniton for "exceptional contribution by a network."

NBC was recognized in three areas: for all-color pioneering; for airing a weekly film series with a Negro co-star (I Spy with Bill Cosby); and for its coverage of the Senate hearings.

Runners-up in the balloting were Color Me Barbra; CBS Reports: KKK—The Invisible Empire; National Educational Television network; Julie Andrews Show; NET's Who Shall Live? and all network coverage of the Pope's visit to New York.

Peter Falk, star of CBS' Trials of O'Brien, polled four votes for "working nobly and effectively all season in a virtual vacuum." Others to receive four were ABC's Beethoven: Ordeal and Triumph and NBC's Inherit the Wind on Hallmark Hall of Fame.

The 12 participating critics in the consensus, representing all regions of the U.S., agreed that the measure of "exceptional" would not merely be against other achievements in a single year but against all achievement in the history of TV. There was no hardware for winners to receive. Citations were made only in the form of publication in the critics' columns.

Space Walk Set Saturday

Gemini Space Ram Vetoed

SPACE WALKER CERNAN READY TO GO

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The hard luck Gemini 9 astronauts rocketed into orbit today, caught up with a target satellite after a 75,000-mile chase in space and accomplished history's quickest rendezvous of high-flying space vehicles.

Their target, a tiny, barrel-shaped craft launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, still was locked as feared in a protective shroud which should have dropped away when it separated from its Atlas booster rocket.

This meant that Gemini might not be able to hook up with the satellite, because the fibreglass shroud covers part of its docking collar.

"We have a weird-looking machine," command pilot Thomas P. Stafford, veteran of six postponed flights, reported to a ground station in Hawaii as Gemini flew in close formation with the satellite.

Stafford drove Gemini 9 to within 10 feet of the target, but did not want to approach closer because of the potential danger that the shroud might suddenly fly loose.

The shroud, he said, "looks like it's held on by some inconceivable force." It appeared, he added, that explosive bolts which were to have blown the shroud loose from the spacecraft had exploded.

After two heart-breaking scrubs of the mission, a mighty Titan II rocket launched Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan today on a vital flight that coulu bring the U.S. its second space triumph of the week.

The big highlight was to come Saturday, when Cernan climbs out of the Gemini cabin and drifts for 2½ hours as a human satellite—the longest of man's "space walks."

"The clamshells are on but they are open wide," Stafford said as Gemini 9 moved close to the satellite. "It looks like an angry alligator."

If it had separated correctly, the bolts would have split the shroud in two halves shaped like clamshells. Then springs were to have kicked the two pieces loose.

★ ★ ★

As Mission Control pondered a way to jar the shroud loose, Stafford suggested that he manoeuvre Gemini close and try to ram it off with a docking bar on the Gemini nose.

"It's hard to see what's holding it together," Stafford reported later. "The only thing holding it together are those small wires that go to the explosive bolts.

★ ★ ★

"Possibly if we go in and tap it, the whole thing may fall apart," Stafford said.

Command pilot Stafford, skilfully guiding the little spacecraft through a series of intricate manoeuvres, gained swiftly on the target after the Gemini launch in the morning.

In 2½ hours, he had closed the gap to 30 miles from 640 and had adjusted his once-elliptical orbit into a nearly-perfect circle cose to the path followed by the satellite.

After executing four major orbital changes with bursts of of his jet thrusters, Stafford in the first 2½ hours of the flight closed the distance to the target from 640 to about 125 miles.

He also had shifted the Gemini 9 path into almost a perfect circle 170 miles from the earth. At lunch, the ship had gone into an orbit ranging from 99 to 172 miles.

"For the third time, go!" Stafford said as he sat in the spacecraft poised for the launch.

Just 31 hours after the Surveyor I moonship landed softly

POWER STRUGGLE?

China Purges Top Official

TOKYO (Reuters)—China today dismissed Peng Chen, mayor of Peking and a leading figure in the Communist hierarchy, from his post as first secretary of the party's Peking committee, Radio Peking reported today.

PENG

For weeks Peng Chen's subordinates have been criticized in the current campaign against "bourgeois and revisionist" intellectuals. There have been reports that the attacks were really aimed at Peng Chen.

He ranks ninth in the Communist party's ruling politburo.

The radio did not say whether Peng Chen would retain his post as Peking mayor, or his membership in the party's political bureau.

Hsueh-foung Li was named to replace him as the Peking Communist chief.

Peng has not been seen in public since March, before the attacks began on his subordinates and on local Peking newspapers for being "anti-party."

None of these attacks directly mentioned Peng but Chinese newspapers hinted at a powerful figure in the background of the "anti-party" activities.

There has been speculation among China experts that the current campaign is part of a struggle for power now that China's head of state, Mao Tsetung, is 72 and widely reported to be ailing.

Though Peng Chen officially ranks ninth in the hierarchy he is in practical terms about sixth, since the list includes two octogenarians and a politburo member who has long since disappeared from the public eye.

Above him are Mao, Chief of State Liu Shao-chi, Premier Chou En-lai, Defence Minister Lin Piao, and party General Secretary Ten Hsiao-ping.

Before his dismissal he was the immediate superior of two writers most heavily criticized in the current campaign against some intellectuals — Committee Secretary Teng To and Peking Vice-Mayor Wu Han.

Burly and jovial-looking, Peng Chen is one of China's most able and forceful officials.

He was sent to represent China at an international Communist conference in Bucharest in 1960 called by former Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev to rally support for his policy of co-existence.

Pictures Lacking Surprises

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Surveyor I radioed its second long stream of pictures from the moon early today—photos of itself and lunar terrain. They contained no surprises.

Some of the second series were out of focus, hurriedly taken to speed the camera on a full-circle sweep of the landing site — the Sea of Storms near the moon's equator.

Others of the series were remarkably detailed, some showing items as small as one-eighth of an inch. Scientists, after studying results of the full-circle sweep, plan later to turn the camera back to snap interesting areas.

The 620-pound spacecraft settled gently on its three shock-absorbing legs early Wednesda after a successful 63-hour voyage of more than 250,000 miles.

CALLED SIGNIFICANT

The feat was hailed as a significant advance in the race to land men on the lunar surface by 1970.

It also brought from President Johnson, along with praise, a renewed call for preserving the reaches of space for peaceful scientific activities.

Like Wednesday's series of 144 pictures, those from Surveyor today showed the undamaged spacecraft, the terrain around it and the distant horizon.

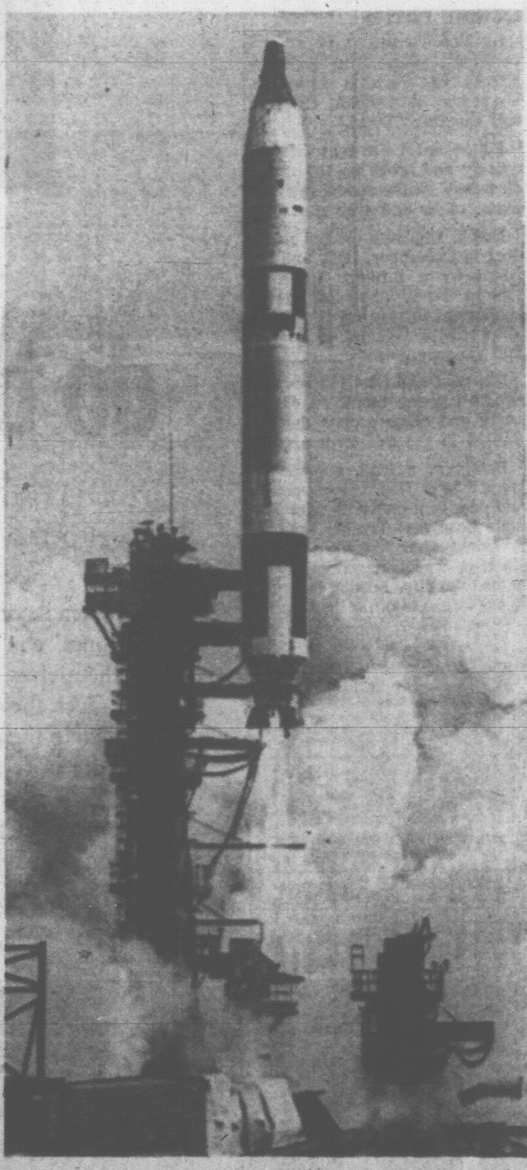
One shot of the horizon 1½ miles away showed small craters in the distance.

Another, aimed almost straight down at the ground, five feet away, depicted gravel-like objects on the apparently hard - packed surface. Some were one-eighth to one-half inch in diameter.

Siamese Twins Born

TORONTO (CP)—Officials at the Hospital for Sick Children reported today that Siamese twins, born in Guelph, Ont., Thursday night, are in satisfactory condition.

The twins, both girls, were born to Mrs. Leonard McGhee, 25, and were brought here by ambulance under police escort. They were in critical condition overnight.



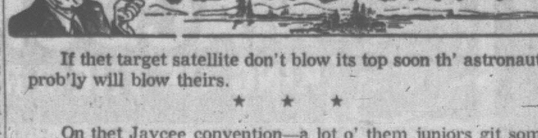
ENDING A FRUSTRATING 17-day jinx, the Gemini 9 spacecraft blasted off early this morning aboard a powerful Titan 2 rocket. But the "hard luck" which has plagued the mission continued when astronauts Thomas Stafford and Eugene Cernan discovered a protective covering on a target satellite failed to drop off. This development may cancel the "hookup" part of the three-day mission. (AP Wirephoto.)

Veteran Holds Lead

DUBLIN (Reuters) — Veteran statesman Eamon de Valera—one of the last surviving leaders of the 1916 Easter rising which wrenched Ireland from 300 years of British rule—today scraped to victory in the republic's presidential elections by a mere 10,500 votes.

De Valera, 83, who said it was his final election campaign, won his second seven-year term as head of state after his challenger, Tom O'Higgins, conceded defeat shortly after midnight Thursday night.

O'Higgins, a 49-year-old lawyer, polled strongly in urban areas, ousting his U.S.-born opponent by large majorities in all six of the capital's constituencies. Final figures for the nation gave De Valera 558,808 votes and O'Higgins 548,240.



If thet target satellite don't blow its top soon th' astronauts prob'ly will blow theirs.

Gemini 10 To Go Up July 18

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) The smoke around the launch pad barely cleared today in the wake of Gemini 9 before crews began clearing debris in preparation for launching Gemini 10, now scheduled to blast off July 18.

The Titan II rocket that will carry Gemini 10 astronauts John W. Young and Michael Collins on a three-day rendezvous and space-walk mission is due to be erected Tuesday or Wednesday.

U.S. Navy Cmdr. Young and Air Force Maj. Collins plan to rendezvous with an Agena target satellite and carry out a lengthy space walk by Collins.

The Gemini 10 launch is scheduled in the mid-afternoon of July 18, when Gemini 10 can also be placed in a position to rendezvous with another target satellite already in orbit—the Agena launched for the Gemini 8 mission March 16.

★★★★ BULLETINS

Found to Blame

ST. JEROME, Que. (CP) — Andre Durocher, convicted hold-up man and Lucien Rivard's escape-mate, was found criminally responsible at a coroner's inquest today for the deaths of Andre Paquette and Alice Rioux. (See Page 36.)

Blast Kills Five

McARTHUR, Ohio (UPI)—An explosion ripped a dynamite manufacturing plant near here today, killing at least five persons.

To Send Troops

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine Senate, sitting in special session, voted by a 15-to-8 margin today to send troops to South Viet Nam. The bill appropriates $8,800,000 to finance the sending of a 2,000-man detachment to South Viet Nam.

IF ACTION RECIPROCAL

U.S. Willing To Stop North Raids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department today reiterated U.S. willingness to consider stopping the bombing of North Viet Nam if Hanoi indicated it would take some "reciprocal action."

The carefully worded statements were issued in reply to a published report in New York that the United States had sent word to Hanoi it would be willing to stop bombing the north if Hanoi stopped its infiltration, both under a system of international verification.

WITHDRAWAL

The state department's reference to North Vietnamese "activities" and "presence" in the south indicated the U.S. was interested not just in a halt in infiltration but in withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces from the south. North Viet Nam has 12 regiments there.

In another development relating to Viet Nam, high administration officials took the view that Buddhist uprisings in the south were a faltering bid for power and not as any real attempt to oust American forces from the embattled country.

FRENCHMAN OFF TO HANOI

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle will send Jean Sainteny, France's representative to North Viet Nam during the early days of the Viet Minh war, to Hanoi and Peking in a new effort to end the present Viet Nam war, informed sources said today.

New Fire Suicide Threatens Truce

SAIGON (AP)—The fire suicide of a Buddhist nun and pronouncements by two heirarchic leaders darkened prospects for South Viet Nam's precarious political truce today, Buddha's birthday.

The nun, 26, burned herself to death in the courtyard of a small pagoda in Da Nang. She was the sixth Buddhist to die in this fashion since Sunday in a wave of anti-government fanaticism.

Thich Tri Quang, the most outspoken and militant of the Buddhist leaders fighting Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime, announced at a press conference in Hue that he will order Buddhists to boycott any elections held by the government this year. He coupled the threat with bitter attacks on the government and on President Johnson for supporting it. Election of a constituent assembly is due Sept. 11.

In Saigon, the moderate head of the Buddhist Institute, Thich (venerable) Tam Chau, submitted his resignation, saying "I have failed." This imperilled the compromise formula agreed upon Wednesday for addition of 10 civilians to the ruling military directorate, for he was the chief Buddhist negotiator.

Monks said the nun, Thichnu Dieu Dinh, 26, left behind a letter for President Johnson charging that "Vietnamese Buddhists were annihilated by your policies in Viet Nam."

The suicide indicated the strong opposition among extremist Buddhists to a truce negotiated by Buddhist moderates with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime.

ROWERS AVERAGING 7 MILES A DAY

Puffin Catches Cutlass' Eye

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Two English journalists apparently are making some headway in their efforts to row across the Atlantic in a 15-foot rowboat.

David Johnstone, 34, and John Hoare, 29, were paid an unexpected visit Thursday and found out they had advanced 98 miles toward England since departing Virginia Beach May 21.

The radar of the submarine Cutlass spotted the rowboat named Puffin at a distance of about nine miles, prompting Lt.-Cmdr. Lewis B. Sykes to order his men to manoeuvre the sub to the rowboat's side.

Asked if they needed assistance, Hoare and Johnstone replied they were doing fine and had every intention of continuing with their venture.

Sykes told the pair they were 98 miles east-southeast of Cape Henry, a progress of 64 miles since they were last seen Saturday night.

The two hope to make the journey to St. Ives, England in 50 days by averaging 60 miles a day. Adverse winds during the early part of the trip has kept their average down to eight miles a day. Over the last 4½ days however, Hoare and Johnstone had upped their average to better than 14 miles a day.

COMPLETE NEWS PAGE SET IN TWO MINUTES

NEW YORK (AP)—Newspaper publishers meeting in Cleveland next week will get a look at a new electronic type-composing system introduced by the Radio Corporation of America.

The new process, called Videocomp, composes up to 600 characters a second, 900 lines a minute, and can set an entire newspaper page in two minutes, RCA said

Punched tape is fed into a computer which instantly separates, justifies, and hyphenates each line. A second tape, produced by the computer, is read electronically by the Videocomp typesetter and the lines are set on sensitized paper or film.

RCA will display the equipment at the production management conference of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, opening Sunday in Cleveland.

Videocomp, developed by a West German company, uses no metal fonts, matrices or photo masters. Each character is produced from a memory bank on a cathode ray tube—similar to television — and is directed through a lens to sensitized paper.

The reproduced type, on paper or film, can be used in printing by conventional offset lithography letterpress or gravure.

RCA is offering the units for fall delivery at $170,000 each or for a rental fee of $4,975 a month.

No Controls Over Press, Pearson Reply to Russia

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government has advised Soviet officials that it has no control over what the press of Canada prints, Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Friday.

He said this was the reply made to Soviet representations alleging an anti-Soviet campaign in Canadian newspapers. The Soviet Union was advised that newspapers can report what they want in a free society.

Mr. Pearson said at the same time "we are looking forward" to the visit of a group of Soviet parliamentarians soon. The government was not aware of any anti-Soviet provocations.

Replying to David Lewis (NDP—York South), Mr. Pearson said the Russians had brought the matter to the attention of the Canadian embassy in Moscow June 1. Later the Soviet embassy here made informal representations.

BLAMES GOVERNMENT

The Soviet protest note delivered in Moscow claimed that "some forces in Canada itself and outside" are trying to hinder Soviet-Canadian relations. It said the Canadian government had failed to take measures to halt the campaigns and promoted the unleashing of invented information about Soviet espionage.

Canadian observers regarded the note as a reaction to the Gerda Munsinger affair. The West German blonde was linked with Soviet espionage in her earlier years in press reports of the case.

The case of Mrs. Munsinger, now living in West Germany, rocked Parliament this spring following allegations by Justice Minister Cardin that she had liaisons with some cabinet ministers in the previous Conservative government.

A Moscow report said that the reference to provocations in the Soviet note appeared to be a resurrection of old charges of RCMP harassment of Soviet embassy employees in Ottawa.

In any event, the tenor of Mr. Pearson's remarks reinforced the view that the visit of the Soviet delegation, scheduled for this month, will proceed as scheduled. The delegation is headed by First Deputy Premier Polyansky.

Four More Senators Retire

OTTAWA (CP)—Four senators over the age of 75 have retired, bringing the number of vacancies in the Senate to 11, it was announced Wednesday.

The retiring senators, all Liberals, are Mrs. Marina Jodoin, 84, of Montreal; William H. Taylor, 76, Brantford; Thomas Alexander Crerar, 89, Winnipeg; and Clarence Veniot, 80, Bathurst, N.B.

The retirements brought to 12 the number of aged senators who have left on an $8,000 annual allowance since the Senate retirement act became law a year ago.

CHOICE

A total of 27 senators who were 75 and over when the act came into force had until midnight Wednesday to choose between retirement and serving out their life appointments at $15,000 a year.

Those appointed in the last year and all future senators will be required to retire at 75, the same as federal judges.

The 11 vacant seats are distributed among seven provinces. Quebec has three vacancies, Ontario and Newfoundland two apiece and Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Manitoba one each.

Senate standings now are Liberals 57, Conservatives 31, Independents two and Independent Liberal one. There are 102 seats.

'B.C. RAIN NO JOKING MATTER'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lands and Forests Minister Williston says British Columbia's abundant rainfall is no joking matter.

Mr. Williston said Thursday that the province receives annually about 40 per cent of all the water that falls on Canada.

"Some people like to joke about our climate, but the shortage of water in the western United States has demonstrated the comparative wealth of an area with ample rainfall."

Strike Cuts No Grass With Them

VANCOUVER (CP) — The lawn at city hall was cut Thursday for the first time since a strike of outside workers began 27 days ago.

About 25 Simon Fraser University students did the job, watched by about 14 union pickets.

Ross McDonald, 21, of West Vancouver, said it was a spontaneous protest. "We got fed up with the strike," he said.

Stuart Westie, 18, of Burnaby, said the group believed union demands for a 70 cent increase over three years on a basic hourly wage of $2.28½ were unreasonable and unfair.

"They refuse any real negotiation," he said.

Blue-eyed UBC co-ed Dulcie Brimacombe, 19, hitched a ride from West Vancouver and began cutting the grass Thursday in 1,000-acre Stanley Park.

"I'll do it all week," she said, "because this place is a mess."

Meanwhile, the graduating class of Prince of Wales High School planned to tidy up overflowing downtown garbage refuse containers tonight.

Resourceful Ways, Means Committee

The ways and means committee of the Victoria New Democratic Party came up with its own ways and means during the electrical blackout in the Fairfield district Wednesday night

About dinner was sitting in the oven for 40 persons when the power gave out. Luckily, it was well wrapped in foil to conserve heat.

Resourceful members turned up a camping stove for boiling tea on the patio of 1337 Fairfield, home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lloyd Brereton.

Toone Praises Work Done By Travellers

Victoria Mayor A. W. Toone today praised the work done in connection with retarded children by the northwest branches of United Commercial Travellers of America.

Some 350 delegates were in attendance for the 68th annual convention of Washington, Oregon and B.C. Grand Council of UCTA in the Empress Hotel.

Welcoming delegates, Mayor Toone mentioned the work done by the Victoria branch in connection with building of the new retarded children's centre.

He said they had paid for the heating system, in addition to raising $5,000 locally in the past three years by means of wishing wells.

Business sessions continue today and Saturday.

Tea Proceeds To Buy Equipment

The B Troop Scouts of the Third Fort Victoria (Emmanuel Baptist) Group will hold a tea Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the church hall, 1900 Fernwood.

A recently formed troop directed by scoutmaster Donaldson Jordan, the group is small and still in the experimental stages.

Its chief aim is to bring scouting to mentally handicapped and slow learning boys.

Proceeds will help purchase camping equipment.

Archbishop To Mark 31st Year

Archbishop Harold Sexton, head of the Anglican church in British Columbia, will commemorate 31 years' service to the province on June 29.

On that date, in 1935, he was consecrated Coadjutor-Bishop of the diocese of British Columbia in Christ Chruch Cathedral, Victoria.

He celebrated his 78th birthday last May 14.

"I plan to continue in office as long as I am needed," the archbishop said. "Mrs. Sexton and I have come to regard Victoria as home and we have many good friends here."

The archbishop was born at Adelaide, South Australia, and served overseas as a chaplain with the Australian Army from 1916 to 1919.

After the war, he studied at Keble College, Oxford, then returned to Australia as vicar of St. Martin's, Hawksburn, Melbourne.

BACK TO ENGLAND

In 1924 he returned to England as a speaker for the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel and from 1925 to 1927 was curate at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster — the parish church of the House of Commons.

During this time he was friendly with Sir Winston Churchill and many famous parliamentarians.

He was vicar of All Saints' Church, Upper Norwood, London, for seven years before coming to Victoria.

Court Halts Picketing Of Texas Farms

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex. (UPI)—Striking farm laborers who tried to tie up four major Rio Grande Valley farms were under court direction today to stop their picketing.

Dist. Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin issued a court order Thursday that he said would continue 10 days. He called a hearing for June 13 for the laborers' union representatives to show cause why the court order should not be made permanent.

So far, growers at four farms being picketed in the Rio Grande City area of the Texas Rio Grande valley were content to wait out the strike by workers who want $1.25 an hour instead of 50 cents an hour to pick melons.

Peter Mason Wins Drill Competition

Lt.-Col. C. L. Kirby, commanding officer of the First Battalion of the Queen's Own Rifles, was on hand Wednesday at St. Michael's School to present cups to the winners in the school's drill competition.

Peter Mason won the open event in the competition, David Stevenson finished first in the under nine age group, Harry Fowler in the under 10 age group, Timothy Wiggins in the under 11½ group, and Larry Straith in the under 13½ age group.

Blue House was the winning house.

United Unions Win Vote Test

VANCOUVER — A tri-union group has defeated the Mine, Mill and Smelters' Union (Ind.) for the right to represent 37 employees of a Vancouver Island mining company.

The union group, composed of the tunnel and rock workers, the International Union of Operating engineers and the Teamsters' Union, won the right to represent the Orecan Mining Ltd. employees in a provincial government-supervised vote.

The employees voted 21-16 in favor of the three-union group.

The Steelworkers' Union, which also sought the right to represent the employees, did not recieve any votes. Orecan operates an open-face iron mine 38 miles north of Campbell River.

New Efforts Stalled

MONTREAL (CP) — Efforts to end the four-week strike of longshoremen at three St. Lawrence River ports stalled today as scheduled meetings between representatives of the strikers' union and 11 stevedoring companies did not take place.

UBC RITES

Big Class Teaching Under Fire

VANCOUVER (CP) — The size of the student body and the need to give individual attention to students are the greatest problems facing Canadian universities today, says the retiring chancellor of the University of British Columbia.

Mrs. Frank Ross told 510 students receiving degrees at Thursday's second session of the three-day spring convocation that teaching — "The most sensitive of human connections." — cannot be accomplished successfully by mass methods.

"Somehow we must find systems, methods and techniques to ensure that the mature mind meets the maturing mind — personally, directly and effectively."

Three honorary degrees were given Thursday.

Sir John Carew Eccles, professor of neurophysiology at the Australian National University in Canberra and a Nobel prize winner in medicine, was awarded an honorary doctor of science degree.

External Affairs Minister Martin, who was cited for maintaining his department above politics and for his work in the Cyprus conflict, was made an honorary doctor of laws.

And Dr. G. Neil Perry, deputy minister of education in British Columbia, was given an honorary doctor of laws degree. He is a former vice-president of UBC.

Cominco Offer Turned Down

TRAIL (CP) — About 4,000 hourly-paid employees of Cominco Ltd. have rejected the latest company offer, it was announced Thursday by the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

A decision on a strike vote would be made following a June 7 meeting with the company and a government conciliation offer, said a union spokesman.

Policemen Acquitted

TORONTO (CP)—Two former Toronto policemen were acquitted of criminal charges Tuesday in the May 11 shooting of a singer in a downtown tavern. Dennis Ewaniuk, 23, was acquitted of a charge of criminal negligence and Constable Michael Walker, 22, was acquitted of charges of possessing a firearm without a permit. Ewaniuk was examining a gun when it went off and the bullet hit entertainer Kell Winzel.

China Woos Castro

TOKYO (AP)—China made an open move Thursday to mend its relations with Fidel Castro's Cuba and charged that Moscow is betraying the Cuban people. An article in the official Peking People's Daily claimed the Russians are not really supporting the Cubans in recent incidents at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo. It said China is Cuba's "most faithful and dependable" friend.
